STATE SENATE PASSES LIQUOR BILL

PEEK CHOSEN FOR NEW JOB BY PRESIDENT

DISPUTE IN FARM ADMINISTRATION ADJUSTED

BY SAM BLEDSOE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—A compromise was reached today on the farm administration controversy through the selection by President Roosevelt of George N. Peek, the farm administrator, to head an organization which will try to find foreign markets for farm commodities.

Peek will leave the farm administration soon. His successor is to be Chester C. Davis, production chief.

Several of those who supported Peek in his differences with Secretary Wallace, Assistant Secretary Tugwell and others will follow him out of the farm administration, among them several who hold high places.

Couldn't Agree

Peek decided to quit as farm administrator last week after he and Secretary Wallace broke openly over policies.

Peek did not make his decision known until the White House conference today in which Acting Secretary Morgenthau, Jesse H. Jones, of the reconstruction corporation, Secretary Wallace, Joseph H. Choate, Jr., head of the alcohol control administraion, Acting Secretary Phillips of the state department and other high officials participated.

Both he and Wallace hurried from the White House to a train bound for Chicago where they are to speak tomorrow at a meeting of the American farm bureau federation.

[illegible] the White House issued a formal statement that said Peek would head the export organization.

For the time being it will be a "temporary committee to recommend permanent machinery to coordinate all governmental relations to American foreign trade."

Sees Opportunities

The committee is to make its report in about two weeks and then the permanent organization which Peek will direct is to be formed.

Meanwhile, the temporary committee will include the members of the interdepartmental advisory board on reciprocal treaties and the interdepartmental trade policy committee, both formed within the Roosevelt administration to map out and promote foreign trade policies.

The statement said that as far back as last March Mr. Roosevelt discussed with Peek the prospects for reopening foreign markets for agricultural surpluses but that a program of domestic restriction of production was decided upon at the time.

"Now," the White House statement said, "the time has come to initiate the second part of the program and to correlate the two parts, the internal adjustment of production with such effective foreign purchasing power as may be developed by reciprocal tariffs, barter and other international arrangements."

Tugwell Blamed

Peek's committee probably will assist the state department, the farm administration and the alcohol control administration in finding news markets for American agricultural products and in eliminating barriers, or negotiat-

CHACO VICTORY IS CELEBRATED

Paraguayan Forces Take 13,000 Bolivians in Warfare

Asuncion, Paraguay, Dec. 11 (AP) Celebrants marched through flag-decorated streets tonight as the defense ministry announced officially the capture of more than 13,000 Bolivian soldiers in victories in the Chaco boreal.

The ministry issued three successive communiques declaring Paraguayan forces had captured:

(1)—The Bolivian calvary [illegible] with its commanding officer, Lieut. Col. Vidal Aranibar, six lieutenants and six sub-lieutenants.

(2)—The Bolivian 20th regiment, "the Loa," and the Bolivian 21st regiment, "the Abaroa," a total of 1,500 men and their complete personnel of officers in an engagement in which 600 Bolivians were killed;

(3)—The Bolivian fourth and ninth army divisions with 10,500 men and more than 700 officers, as well as a large quantity of munitions.

The municipality invited all business houses to close for a fiesta of celebration and to permit all civilians to assist in the victory celebration.

The capture of the fourth and ninth divisions originally was reported unofficially but later the defense ministry confirmed the report officially.

BUREAU BACKS FARM POLICIES

Roosevelt Is Optimistic In Message Sent to Federation

Chicago, Dec. 11 (AP) The American Farm Bureau Federation today received a message of agricultural optimism from President Roosevelt, and responded with expressions of staunch support from its leaders for the president's program of farm recovery.

Although declaring that "we seem to be on our way," the president's message admonished that full support and complete cooperation from the farmers were essential to final success.

Even before the presidential message was read to the assemblage of 1,000 farmers by their leader, Edward A. O'Neal, Alabama cotton farmer and head of the federation, the convention was reported as firmly in support of Roosevelt and his policies.

The resolutions committee was reported to have drafted a resolution expressing such sentiment, and calling upon the president to continue his program without deviation. Another resolution was reported to ask that congress consider seriously the possibility of remonetization of silver, which O'Neal advocated in his opening address.

Scheduled to address the convention tomorrow were Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and George N. Peek. Leaders of the federation thus hoped to learn first hand the details of the controversy between Wallace and Peek over conduct of the AAA.

Discussing the problem of burdensome taxation, Governor Paul V. McNutt of Indiana reviewed for the convention today his state's plan for "broadening the tax base" and reducing the load on real estate. He said gross income sales, manufacturing, and wholesaling taxes had given the solution.

Boy Extortionist Put On Probation

Charlevoix, Dec. 11 (AP) Gerald Carney, 14 year old school boy accused by police of writing threatening letters to William P. Porter, millionaire East Jordan lumberman, was placed on probation for four years today in juvenile court by Judge E. A. Ruegsegger.

Carney, who authorities said wrote Porter a letter demanding $150 and threatening him with death if the sum were not forthcoming, had a clear record previously. Department of justice agents declined to prosecute under United States postal laws.

COWBOY ADMITS KIDNAP MURDER

Killed Wichita Couple to Avoid Trouble on Bad Check

Hutchinson, Kans., Dec. 11 (AP) Jack Wisdom, 26, a cowboy, signed a statement this afternoon, Assistant County Attorney Eli Eubanks announced, that he kidnaped and killed Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pritchard of Wichita, Kans.

The statement, obtained at the Kansas state reformatory where Wisdom is held for safe-keeping, did not mention "Buck" Smith, who Wisdom had stated earlier killed the couple while he looked on.

Wisdom, according to the statement, shot the couple to death and hid the bodies in Oklahoma because he feared prosecution on a worthless check for $21.40 which he had given the Wichita merchant.

The cowboy was under heavy guard.

Pritchard's body was found today beneath a culvert near El Reno, Okla., soon after Wisdom was rushed from Kingfisher, Okla., to Kansas for safekeeping. His wife's body was discovered yesterday in a culvert near Bison, Okla.

Wisdom was quoted as confessing he had a dual motive robbery and retaliation for a threat by Pritchard to prosecute unless he made good a check given at Pritchard's store in Wichita which was returned marked "no funds."

Mindful of recent lynchings in San Jose, Cal., and St. Joseph, Mo., Governor William H. Murray of Oklahoma called out his national guardsmen last night to forestall possible mob violence.

Wisdom was brought here secretly, and Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas expressed determination today to thwart any attempt to establish "lynch law" by calling out the Kansas guard if necessary.

League Observers For Pan-American Group Postponed

BY G. D. SEYMOUR
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Montevideo, Uruguay, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Associated Press learned today that leaders have agreed to postpone until the next Pan-American conference the question of seating an official observer for the League of Nations.

This stand was taken in view of the fact that no formal request for the credentials was received from the league. The conference normally meets every wour years.

This developed after a three-hour debate in a sub-commission of the steering committee on the proposal of Cordell Hull, secretary of state of the United States, that a policy committee be formed to consider credentials for the league.

WORK BEGINS ON DRAFTING 1935 BUDGET

EMERGENCY FUNDS PUT BIG SLICE IN TREASURY

BL RICHARD L. TURNER
((Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP) The problem of gauging expenditures for the next fiscal year—what outlays are to be continued, what new moves undertaken—came to the front today as President Roosevelt and his fiscal advisors went to work on the government's 1935 budget.

Lewis Douglas, director of the budget bureau, who favors a "pay as you go policy," took the White House tentative figures calling for disbursements of $2,600,000,000 between July 1, 1934, and June 30, 1935, with receipts loosely estimated at $3,550,000,000 leaving a margin of nearly a billion for unexpected needs and reductions of the nation's debt.

Gold Price Unchanged

The two were joined by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., acting secretary of the treasury, who is new to the problem of federal finances but has made a close study of budgetary needs since assuming command of the department three weeks ago.

A short while before, Morgenthau had announced another continuation of the domestic newly mined gold price at $34.01. It has been unchanged since December 1, with new and unrevealed safeguards in effect to prevent the figure from becoming known in financial centers before its official publication here. Meanwhile, officials silently continued their investigation of a report that the gold price had gotten out ahead of time.

Back Silver Coinage

While the week-end brought assurances from several quarters, including Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, an exponent of inflation, that no move for mandatory inflation was planned for the coming session of congress, Senator Pittman of Nevada, champion of silver, today asserted remonetization of the white metal would be ordered by congress unless the president acted in the meanwhile.

Predicting the silver advocates would introduce measures ranging from free and unlimited coinage to governmental purchases of silver bullion, the senator said he was willing to compromise. He suggested "a bill providing for the coinage of silver dollars from all silver mined after the passage of the bill," which he said, would add approximately $30,000,000 to our currency, and provide a "mild inflation."

Douglas' disposition has been to throw his influence against huge emergency expenditures and work toward a more normal budget.

The president has shown a desire to put government money to work wherever there is promise that such action will help the unemployed. How deeply this apparent rift runs was not disclosed in the opening conferences on the 1935 budget.

Public Works Big Item

Of great importance and vagueness among the emergency expenditures is the amount that the reconstruction corporation will need. Its life officially expires in January.

Parole Is Denied Liquor Violator; Record Not Good

Lansing, Dec. 11 (AP)—Henry Sass, Ionia factory worker reported as sentenced to 15 months imprisonment for "giving a man a drink," will stay in prison, Governor Comstock decided today.

Instead of being the innocent victim of circumstances, Sass has been a consistent violator of the law and has a bad record, the governor said. He alleged Sass sold liquor to intoxicated persons and otherwise collided with law and order. The governor investigated the case and said the trial judge was entirely justified. He said no pardon will be granted. George E. Nichols, Ionia county prosecutor, informed the governor of Sass' record.

WELFARE FUNDS DENIED SCHOOLS

Governor Will Submit Emergency Measure to Legislature

Lansing, Dec. 11 (AP) A proposal by the legislature that $12,000,000 appropriated from sales tax revenues for welfare relief be diverted to school aid was described as impractical by welfare officials today. Following their report Governor Comstock said he probably will not recommend such a diversion, but will submit to the legislature a school emergency. It is expected to provide for the appropriation of liquor and other revenues to a school fund.

Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, wired the governor that no federal funds will be advanced to Michigan if the state appropriation is abolished. Fred R. Johnson, state relief administrator, filed a report with the executive declaring the state fund should be continued.

The information was obtained by the governor following the adoption by the house of a resolution urging the diversion of the $12,000,000 appropriation to needy school districts if civil works administration funds were sufficient to meet relief needs.

Johnson's report said that the CWA is expected to cut welfare costs to about $2,500,000 in December in Michigan compared with more than $4,000,000 in October. With statistics for the month still incomplete, Johnson estimated that November expenditures were reduced to $3,600,000 by the federal program.

There were 155,372 families on relief rolls in October, the report showed, with the state bearing $1,007,033 of a total cost of $4,053,366. For the period, April through October, the total cost amounted to $25,729,343 of which $3,134,192 was paid by the state, $20,867,065 by the federal government, and $1,727,085 by local communities.

Lynching Called Murder By Judge

St. Joseph, Mo., Dec. 11 (AP) In a stern denunciation of lynch law, Circuit Judge J. V. Gaddy told a special grand jury today that every person who was active in the mob that lynched Lloyd Warner, negro youth, the night of November 28 "is guilty of murder in the first degree."

The jurist called upon the grand jury to return indictments.

Prison Criticisms Denied at Lansing

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 13 (AP) Members of the state prison commission and officials of the institutions joined today in denying many of the charges contained in the report of the survey made by the Osborne Association, Inc., of New York, which criticized many phases of Michigan's prison administration and predicted the possibility of violence within the penitentiary walls.

Those alleged defects which were not denied generally, were asserted to have been corrected insofar as possible.

Warden Peter F. Gray, of the Michigan state penitentiary at Jackson, said the report of the Osborne association was based on conditions found during a survey made on July 27 and 28, 1931, during the regime of Warden Harry H. Jackson and Deputy Warden Leonard McCoy.

"The morale here," Warden Gray said, "is higher than at any time in the prison's history, and the men, far from being intractable, are cooperating splendidly with the management in its efforts to ameliorate the worst features of unemployment."

O. K. Fjetland, executive secretary to Governor Comstock, and W. Alfred Debo, parole commissioner, both members of the prison commission, criticized the report. Fjetland said the report was virtually the same as that of the Wickersham commission a few years ago and added that unemployment in Michigan's prison was at its lowest point in years.

Debo said prison officials recognize the importance of the employment program but faced a severe handicap in the enactment of the federal Horace Cooper law curbing industry in the prisons.

Warden Gray in his statement said that the size of the prison at Jackson "is justly criticised, but I do not see what can be done about it. The prison was planned by former Governor Groesbeck and completed by Governors Green and Brucker. Its size is a lamentable fact, not an alterable theory."

The warden said many of the conditions upon which the report commented critically have been corrected by the present administration, but added that the unemployment situation while improved to some extent, "is still a most difficult problem and one that can be satisfactorily corrected only when the general public alters its present prejudice against prison labor."

MICHIGAN HAS 10 DEATHS IN ROAD MISHAPS

TEMPERATURE HITS 16 BELOW FOR WISCONSIN

(By The Associated Press)

Blizzards, floods and zero weather left a trail of death and destruction across the nation yesterday.

Six persons dead, one person missing, hundreds homeless and property damage of more than a million dollars in the Pacific Northwest.

Four dead at Bellefonte, Pa., after a train and an automobile [illegible] in a snow storm.

Three burned to death in a dance hall fire at Hampden, Me., which raged at the height of a blizzard.

Two dead from cold in Philadelphia; one in Delaware, another in Baltimore.

Snow in East

Snow blanketed most of the eastern seaboard, snowslides blocked transportation in northwest, and the mercury touched 24 degrees below zero in Owls Head, New York; western Wisconsin reported a temperature of 16 below; North Dakota, 14; Minnesota, 23 below.

In the Alleghanies in western Pennsylvania, two transcontinental and western mail planes crashed to earth, their wings burdened with ice. The pilots bailed out to safety.

Although some relief from frigid weather was promised some sections of the east today, weather bureau officials expected the mercury to drop even lower in many of the nation's largest cities.

In Detroit tonight the mercury was expected to drop to between zero and five degrees above while in the northern portions of Michigan temperatures of as low as five below were expected.

First relief, forecasters said, will be felt in the north central and northeastern states, in which slowly rising temperatures were promised today. Throughout the region, said weather statisticians, the temperature had been "much below normal."

Forecasts of new minimums last night had sent anticipatory shivers from Chicago to Boston.

Down to Zero

Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Baltimore and Louisville had been warned to expect a drop of from five to 10 degrees, and the western states were notified the night would bring "severe cold."

The cold snap swept suddenly away the mild weather which Colorado, Montana and Wyoming had enjoyed. In all the mercury last night was bound for zero, with snow predicted today.

Three of the six deaths in Michigan traceable to weather conditions occurred over the week-end in Allegan county. Leona Janse, 16, and Henrietta Tein, both of Martin, Mich., died after being struck by a skidding car. David

"WHITE COLLAR" JOBS PROMISED

New Federal Statistical Projects to Employ 17,724 Workers

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP) The civil works administration announced today six new federal projects which officials said were planned to take care of 17,724 white collar workers under the supervision of three federal departments.

Harry L. Hopkins, administrator, said he had authorized hiring of 1,033 workers for the bureau of labor statistics to make a study on employment and payrolls; 1,834 to be used by the census bureau to make a study on tax delinquency and the overlapping functions of government units; 14,857 to be employed by the bureau of agricultural economics on four studies.

The division of agricultural finance of the agricultural economic bureau will use 12,202 on a tax delinquency study dealing with land utilization and taxation policy and on farm mortgage financing. The crop and livestock division will employ 3,449 to collect information on prices of commodities farmers buy; the cotton marketing division will use 193 to compile cotton price statistics and the foreign competition and demand division will use 13 to compile statistics on foreign trades in agricultural products.

BRANDED KILLER

Accused by his wife of beating their 3-year-old son to death, Donald K. Smith, 30, above, Littleton, Col., farmer, was spirited away to Denver for safety when a crowd gathered at the Littleton jail, causing fears of possible lynching. The slain child is shown below.

WYNEKOOP WILL ASSIST MOTHER

Young Widower Released from Charges of Slaying Wife

Chicago, Dec. 11 (AP)—Shortly after Earle Wynekoop, 27, was released today from state charges in connection with the strange operating room death of his young wife, Rheta, he visited his accused mother and promised to devote himself to efforts to obtain her vindication of the slaying.

With his brother, Walker, the young widower rushed to the county jail after the state freed him by a surprise nolle prosse to a charge of being an accessory to the mysterious death. The prosecution said it was unable to connect Earle with the death.

His meeting with Dr. Alice Wynekoop occurred in an elevator. On the third floor as Walker and Earle went up, the car stopped. A cot was wheeled in bearing the accused physician on her way from her quarters to the infirmary. It was the first time they had seen each other since her indictment for the slaying several days ago. He had been held in jail on the accessory charge.

"My son!" she called as Earle stooped over the cot to embrace her. She has been ill since she was placed in jail, but doctors said her condition was much improved.

Detroit Banking Inquiry Delayed

Detroit, Dec. 11 (AP)—The probability arose today that the senate committee on banking and currency, investigating the closing of Detroit's two large national banks, will hold its final hearing in Washington on December 19 instead of December 18 as planned.

David Saperstein, assistant to Ferdinand Pecora, counsel to the sub-committee, said the one-day postponement was probable because of the large amount of data collected here by investigators working on the closing of the First National Bank-Detroit, and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce.

Negaunee Man Gets Republic Mine Job

Youngstown, O., Dec. 11 (AP)—R. J. Wysor, Republic Steel Corp. vice president, today announced the appointment of John H. Nelson of Negaunee, Mich., as general manager of the company's Lake Superior district at Duluth.

Mr. Nelson, who was general superintendent for the Marquette range properties of Republic, succeeds F. J. Webb, who died last week.

TABLETS FATAL

Niles, Mich. (AP) Mrs. Hester Blair, 44, of Tulsa, Okla., died in a hospital Monday. Robert Roebeck, its ive of the peace, said she had taken an overdose of sleeping tablets intentionally. Mrs. Blair had come to Niles for treatment of her eyes.

LOWER HOUSE WILL REJECT THE MEASURE

DEBATE SPIRITED; MARGIN ONLY 17 TO 14

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 11. (AP)—The senate tonight passed the legislative liquor control bill by the slender margin of 17 to 14 votes, returning the measure to the house for concurrence in amendments. The larger chamber upon meeting tomorrow afternoon is expected to reject the heavily amended bill.

The bill then will go to a conference committee. Members gave the bill immediate effect after a previous vote had rejected a motion to put the measure into effect at once. The bill was passed amid a final spirited debate.

Derham, Doyle Vote No

Against: Derham, Doyle, Foster, Gorman, Heidcamp, Karwick, Leidlein, Leland, Moore, Palmer, Reid, Ruft, Town, Upjohn—14.

Senator Ray Derham, Republican, Iron Mountain, introduced an amendment which would have permitted the purchase of liquor in drug stores throughout the state to anyone who signed an affidavit that he was ill. First adopted by a vote of 18 to 12, the amendment finally was defeated, 16 to 15.

An amendment was adopted to permit the sale of beer on holidays, Sundays and election days. It altered an amendment passed earlier in the day prohibiting the sale of all alcoholic beverages on those days.

Revenue Complicated

An amendment was adopted limiting the number of establishments to sell liquor to one for each 1,000 population in the various localities. Another change incorporated in the bill denies the right to retail liquor to chain stores with charters in states other than Michigan.

The complicated revenue provisions of the bill remained intact in the face of four separate attempts to amend them. The liquor revenue, as the bill now stands will be given school districts as loans, to be repaid as money under the $15,000,000 appropriation by the last legislature becomes available. It then goes into the old age pension fund.

The senators defeated an amendment which would have placed a state liquor dispensary in every county of 25,000 population or over. Under present provisions, a state store is provided only in counties of 75,000 or more.

Bill Ridiculed

The bill will be sent to the house, where it will be received officially at 2 p. m. The house then will vote on its acceptance as amended by the senate. Senate leaders predicted that it would not be accepted. In that event the bill will be returned to the senate with a request for a joint conference of the two bodies to iron out differences.

Senators openly ridiculed the bill as it was passed tonight. Sen. John Leidlein, Democrat, Saginaw, said "I am ashamed to send this bill to the house," while Sen W. F. Doyle, Republican, Menominee, recommended that it be called the "Marx, Hitler and Mussolini bill."

There was some controversy about the number of votes necessary to pass the bill. Sen. Joseph C. Foster, Republican, Lansing contended that inasmuch as it provided for local appropriations, a two-thirds majority was necessary for passage. Lieut. Gov. Allen E. Stebbins announced that he had obtained a ruling from the attorney general and from Governor Comstock's legal advisor that a majority vote only was necessary.

Peninsula Favored

After prolonged debate over the issue, the senate adopted amendments permitting glass

Montevideo, Uruguay, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Associated Press learned today that leaders have agreed to postpone until the next Pan-American conference the question of seating an official observer for the League of Nations.

This stand was taken in view of the fact that no formal request for the credentials was received from the league. The conference normally meets every wour years.

This developed after a three-hour debate in a sub-commission of the steering committee on the proposal of Cordell Hull, secretary of state of the United States, that a policy committee be formed to consider credentials for the league.

WORK BEGINS ON DRAFTING 1935 BUDGET

BL RICHARD L. TURNER
((Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—The problem of gauging expenditures for the next fiscal year—what outlays are to be continued, what new moves undertaken—came to the front today as President Roosevelt and his fiscal advisors went to work on the government's 1935 budget.

Lewis Douglas, director of the budget bureau, who favors a "pay as you go policy," took the White House tentative figures calling for disbursements of $2,600,000,000 between July 1, 1934, and June 30, 1935, with receipts loosely estimated at $3,550,000,000 leaving a margin of nearly a billion for unexpected needs and reductions of the nation's debt.

Gold Price Unchanged

The two were joined by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., acting secretary of the treasury, who is new to the problem of federal finances but has made a close study of budgetary needs since assuming command of the department three weeks ago.

A short while before, Morgenthau had announced another continuation of the domestic newly mined gold price at $34.01. It has been unchanged since December 1, with new and unrevealed safeguards in effect to prevent the figure from becoming known in financial centers before its official publication here. Meanwhile, officials silently continued their investigation of a report that the gold price had gotten out ahead of time.

Back Silver Coinage

While the week-end brought assurances from several quarters, including Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, an exponent of inflation, that no move for mandatory inflation was planned for the coming session of congress, Senator Pittman of Nevada, champion of silver, today asserted remonetization of the white metal would be ordered by congress unless the president acted in the meanwhile.

Predicting the silver advocates would introduce measures ranging from free and unlimited coinage to governmental purchases of silver bullion, the senator said he was willing to compromise. He suggested "a bill providing for the coinage of silver dollars from all silver mined after the passage of the bill," which he said, would add approximately $30,000,000 to our currency, and provide a "mild inflation."

Douglas' disposition has been to throw his influence against huge emergency expenditures and work toward a more normal budget.

The president has shown a desire to put government money to work wherever there is promise that such action will help the unemployed. How deeply this apparent rift runs was not disclosed in the opening conferences on the 1935 budget.

Public Works Big Item

Of great importance and vagueness among the emergency expenditures is the amount that the reconstruction corporation will need. Its life officially expires in January,

Prison Criticisms Denied at Lansing

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 13 (AP)—Members of the state prison commission and officials of the institutions joined today in denying many of the charges contained in the report of the survey made by the Osborne Association, Inc., of New York, which criticized many phases of Michigan's prison administration and predicted the possibility of violence within the penitentiary walls.

Those alleged defects which were not denied generally, were asserted to have been corrected insofar as possible.

Warden Peter F. Gray, of the Michigan state penitentiary at Jackson, said the report of the Osborne association was based on conditions found during a survey made on July 27 and 28, 1931, during the regime of Warden Harry H. Jackson and Deputy Warden Leonard McCoy.

"The morale here," Warden Gray said, "is higher than at any time in the prison's history, and the men, far from being intractable, are cooperating splendidly with the management in its efforts to ameliorate the worst features of unemployment."

O. K. Fjetland, executive secretary to Governor Comstock, and W. Alfred Debo, parole commissioner, both members of the prison commission, criticized the report. Fjetland said the report was virtually the same as that of the Wickersham commission a few years ago and added that unemployment in Michigan's prison was at its lowest point in years.

Debo said prison officials recognize the importance of the employment program but faced a severe handicap in the enactment of the federal Horace Cooper law curbing industry in the prisons.

Warden Gray in his statement said that the size of the prison at Jackson "is justly criticised, but I do not see what can be done about it. The prison was planned by former Governor Groesbeck and completed by Governors Green and Brucker. Its size is a lamentable fact, not an alterable theory."

The warden said many of the conditions upon which the report commented critically have been corrected by the present administration, but added that the unemployment situation while improved to some extent, "is still a most difficult problem and one that can be satisfactorily corrected only when the general public alters its present prejudice against prison labor."

Parole Is Denied Liquor Violator; Record Not Good

Lansing, Dec. 11 (AP)—Henry Sass, Ionia factory worker reported as sentenced to 15 months imprisonment for 'giving a man a drink," will stay in prison, Governor Comstock decided today.

Instead of being the innocent victim of circumstances, Sass has been a consistent violator of the law and has a bad record, the governor said. He alleged Sass sold liquor to intoxicated persons and otherwise collided with law and order. The governor investigated the case and said the trial judge was entirely justified. He said no pardon will be granted. George E. Nichols, Ionia county prosecutor, informed the governor of Sass' record.

WELFARE FUNDS DENIED SCHOOLS

Governor Will Submit Emergency Measure to Legislature

Lansing, Dec. 11 (AP)—A proposal by the legislature that $12,000,000 appropriated from sales tax revenues for welfare relief be diverted to school aid was described as impractical by welfare officials today. Following their report Governor Comstock said he probably will not recommend such a diversion, but will submit to the legislature a school emergency. It is expected to provide for the appropriation of liquor and other revenues to a school fund.

Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, wired the governor that no federal funds will be advanced to Michigan if the state appropriation is abolished. Fred R. Johnson, state relief administrator, filed a report with the executive declaring the state fund should be continued.

The information was obtained by the governor following the adoption by the house of a resolution urging the diversion of the $12,000,000 appropriation to needy school districts if civil works administration funds were sufficient to meet relief needs.

Johnson's report said that the CWA is expected to cut welfare costs to about $2,500,000 in December in Michigan compared with more than $4,000,000 in October. With statistics for the month still incomplete, Johnson estimated that November expenditures were reduced to $3,600,000 by the federal program.

There were 155,372 families on relief rolls in Otcober, the report showed, with the state bearing $1,007,033 of a total cost of $4,053,366. For the period, April through October, the total cost amounted to $25,729,343 of which $3,134,192 was paid by the state, $20,867,065 by the federal government, and $1,727,085 by local communities.

Lynching Called Murder By Judge

St. Joseph, Mo., Dec. 11 (AP)—In a stern denunciation of lynch law, Circuit Judge J. V. Gaddy told a special grand jury today that every person who was active in the mob that lynched Lloyd Warner, negro youth, the night of November 28 "is guilty of murder in the first degree."

The jurist called upon the grand jury to return indictments.

MICHIGAN HAS 10 DEATHS IN ROAD MISHAPS

TEMPERATURE HITS 16 BELOW FOR WISCONSIN

(By The Associated Press)

Blizzards, floods and zero weather left a trail of death and destruction across the nation yesterday.

Six persons dead, one person missing, hundreds homeless and property damage of more than a million dollars in the Pacific Northwest.

Four dead at Bellefonte, Pa., after a train and an automobile crashed in a snow storm.

Three burned to death in a dance hall fire at Hampden, Me., which raged at the height of a blizzard.

Two dead from cold in Philadelphia; one in Delaware, another in Baltimore.

Snow in East

Snow blanketed most of the eastern seaboard, snowslides blocked transportation in northwest, and the mercury touched 24 degrees below zero in Owls Head, New York; western Wisconsin reported a temperature of 16 below; North Dakota, 14; Minnesota, 23 below.

In the Alleghanies in western Pennsylvania, two transcontinental and western mail planes crashed to earth, their wings burdened with ice. The pilots bailed out to safety.

Although some relief from frigid weather was promised some sections of the east today, weather bureau officials expected the mercury to drop even lower in many of the nation's largest cities.

In Detroit tonight the mercury was expected to drop to between zero and five degrees above while in the northern portions of Michigan temperatures of as low as five below were expected.

First relief, forecasters said, will be felt in the north central and northeastern states, in which slowly rising temperatures were promised today. Throughout the region, said weather statisticians, the temperature had been "much below normal."

Forecasts of new minimums last night had sent anticipatory shivers from Chicago to Boston.

Down to Zero

Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Baltimore and Louisville had been warned to expect a drop of from five to 10 degrees, and the western states were notified the night would bring "severe cold."

The cold snap swept suddenly away the mild weather which Colorado, Montana and Wyoming had enjoyed. In all the mercury last night was bound for zero, with snow predicted today.

Three of the six deaths in Michigan traceable to weather conditions occurred over the week-end in Allegan county. Leona Janse, 16, and Henrietta Tein, both of Martin, Mich., died after being struck by a skidding car. David

"WHITE COLLAR" JOBS PROMISED

New Federal Statistical Projects to Employ 17,724 Workers

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—The civil works administration announced today six new federal projects which officials said were planned to take care of 17,724 white collar workers under the supervision of three federal departments.

Harry L. Hopkins, administrator, said he had authorized hiring of 1,033 workers for the bureau of labor statistics to make a study on employment and payrolls; 1,834 to be used by the census bureau to make a study on tax delinquency and the overlapping functions of government units; 14,857 to be employed by thte bureau of agricultural economics on four studies.

The division of agricultural finance of the agricultural economic bureau will use 12,202 on a tax delinquency study dealing with land utilization and taxation policy and on form mortgage financing. The crop and livestock division will employ 3,449 to collect information on prices of commodities farmers buy; the cotton marketing division will use 193 to compile cotton price statistics and the foreign competition and demand division will use 13 to compile statistics on foreign trades in agricultural products.

BRANDED KILLER

Accused by his wife of beating their 3-year-old son to death, Donald K. Smith, 30, above, Littleton, Col., farmer, was spirited away to Denver for safety when a crowd gathered at the Littleton jail, causing fears of possible lynching. The slain child is shown below.

WYNEKOOP WILL ASSIST MOTHER

Young Widower Released from Charges of Slaying Wife

Chicago, Dec. 11 (AP)—Shortly after Earle Wynekoop, 27, was released today from state charges in connection with the strange operating room death of his young wife, Rheta, he visited his accused mother and promised to devote himself to efforts to obtain her vindication of the slaying.

With his brother, Walker, the young widower rushed to the county jail after the state freed him by a surprise nolle prosse to a charge of being an accessory to the mysterious death. The prosecution said it was unable to connect Earle with the death.

His meeting with Dr. Alice Wynekoop occurred in an elevator. On the third floor as Walker and Earle went up, the car stopped. A cot was wheeled in bearing the accused physician on her way from her quarters to the infirmary. It was the first time they had seen each other since her indictment for the slaying several days ago. He had been held in jail on the accessory charge.

"My son!" she called as Earle stooped over the cot to embrace her. She has been ill since she was placed in jail, but doctors said her condition was much improved.

Detroit Banking Inquiry Delayed

Detroit, Dec. 11 (AP)—The probability arose today that the senate sub-committee on banking and currency, investigating the closing of Detroit's two large national banks, will hold its final hearing in Washington on December 19 instead of December 18 as planned.

David Saperstein, assistant to Ferdinand Pecora, counsel to the sub-committee, said the one-day postponement was probable because of the large amount of data collected here by investigators working on the closing of the First National Bank-Detroit, and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce.

Negaunee Man Gets Republic Mine Job

Youngstown, O., Dec. 11 (AP)—R. J. Wysor, Republic Steel Corp. vice president, today announced the appointment of John H. Nelson of Negaunee, Mich., as general manager of the company's Lake Superior district at Duluth.

Mr. Nelson, who was general superintendent for the Marquette range properties of Republic, succeeds F. J. Webb, who died last week.

TABLETS FATAL

Niles, Mich. (AP)—Mrs. Hester Blair, 44, of Tulsa, Okla., died in a hospital Monday. Robert Roebeck, justice of the peace, said she had taken an overdose of sleeping tablets intentionally. Mrs. Blair had come to Niles for treatment of her eyes.

LOWER HOUSE WILL REJECT THE MEASURE

DEBATE SPIRITED; MARGIN ONLY 17 TO 14

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 11. (AP)—The senate tonight passed the legislative liquor control bill by the slender margin of 17 to 14 votes, returning the measure to the house for concurrence in amendments. The larger chamber upon meeting tomorrow afternoon is expected to reject the heavily amended bill.

The bill then will go to a conference committee. Members gave the bill immediate effect after a previous vote had rejected a motion to put the measure into effect at once. The bill was passed amid a final spirited debate.

Derham, Doyle Vote No

Against: Derham, Doyle, Foster, Gorman, Heidcamp, Karwick, Leidlein, Leland, Moore, Palmer, Reid, Ruff, Town, Upjohn—14.

Senator Ray Derham, Republican, Iron Mountain, introduced an amendment which would have permitted the purchase of liquor in drug stores throughout the state to anyone who signed an affidavit that he was ill. First adopted by a vote of 18 to 12, the amendment finally was defeated, 16 to 15.

An amendment was adopted to permit the sale of beer on holidays, Sundays and election days. It altered an amendment passed earlier in the day prohibiting the sale of all alcoholic beverages on those days.

Revenue Complicated

An amendment was adopted limiting the number of establishments to sell liquor to one for each 1,000 population in the various localities. Another change incorporated in the bill denies the right to retail liquor to chain stores with charters in states other than Michigan.

The complicated revenue provisions of the bill remained intact in the face of four separate attempts to amend them. The liquor revenue, as the bill now stands, will be given school districts as loans, to be repaid as money under the $15,000,000 appropriation by the last legislature becomes available. It then goes into the old age pension fund.

The senators defeated an amendment which would have placed a state liquor dispensary in every county of 25,000 population or over. Under present provisions, a state store is provided only in counties of 75,000 or more.

Bill Ridiculed

The bill will be sent to the house, where it will be received officially at 2 p. m. The house then will vote on its acceptance as amended by the senate. Senate leaders predicted that it would not be accepted. In that event the bill will be returned to the senate with a request for a joint conference of the two bodies to iron out differences.

Senators openly ridiculed the bill as it was passed tonight. Sen. John Leidlein, Democrat, Saginaw, said "I am ashamed to send this bill to the house," while Sen. W. F. Doyle, Republican, Menominee, recommended that it be called the "Marx, Hitler and Mussolini bill."

There was some controversy about the number of votes necessary to pass the bill. Sen. Joseph C. Foster, Republican, Lansing, contended that inasmuch as it provided for local appropriations, a two-thirds majority was necessary for passage. Lieut. Gov. Allen E. Stebbins announced that he had obtained a ruling from the attorney general and from Governor Comstock's legal advisor that a majority vote only was necessary.

Peninsula Favored

After prolonged debate over the issue, the senate adopted amendments permitting glass

BULLITT CALLS ON LITVINOFF

First Soviet Ambassador from United States Reaches Moscow

Moscow, Dec. 11 (AP)—The first act of William C. Bullitt after arriving in Moscow today was to pay a formal call on Maxim Litvinoff at the foreign office. There the first American ambassador to the Soviet Union spent a half hour in cordial conversation with the Soviet foreign minister.

Afterward, accompanied by D. T. Flourinsky, chief of the protocol department of the foreign office, Mr. Bullitt inspected the "house of the central executive committee" which has been offered him as a possible embassy site.

For the first time in the history of the Soviet republic the United States flag flew over Moscow in honor of the American envoy. To it Bullitt doffed his hat as he arrived at his hotel from the railway station.

The ambassador, as he stepped from a private car attached to the regular Moscow train, was greeted by I. A. Divilkovski of the Russian foreign office, Flourinski, Alexander Troyanovski, the ambassador to the United States and more than 40 other officials—the largest crowd ever assembled here to meet a foreign ambassador.

Lindberghs Reach Another Milestone

Manaos, Brazil, Dec. 11. (AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, safe at this point 900 miles up the Amazon river, planned to take off early tomorrow toward Trinidad, 900 miles away.

Three possible routes lie between them and their goal and they gave no indication of which they intended to follow.

Dennis, 37, another pedestrian, was fatally injured when struck by a nautomobile.

At Bay City, Mich., Walter J. Sobel, 28, lost his life when his car skidded into a dredge cut. Patricia, nine-month-old daughter of Mrs. C. Roberts, of Roscommon, Mich., was killed and her mother seriously hurt when their automobile skidded into a ditch. Alfred Lambeck, 23, Traverse City, Mich., was killed near Flint when the truck on which he was riding collided with another vehicle.

Franklin J. Keifer, 60, Port Huron, Mich., died in a hospital shortly after he was struck by an automobile driven by James Nutt, 18, of Port Huron. Henry McNally, 65, of Union Pier, Mich., was struck as he walked on US-12 near his home. Robert Tiefenbach, five years old, was killed by an auto driven by Vernon Schoff, and David Langill, 21, Menominee, Mich., was found dead near a dance hall, believed to have been the victim of a hit-and-run driver.

Strike Riots Bring Bloodshed In Spain

Madrid, Dec. 11 (AP)—The menace of a general strike today occupied Spain, already clouded by three days of revolt and bloodshed in 12 of its 50 provinces.

As acts of violence diminished following the capture by government troops of a rebel garrison in the Villaneuva military barracks, the government turned its attention toward the strike threats.

At nightfall, a nation-wide official report said order was restored in practically all troubled areas and that the strike was decreasing in importance as Socialists ordered intimidated workers to return to their posts. Commerce and industry functioned almost as normal.

Wife Has Right To Testify For Aiding Husband

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—In a decision reversing previous procedure, the supreme court held today that a wife has the right to aid her husband by testifying in his behalf in a federal criminal case.

The court expressed the opinion there was no reason why a wife was not competent as a witness for her husband inasmuch as the husband was permitted to testify in his own defense.

It added that the common law must be flexible and be construed to meet changing conditions. The decision will be binding in all federal courts.

The case came to the court from North Carolina, where John S. Funk, a former federal prohibition enforcement agent, was convicted of conspiracy to protect center manufacturers and sellers of illicit liquor.

The prosecution attached much importance to testimony based on statements alleged to have been made by Funk in the presence of his wife. The lower federal courts refused to permit her to testify.

In its decision, the supreme court said the exclusion of a wife's testimony can no longer "be justified, if it ever was justified, on any ground of public policy."

"It has been said," the opinion added, "that to admit such testimony is against public policy because it would endanger the harmony and confidence of marital relations, and moreover would subject the witness to the temptation to comit perjury.

"Modern legislation is making either spouse competent to testify in behalf of the other in criminal cases, has definitely rejected these notions, and in the belief of such legislation and of modern thought they seem to be altogether fanciful. The public policy of one generation may not, under changed conditions, be the public policy of another."

In another decision, the court upheld the right of state to govern the operation and length of freight trains used in interstate commerce.

It sustained the Arkansas full train crew act against the challenge of the Missouri Pacific railroad. The railroad contended the legislation invaded the field reserved for the federal government.

The court announced it would take a recess from December 18 to January 8.

Of the 26 states which have laws relating to old age pensions, only 15 actually have put these laws in operation.

but Mr. Morganthau has said that congress would be asked to extend it and there have been indications that its powers might be somewhat broadened. So far this fiscal year, now nearly half gone, the treasury has advanced the corporation $449,020,000.

A second big item is the public works administration. Congress originally authorized it to spend $3,300,000,000 and its officials predict that that will nearly all have been disbursed by the end of the fiscal year. They expect to ask for probably two billions more.

The treasury today announced that subscriptions to the $550,000,000 of certificates of indebtedness offered last week totaled $2,800,000,000. The new securities were offered in exchange for $727,000,000 of maturing issues. The exchange offer was taken advantage of to the extent of $607,590,500, the remainder being paid from the cash receipts of the issue. All subscriptions of $5,000 were allotted in full. Cash subscriptions of more than that amount received a 17 per cent allotment.

The domestic gold price today was $1.21 higher than the dollar price of gold at London on the basis of a $5.16½ exchange rate prevailing when the Washington valuation was determined. The margin was slightly reduced subsequently as the dollar displayed signs of weakness.

Chairman Jones of the RFC announced that purchase of domestic gold have totalled 420,000 ounces at a cost of $14,000,000. As usual he declined to say how much gold had been purchased abroad.

Skilled Laborers Defined For CWA

In order to clarify the classification known as skilled laborers on civil works administration projects, a ruling has been issued by the state CWA administrator. This ruling says that skilled laborers are only men who have served apprenticeships to secure masters' papers or who have received special technical training. Painters and carpenters are not included in this classification.

Delta county's new quota total on CWA work is 2,100.

Beauty Shop Will Reopen Wednesday

Georgo Walker, 709 Ludington street, announces that the beauty shop annex to his barber shop will be reopened to the public on Wednesday, with Mrs. Anna Darrow of Escanaba as the operator in charge.

Mrs. Darrow, former Miss Anna Westman, formerly operated the Comfort shop in Marquette. During the last several days, the Walker beauty shop has been recorated and given other improvements.

Winter Sports Going Big For Camp Escanaba Boys

Zero weather descended suddenly upon civilian conservation camps of the peninsula, but it didn't find the boys standing around the stoves and shivering, even though many of them come from cities and industrial centers where winters are more moderate and there are no wide open spaces for the biting winds to do their part.

Camp Escanaba, which is the adopted home of Company 1620, is a fair example. Saturday night and Sunday brought weather which tested the perseverance of acclimated peninsulites, but it didn't slacken activity around the camp or dull the enthusiasm of the personnel. Trucks went out as usual Saturday night with their loads of boys on recreation bent, bound for the nearest dances, which weren't very near. Sunday was a chance to rest, but trucks went out again, this time carrying forest soldiers who had chosen church. The noon day meal featured chicken and pie with ice cream, and with that fortification of the inner man dozens of the boys left their cozy new barracks again to take to the woods, this time armed with skils and tobogans.

Winter sports promise to play an important part in the recreation program at Camp Escanaba. Capt. J. W. Bollenback, camp commander, has stocked up with skiis and toboggans, and many of his company are getting their first introduction to these implements of snow locomotion. Judging from the initial reception, they are taking to them in a big way. The camp is also to have a skating ring which is now under construction in the center of the clearing. Provision has been made to bring up electric lights around the rink as soon as the electrical generator unit at the camp is installed, and skates will be provided as a part of the camp equipment.

Now that winter has arrived in earnest, Capt. Bollenback finds that his men not only can "take it," but they seem to like it, and are not ready to leave their village in the woods.

Capt. Bollenback is to leave soon himself, however. He has been notified that he will be relieved by a reserve lieutenant on Dec. 18, after which the captain will return to his regular army post at Fort Wayne, Detroit.

Bright Cap Clue Solves Slaying Of Detroit Girl

Detroit, Dec. 11 (AP)—Police today solved the slaying of 20-year-old Jeanie Zablocki, and the confession of the crime was directly traceable to a youth's habit of wearing a bright colored baseball cap.

William D. Brusstar, assistant prosecutor, and detectives announced that Ernest D'Iorio, 20 had confessed he killed the girl last Wednesday in the home in which she worked as a nurse maid. D'Iorio said he had sought to alienate the friendship for him of Sophie Morcejko, 20.

"I'm the guy you want," he told detectives and Brusstar a short time after his arrest at midnight Sunday. "Sure I killed her. She got in my way. She was interfering with my affair with Sophie. She talked smart and I slapped her down. She wanted killing."

Apparently balked at every turn in their investigation, detectives gained the clue which led to the solution of the killing from a girl whose name they have withheld. This girl gave officers a description of a man she saw in an automobile in front of the home in which the slaying occurred last Wednesday. She said the man wore "a bright cap. A little like a beret."

Appeal Court Frees Marquette Prisoner

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 11 (AP)—The United States circuit court of appeals today reversed the conviction of John Wakkara, of Marquette, who in April was sentenced to serve 18 months in the Chillicothe reformatory and fined $200 on a charge of violating the liquor law. The court held no search warrant had been issued.

During 1928, the United States imported 56,307 parrots.

Ann Arbor Man Denies Slaying

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 11. (AP) Brent H. Dunn, former restaurant owner, accused of slaying John Reinhart, aged recluse, took the stand in circuit court today and placed the blame for planning and executing the killing on George Weimer, who already is serving a life sentence for the slaying.

Dunn contradicted Weimer's story of the attempted robbery which resulted in Reinhart's death after he was gagged, and said Weimer, his former cook, placed the cloth in Reinhart's mouth as they were interrupted by William Gauss, nephew of the slain man.

sales in all counties of 200,000 or more population and in the upper peninsula.

As the measure now stands, liquor may be sold by the glass in hotels throughout the state and in restaurants located in the upper peninsula and in Wayne, Kent, Genesee and Oakland counties. This permission would be subject to the general provision in the bill that a majority of the membership of local ligeslative bodies must approve glass sales. Efforts to permit glass sales in restaurants in Bay county and in all counties of 100,000 or more population were rejected.

The state-store dispensary system withstood further attacks but amendments were inserted denying boards of supervisors the right to prohibit the stores in the various counties. Under the measure, there would be at least one store in each of the smaller counties of the state and one to each 75,000 population in the more populous counties.

Beer Coup Lost

Friends of the present seventeen-member liquor control commission lost a final battle to reinstate the body in the measure. Instead, the membership by a vote of 18 to 11 voted for a three-man commissioni. Salaries of the commissionaries were reduced by an amendment from $7,500 to $5,000 annually.

Meanwhile an effort to put through a bill providing for the immediate legalization of beer of unlimited alcoholic content and 16 percent wines was frustrated when the senate refused to suspend rules to permit immediate consideration of the measure.

Senator W. F. Doyle, Republican, Menominee, offered the measure to lift restrictions on beer and wine in the hope that breweries could release millions of gallons of potent brew they are reported to have in storage pending the enactment of legislation. The bill went to committee, the same as any other measure, although Doyle said he would ask the committee to report the measure tonight. Its passage remained doubtful inasmuch as the senate was bent upon passage of the liquor bill.

The vote on Senator Doyle's effort to suspend rules and rush enactment of the bill for immediate legalization of stronger beer was:

Those who voted for suspending the rules were:

Senators Asselin, Case, Derham, Doyle, Foster, Glasner, Gorman, Heidkamp, Karwick, Leidlein, McKenna, Murphy, Nichezynski, Orr, Palmer, Van Eenenaam.

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP) President Roosevelt was described by Senator Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee, tonight, as feeling that "it is more important to put a stop to bootlegging" than to boost the federal revenue from a liquor levy.

This description of the president's attitude was given by Harrison as he emerged from a conference between Mr. Roosevelt and the members of the two congressional tax drafting committees, now in the course of deciding how much the liquor tax shall be.

Want Minimum Tax

Eight members of the two committees, including Harrison, Representative Doughton, chairman of the way and means committee, and a Republican member from each of the two sat in on the conference with the executive.

"So anxious is the president and congress that the tax be not so high as to give the bootlegger security," said Harrison as he left the meeting, "that we want to put it down to a minimum."

Harrison said "someone has suggested $2.20" as a desirable liquor tax and he indicated that this or some other figure below the $2.60 proposed by the interdepartmental committee would be favored.

Mr. Roosevelt left with the congressional committees the determination of the tax. He designated Joseph H. Choate, Jr., federal alcohol administrator, and Edward G. Lowry, special assistant to the secretary of the treasury, to present the administration's views to the congressional committee tomorrow.

Marathan Dancers Burned To Death; Fire Investigated

Hampden, Me., Dec. 11 (AP)—After a day of investigation, authorities tonight discounted rumors of incendiarism in connection with last night's dance hall fire which cost the lives of three marathon dancers, but a further inquiry was in prospect to fix responsibility for the blaze.

Investigators heard the testimony of the survivors who were in the pavilion when the flames started. Nearly all expressed the belief the fire was of accidental origin, starting near the chimney.

County Attorney James D. Maxwell, while subscribing to this theory, said the investigation would continue and probably would result in the filing of charges. The nature of the charges, he said, would depend on the information gathered.

John Ryan, 32, of New York City, Gertrude Sousa, 24, of Dracut, Mass., and Emile Pelletier, 31, of Waterville, died in the flames. Many others, forced into knee-deep snow and freezing cold were treated for exposure, frostbite or burns.

Fire Traps Seven In Bridge Caisson For Hour And Half

Kansas City, Dec. 11 (AP)—Seven men, pier workers in a bridge-building caisson, lay imprisoned by fire on the bottom of the Missouri river today while deadly smoke rolled within 12 inches of them before they were saved.

The "sandhogs," gasping for the scant fresh air remaining in the tank 101 feet beneath the surface of the river, had thought death inevitable as belching flames sent even thicker rolls of gaseous smoke down to them. One hour and 30 minutes after the fire, of unknown origin, broke out 70 feet above them, two barrels of water were dumped from a crane, extinguishing the blaze.

"We thought we were goners," one of the soot-faced men said. "If we had stayed down there 10 minutes more we would have all been dead."

They had confronted the danger of fire cutting off the air pressure, which keeps water from flooding the tank.

Ickes Falls On Ice; Taken To Hospital

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—Secretary Ickes was resting "comfortably" tonight at the naval hospital where he was taken early in the day for treatment of painful injuries received when he fell on ice outside his home.

The secretary was leaving his home for his office when the accident occurred. Thinking his injuries minor he continued to his office and spent sometime working but as pain in his right side became more severe he was helped to his car and taken to the naval hospital.

An examination by Captain C. B. Munger, commandant at the hospital, and Captain Ralph W. Jebowell, the senior surgeon, closed a fractured right rib and muscular derangement.

Fitzgerald's Son Hurt In Accident

Lansing, Dec. 11 (AP)—John, 9 year old son of Frank D. Fitzgerald, secretary of state, was taken to a Lansing hospital today with a fractured leg sustained when he was struck by an automobile while near his school at Grand Ledge.

Search Continues For Missing Hunter

Big Rapids, Mich., Dec. 11 (AP)—Searching parties late tonight continued their hunt for Leon Kuipers, 25, Muskegon, who disappeared yesterday while he was hunting in the vicinity of Upper Evans and Diamond lake.

The search began today after Ralph Earle, Clear Lake, reported hearing two gun shots and cries for help. Deputy Sheriff Wallace Nelson and Conservation Officer Byron Aldrich led the hunt.

Plans were laid to continue the search through the night since it was feared that Kuipers may have been caught in the swamps and surroundings the lake.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES FOR JAFFEE TO BE THE WORLD'S CHAMPION SKATER

IRVING JAFFEE

(At Right)—Again Jaffee makes a thrilling finish as he speeds to victory! Winner of 1,000 medals and trophies, including three Olympic Skating Championships, Jaffee has brought the highest skating honors to the U.S.A. Asked recently if he was a steady smoker, Jaffee said, "Yes—but that goes for Camels only. I have to keep my wind, you know, and healthy nerves."

A MATCHLESS BLEND

IT IS MORE FUN TO KNOW

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE tobaccos than any other popular brand.

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

You've often seen his name and picture in the papers—Jaffee, the city-bred boy from the U.S.A. who beat the best that Europe had to offer, and became the skating champion of the world! Speaking of speed skating and cigarettes, Jaffee says: "It takes healthy nerves and plenty of wind to be an Olympic skating champion. I find that Camels, because of their costlier tobaccos, are mild and likable in taste. And, what is even more important to a champion athlete, they never upset the nerves."

Change to Camels and note the difference in your nerves... in the pleasure you get from smoking! Camels are milder... have a better taste. They never upset your nerves. Begin today!

BULLITT CALLS ON LITVINOFF

First Soviet Ambassador from United States Reaches Moscow

Moscow, Dec. 11 (AP)—The first act of William C. Bullitt after arriving in Moscow today was to pay a formal call on Maxim Litvinoff at the foreign office. There the first American ambassador to the Soviet Union spent a half hour in cordial conversation with the Soviet foreign minister.

Afterward, accompanied by D. T. Flourinsky, chief of the protocol department of the foreign office, Mr. Bullitt inspected the "house of the central executive committee" which has been offered him as a possible embassy site.

For the first time in the history of the Soviet republic the United States flag flew over Moscow in honor of the American envoy. To it Bullitt doffed his hat as he arrived at his hotel from the railway station.

The ambassador, as he stepped from a private car attached to the regular Moscow train, was greeted by I. A. Divilkovski of the Russian foreign office, Flourinski, Alexander Troyanovski, the ambassador to the United States and more than 40 other officials—the largest crowd ever assembled here to meet a foreign ambassador.

Lindberghs Reach Another Milestone

Manaos, Brazil, Dec. 11, (AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, safe at this point 900 miles up the Amazon river, planned to take off early tomorrow toward Trinidad, 900 miles away.

Three possible routes lie between them and their goal and they gave no indication of which they intended to follow.

MICHIGAN HAS 10 DEATHS IN ROAD MISHAPS

Dennis, 37, another pedestrian, was fatally injured when struck by a nautomobile.

At Bay City, Mich., Walter J. Sobol, 28, lost his life when his car skidded into a dredge cut. Patricia, nine-month-old daughter of Mrs. C. Roberts, of Roscommon, Mich., was killed and her mother seriously hurt when their automobile skidded into a ditch. Alfred Lambeck, 23, Traverse City, Mich., was killed near Flint when the truck on which he was riding collided with another vehicle.

Franklin J. Keifer, 60, Port Huron, Mich., died in a hospital shortly after he was struck by an automobile driven by James Nutt, 18, of Port Huron. Henry McNally, 65, of Union Pier, Mich., was struck as he walked on US-12 near his home. Robert Tiefenbach, five years old, was killed by an auto driven by Vernon Schoff, and David Langill, 21, Menominee, Mich., was found dead near a dance hall, believed to have been the victim of a hit-and-run driver.

Strike Riots Bring Bloodshed In Spain

Madrid, Dec. 11 (AP)—The menace of a general strike today occupied Spain, already clouded by three days of revolt and bloodshed in 12 of its 50 provinces.

As acts of violence diminished following the capture by government troops of a rebel garrison in the Villaneuva military barracks, the government turned its attention toward the strike threats.

At nightfall, a nation-wide official report said order was restored in practically all troubled areas and that the strike was decreasing in importance as Socialists ordered intimidated workers to return to their posts. Commerce and industry functioned almost as normal.

Wife Has Right To Testify For Aiding Husband

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—In a decision reversing previous procedure, the supreme court held today that a wife has the right to aid her husband by testifying in his behalf in a federal criminal case.

The court expressed the opinion there was no reason why a wife was not competent as a witness for her husband inasmuch as the husband was permitted to testify in his own defense.

It added that the common law must be flexible and be construed to meet changing conditions. The decision will be binding in all federal courts.

The case came to the court from North Carolina, where John S. Funk, a former federal prohibition enforcement agent, was convicted of conspiracy to protect center manufacturers and sellers of illicit liquor.

The prosecution attached much importance to testimony based on statements alleged to have been made by Funk in the presence of his wife. The lower federal courts refused to permit her to testify.

In its decision, the supreme court said the exclusion of a wife's testimony can no longer "be justified, if it ever was justified, on any ground of public policy."

"It has been said," the opinion added, "that to admit such testimony is against public policy because it would endanger the harmony and confidence of marital relations, and moreover would subject the witness to the temptation to comit perjury.

"Modern legislation is making either spouse competent to testify in behalf of the other in criminal cases, has definitely rejected these notions, and in the light of such legislation and of modern thought they seem to be altogether fanciful. The public policy of one generation may not, under changed conditions, be the public policy of another."

In another decision, the court upheld the right of state to govern the operation and length of freight trains used in interstate commerce.

It sustained the Arkansas full train crew act against the challenge of the Missouri Pacific railroad. The railroad contended the legislation invaded the field reserved for the federal government.

The court announced it would take a recess from December 18 to January 8.

Of the 26 states which have laws relating to old age pensions, only 15 actually have put these laws in operation.

but Mr. Morganthau has said that congress would be asked to extend it and there have been indications that its powers might be somewhat broadened. So far this fiscal year, now nearly half gone, the treasury has advanced the corporation $449,020,000.

A second big item is the public works administration. Congress originally authorized it to spend $3,200,000,000 and its officials predict that that will nearly all have been disbursed by the end of the fiscal year. They expect to ask for probably two billions more.

The treasury today announced that subscriptions to the $950,000,000 of certificates of indebtedness offered last week totaled $2,890,000,000. The new securities were offered in exchange for $727,000,000 of maturing issues. The exchange offer was taken advantage of to the extent of $607,550,500, the remainder being paid from the cash receipts of the issue. All subscriptions of $5,000 were allotted in full. Cash subscriptions of more than that amount received a 17 per cent allotment.

The domestic gold price today was $1.21 higher than the dollar price of gold at London on the basis at a $5.16½ exchange rate prevailing when the Washington quotation was determined. The margin was slightly reduced subsequently as the dollar displayed signs of weakness.

Chairman Jones of the RFC announced that purchase of domestic gold have tatalled 420,000 ounces at a cost of $14,000,000. As usual he declined to say how much gold had been purchased abroad.

Skilled Laborers Defined For CWA

In order to clarify the classification known as skilled laborers on civil works administration projects, a ruling has been issued by the state CWA administrator. This ruling says that skilled laborers are only men who have served apprenticeships to secure masters' papers or who have received special technical training. Painters and carpenters are not included in this classification.

Delta county's new quota total on CWA work is 2,100.

Beauty Shop Will Reopen Wednesday

George Walker, 709 Ludington street, announces that the beauty shop annex to his barber shop will be reopened to the public on Wednesday, with Mrs. Anna Darrow of Escanaba as the operator in charge.

Mrs. Darrow, former Miss Anna Westman, formerly operated the Comfort shop in Marquette. During the last several days, the Walker beauty shop has been recorated and given other improvements.

Winter Sports Going Big For Camp Escanaba Boys

Zero weather descended suddenly upon civilian conservation camps of the peninsula, but it didn't find the boys standing around the stoves and shivering, even though many of them come from cities and industrial centers where winters are more moderate and there are no wide open spaces for the biting winds to do their part.

Camp Escanaba, which is the adopted home of Company 1620, is a fair example. Saturday night and Sunday brought weather which tested the perseverance of acclimated peninsulites, but it didn't slacken activity around the camp or dull the enthusiasm of the personnel. Trucks went out as usual Saturday night with their loads of boys on recreation bent, bound for the nearest dances, which weren't very near. Sunday was a chance to rest, but trucks went out again, this time carrying forest soldiers who had chosen church. The noon day meal featured chicken and pie with ice cream, and with that fortification of the inner man dozens of the boys left their cozy new barracks again to take to the woods, this time armed with skiis and tobogans.

Winter sports promise to play an important part in the recreation program at Camp Escanaba. Capt. J. W. Bollenback, camp commander, has stocked up with skiis and toboggans, and many of his company are getting their first introduction to these implements of snow locomotion. Judging from the initial reception, they are taking to them in a big way. The camp is also to have a skating ring which is now under construction in the center of the clearing. Provision has been made to bring up electric lights around the rink as soon as the electrical generator unit at the camp is installed, and skates will be provided as a part of the camp equipment.

Now that winter has arrived in earnest, Capt. Bollenback finds that his men not only can "take it," but they seem to like it, and are not ready to leave their village in the woods.

Capt. Bollenback is to leave soon himself, however. He has been notified that he will be relieved by a reserve lieutenant on Dec. 18, after which the captain will return to his regular army post at Fort Wayne, Detroit.

Bright Cap Clue Solves Slaying Of Detroit Girl

Detroit, Dec. 11 (AP)—Police today solved the slaying of 20-year-old Jennie Zablocki, and the confession of the crime was directly traceable to a youth's habit of wearing a bright colored baseball cap.

William D. Brusstar, assistant prosecutor, and detectives announced that Ernest D'Iorio, 20, had confessed he killed the girl last Wednesday in the home in which she worked as a nurse maid. D'Iorio said he had sought to alienate the friendship for him of Sophie Morzejko, 20.

"I'm the guy you want," he told detectives and Brusstar a short time after his arrest at midnight Sunday. "Sure I killed her. She got in my way. She was interfering with my affair with Sophie. She talked smart and I slapped her down. She wanted killing."

Apparently balked at every turn in their investigation, detectives gained the clue which led to the solution of the killing from a girl whose name they have withheld. This girl gave officers a description of a man she saw in an automobile in front of the home in which the slaying occurred last Wednesday. She said the man wore "a bright cap. A little like a beret."

Appeal Court Frees Marquette Prisoner

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 11 (AP)—The United States circuit court of appeals today reversed the conviction of John Wakkura, of Marquette, who in April was sentenced to serve 18 months in the Chillicothe reformatory and fined $200 on a charge of violating the liquor law. The court held no search warrant had been issued.

During 1928, the United States imported 56,307 parrots.

Ann Arbor Man Denies Slaying

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 11, (AP)—Brent H. Dunn, former restaurant owner, accused of slaying John Reinhart, aged recluse, took the stand in circuit court today and placed the blame for planning and executing the killing on George Weimer, who already is serving a life sentence for the slaying.

Dunn contradicted Weimer's story of the attempted robbery which resulted in Reinhart's death after he was gagged, and said Weimer, his former cook, placed the cloth in Reinhart's mouth as they were interrupted by William Gauss, nephew of the slain man.

LOWER HOUSE WILL REJECT THE MEASURE

sales in all counties of 200,000 or more population and in the upper peninsula.

As the measure now stands, liquor may be sold by the glass in hotels throughout the state and in restaurants located in the upper peninsula and in Wayne, Kent, Genesee and Oakland counties. This permission would be subject to the general provision in the bill that a majority of the membership of local ligeslative bodies must approve glass sales. Efforts to permit glass sales in restaurants in Bay county and in all counties of 100,000 or more population were rejected.

The state-store dispensary system withstood further attacks but amendments were inserted denying boards of supervisors the right to prohibit the stores in the various counties. Under the measure, there would be at least one store in each of the smaller counties of the state and one to each 75,000 population in the more populous counties.

Beer Coup Lost

Friends of the present seventeen-member liquor control commission lost a final battle to reinstate the body in the measure. Instead, the membership by a vote of 18 to 11 voted for a three-man commissioni. Salaries of the commissionaries were reduced by an amendment from $7,500 to $5,000 annually.

Meanwhile an effort to put through a bill providing for the immediate legalization of beer of unlimited alcoholic content and 16 percent wines was frustrated when the senate refused to suspend rules to permit immediate consideration of the measure.

Senator W. F. Doyle, Republican, Menominee, offered the measure to lift restrictions on beer and wine in the hope that breweries could release millions of gallons of potent brew they are reported to have in storage pending the enactment of legislation. The bill went to committee, the same as any other measure, although Doyle said he would ask the committee to report the measure tonight. Its passage remained doubtful inasmuch as the senate was bent upon passage of the liquor bill.

The vote on Senator Doyle's effort to suspend rules and rush enactment of the bill for immediate legalization of stronger beer was:

Those who voted for suspending the rules were:

Senators Asselin, Case, Derham, Doyle, Foster, Glasner, Gorman, Heidkamp, Karwick, Leidlein, McKenna, Murphy, Nichezynski, Orr, Palmer, Van Eenenaam.

Against—Senators Carpenter, Cutler, Flynn, Kulp, Moore, Raymond, Reir, Root, Ruff, Town, Upjohn.

BY ELTON C. FAY
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt was described by Senator Harrison, chairman of the senate finance committee, tonight, as feeling that "it is more important to put a stop to bootlegging" than to boost the federal revenue from a liquor levy.

This description of the president's attitude was given by Harrison as he emerged from a conference between Mr. Roosevelt and the members of the two congressional tax drafting committees, now in the course of deciding how much the liquor tax shall be.

Want Minimum Tax

Eight members of the two committees, including Harrison, Representative Doughton, chairman of the way and means committee, and a Republican member from each of the two sat in on the conference with the executive.

"So anxious is the president and congress that the tax be not so high as to give the bootlegger security," said Harrison as he left the meeting, "that we want to put it down to a minimum."

Harrison said "someone has suggested $2.20" as a desirable liquor tax and he indicated that this or some other figure below the $2.60 proposed by the interdepartmental committee would be favored.

Mr. Roosevelt left with the congressional committees the determination of the tax. He designated Joseph H. Choate, Jr., federal alcohol administrator, and Edward G. Lowry, special assistant to the secretary of the treasury, to present the administration's views to the congressional committee tomorrow.

WORK ON RINKS TO BEGIN TODAY

Hockey Arenas Also To Be Maintained During Winter

Work on providing ice rinks in Escanaba will be started today, City Manager T. F. Kessler announces.

As in the past, the main skating rink will be at Fifteenth street and Ninth Avenue South, while another skating place will be provided for North Escanaba residents near the fairgrounds. The rinks will be lighted for night skating.

Two hockey rinks will be maintained by the city this winter, one to be located at St. Patrick's church grounds and the other on Sheridan road.

Considerable skating has been done of late along the shore of the bay.

Weingartner First To Pay $2 Head Tax

George E. Weingartner of Rock was the first Delta county resident to pay the two-dollar head tax, which is being levied by the state for financing the old age pension system.

Collection of the head tax is being started this week by treasurers throughout the county. Mr. Weingartner is superintendent of the Maple Ridge township schools and is chairman of the county civil works commission.

Series Of Fires Here On Week-End

A serie sof fires kept the Escanaba fire department active over the week-end.

A small dwelling, occupied by Victor Cohan, at the Talvorsen planing mill location was damaged by fire at 9:45 o'clock Monday morning. A short time later, the department was called to the Fay Farrell residence, 523 First Avenue North, where a blaze broke out in the side wall of the building. At 1 p. m., a chimney fire at 1014 Second Avenue South called out the firemen again.

On Sunday, chimney fires occurred at the homes of Jack Wall, 428 South Fourteenth street, and Ed LaChance, 329 North Twelfth street.

AMUSEMENTS

Here is entertainment that has never been equalled on either stage or screen. For sheer magnitude, stunning, sensational production, spectacular scenes, divine dance ensembles, peppy music, strong drama, tender romance and sparkling comedy, "Footlight Parade" stands in a class by itself. We thought that "42nd Street" and "Gold Diggers of 1933" were superb pictures. We didn't believe they would be topped in a long, long time. But the unbelievable has come true!

Once again those masters of providing screen entertainment that is different that is de luxe, Warner Bros., have come through with a picture that beggars description. You will have to see it to appreciate its bigness—its vitality. And see it you must, if you can get in.

Here is a smash hit the like of which will gladden your heart. It is amazing the fact that one producer could turn out such a succession of great musical pictures. Yet their ability to do so is easily understandable when we realize that Lloyd Bacon who directed "42nd Street" is responsible for "Footlight Parade." Then there is that master of creative dance numbers, Busby Berkeley who again directed the brilliant numbers in this picture.

Dr. Catherine Wynekoop Discloses Private Life Of the Wynekoop Family

FOREWORD: I hesitate to place before the public the intimate story of my family, which I have considered sacred. But so much has been written that is both unfair and untrue that I have decided to accept this opportunity of telling the facts of my mother's life as they are. Mother always has been a kindly and understanding person, one to whom her children and friends could turn when in trouble, and for those who have not had the privilege of knowing her as she really is, I have attempted to picture her life.—Dr. Catherine Lindsay Wynekoop.

CHAPTER ONE

Whenever my mother talks about her childhood, it is to tell of something that happened on her father's farm. The farm was near Onarga, Ill., and mother was born there Feb. 1, 1871.

Her parents were Frank and Frances Catherine Lindsay. She was their third child and first daughter. Grandfather was a well-to-do farmer, chiefly of Scotch extraction, and grandmother was a hard-working, efficient housewife of Scotch and English ancestry.

Dr. Catherine Wynekoop

It was the ill health mother suffered as a child that made her decide later to become a doctor—a decision made in the days when it took courage for a woman to study and practice medicine.

As a little girl, she was afflicted much of the time with malaria and I have heard her tell how her father used to measure out huge doses of powdered quinine on the end of a knife, one such dose to be taken three times daily. How bitter it must have tasted!

During these years she became so anemic that she was forced to stay in bed for days at a time. While other children were at school or outdoors playing, mother learned to read. Grandmother would tell her the words and their meanings.

Because of her ill health, mother did not go to school until she was nine years old. Then she entered the Del Ray school. She had an unusual knowledge of reading, but was unable to spell, write or do "number work."

On her second day at school, the nine-year-old girl was called upon to read. She arose from her seat and, in a full, clear voice, read from her primer:

"Give me three grains of corn, Mother, only three grains of corn
To keep the little life I have till the coming of the morn."

No sooner were the words out than she sat down again, crying. When the teacher asked what was the trouble, mother sobbed out that her father had lots of corn and could give the little boy plenty.

Defied Cold On Dare

Another story I have heard her tell of that first winter at school is about the day a group of boys dared her to take off her shoes and stockings and walk barefooted along the rails between the hitching posts surrounding the school yard.

It was bitter cold but, undaunted, mother stripped off her shoes and stockings and successfully walked on the icy rails. That night her feet were sore and blistered. Mother, always explicitly truthful, told grandmother just what had happened and I'm sure that, as she listened, my grandmother had an understanding smile.

Because she was ill so much, my mother's attendance at school was very irregular until she was 14. Then she entered the Grand Prairie Seminary and Commercial College at Onarga. She was enrolled as a special student.

Four years late, at graduation, she represented her class in the commencement exercises and delivered an address in German.

Enjoyed Life to Utmost

Besides studying, mother always shared in the work at home. Grandmother believed that all young girls should learn to cook and sew and do housework. The summer mother was 15, grandmother found it necessary to be away for several weeks taking care of a sick relative. It was during harvest time and mother was left with the entire responsibility of the household. She managed it all, too—as well as taking care of her two-year-old brother!

In spite of all this, mother had a good time. No party was complete unless "Alice" was there. She was a beautiful, slim girl, with auburn hair, and she had a happy disposition and remarkable enthusiasm for life.

Decided to Be Doctor

The spring of her senior year at the seminary, mother was very ill with a ruptured appendix and peritonitis. It was during this sickness (which came near to costing her life), that she made up her mind to become a doctor if her life were spared.

She was 18 years old then. She would have begun studying medicine as soon as she was graduated from the seminary, but her father objected. He said her health would not stand the strain.

This could not stop mother. She bought a fine set of books on anatomy (which she still has) and pored over them every evening. Her days were filled with the routine work of the farm.

Works for Education

Sometimes when something in the books was not clear to her, she would get help from the family physician. He was an Austrian and a graduate of the University of Jena.

Until she was 21, mother respected grandfather's decision about her studying medicine. Then she came to Chicago and enrolled in Northwestern University Women's Medical School.

She was oblighed to work to pay for her living as well as her school expenses, because her father still was flatly opposed to her effort to become a doctor.

Graduated With Honors

Throughout her years of study at the university, her father continued to disapprove her pursuit. In spite of this discouragement mother was graduated with honors in 1895.

She was given a post as instructor at the university and continued to teach there until she developed tuberculosis. To overcome this she was sent to Denver.

It was during her senior year at Northwestern that one day mother was sent by a professor to the College of Physicians and Surgeons to obtain some embryology slides.

The slides had been prepared by Frank Eldridge Wynekoop, who also was working his way through medical school.

That day my mother and father met for the first time.

Garden Man Saws Over 75,000 Feet Jack Pine Lumber

Garden, Dec. 9 (Special)—John Adams has just completed sawing about seventy-five thousand feet of lumber, mostly Jack pine, with a little Norway, from the Napoleon Boudreau forty, north of town.

This project gave employment from the middle of October, to five men cutting the logs, eight around the mill and two more men and a team hauling from the woods to the mill. Another man with a truck was employed hauling the sawed lumber from the mill to the Northwestern Cooperage company's plant at Gladstone.

Prior to sawing the Boudreau lumber, Mr. Adams sawed about two hundred thousand feet of pine from the three forties near by, owned by Fred Beach. Approximately the same number of men were employed on the Beach project but their work extended over a longer period. Frank Lalonde of Garden had that contract for hauling to the mill and William Kauthen and Howard Fehletier hauled the lumber to Gladstone.

Since completing his sawing operations on the Beach and Boudreau properties, Mr. Adams has moved his mill to the Hornstein road north and east of town and is now sawing a quantity of balm of Gilead for Howard Pelletier. A little hardwood is also being cut for handle factories.

Besides the lumber furnished in these various enterprises, a large amount of cheap stove wood is being furnished. The latter is finding a ready demand in and around town.

Duck hunters shot so much lead into several Minnesota lakes that ducks frequentnig these waters got lead poisoning.

MUNISING NEWS

Winter Surprises Weather Prophets

NOTHING LIKE IT BEFORE

A Lake Superior blizzard of unusual severity swept over this region from Sunday until yesterday, when there was some moderation, the storm continuing intermittently all day. All the trunk lines in Alger county were negotiable, although there was some delay in traffic owing to the blinding snow. The storm was accompanied by a heavy snow fall which however, was beneficial to the roads as it covered the ice that had formed on the surface from a previous thaw. A section of the Wetmore-Kentucky road has been in bad condition, owing to the snow for some time past and the CCC camps south of Wetmore have had to detour the truck driving by way of the Eight Mile turn in order to reach Shingleton, the terminal shipping point from Ft. Brady where supplies are loaded every day and picked up daily, also, by the camp trucks. The oldest inhabitants can not recall to mind a year when winter begun without fall weather.

Joe Marsh, old time trapper, says that in all his thirty-five years experience as trapper, he has never before known the beavers to prepare winter quarters and stow away food, (small trees) as early as they did this year, which was in the beginning of October and he affirms that they are best of prophets when it comes to foretelling the approach of winter.

MUNISING BRIEFS

Wm. Berkel is laid up at his home as a result of a fall he sustained when he fell upon the sidewalk, injuring his back. He will not be out again for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. McDougall left Sunday for Dallas, Tex., stopping off at Chicago to visit with their son Hugh.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Deibert announce the marriage of their daughter Cleda Anis, to Albert Campbell last Saturday evening at 7:30 at the Methodist parsonage, Rev. James Roberts performed the ceremony.

The Munising Matinee Musical will meet with Mrs. George Everett tomorrow afternoon.

Mrs. C. G. Kemp and daughters Ruth and Esther were guests of Marquette friends Saturday.

Charles Belongia is on a business trip to Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. John Madigan moved into the McDougall residence last Saturday. They have purchased this property.

Eighteen members of the Roderic Prato Post of the American Legion went out on their annual rabbit hunt Sunday and bagged 59 rabbits.

Dr. George Boyce Assumes Practice Here Temporarily

Dr. George H. Boyce, eye, ear and nose specialist of Iron Mountain, has taken over the practice of Dr. William B. Boyce, temporarily and will be located at Dr. Boyce's office, 1107 Ludington street, until he has fully regained his health. The regular office hours of from 9 to 5 daily will be maintained and the office will be open evenings and Sunday by appointment.

Only 31 of the 150 different varieties of plants that grow to tree size in Canada are coniferous; these supply 95 per cent of the forest products.

WORK ON RINKS TO BEGIN TODAY

Hockey Arenas Also To Be Maintained During Winter

Work on providing ice rinks in Escanaba will be started today, City Manager T. F. Kessler announces.

As in the past, the main skating rink will be at Fifteenth street and Ninth Avenue South, while another skating place will be provided for North Escanaba residents near the fairgrounds. The rinks will be lighted for night skating.

Two hockey rinks will be maintained by the city this winter, one to be located at St. Patrick's church grounds and the other on Sheridan road.

Considerable skating has been done of late along the shore of the bay.

Weingartner First To Pay $2 Head Tax

George E. Weingartner of Rock was the first Delta county resident to pay the two-dollar head tax, which is being levied by the state for financing the old age pension system.

Collection of the head tax is being started this week by treasurers throughout the county. Mr. Weingartner is superintendent of the Maple Ridge township schools and is chairman of the county civil works commission.

Series Of Fires Here On Week-End

A serie sof fires kept the Escanaba fire department active over the week-end.

A small dwelling, occupied by Victor Cohan, at the Talvorsen planing mill location was damaged by fire at 9:45 o'clock Monday morning. A short time later, the department was called to the Fay Farrell residence, 523 First Avenue North, where a blaze broke out in the side wall of the building. At 1 p. m., a chimney fire at 1014 Second Avenue South called out the firemen again.

On Sunday, chimney fires occurred at the homes of Jack Wall, 428 South Fourteenth street, and Ed LaChance, 329 North Twelfth street.

AMUSEMENTS

Here is entertainment that has never been equalled on either stage or screen. For sheer magnitude, stunning, sensational production, spectacular scenes, divine dance ensembles, peppy music, strong drama, tender romance and sparkling comedy, "Footlight Parade" stands in a class by itself. We thought that "42nd Street" and "Gold Diggers of 1933" were superb pictures. We didn't believe they would be topped in a long, long time. But the unbelievable has come true!

Once again those masters of providing screen entertainment that is different—that is de luxe, Warner Bros., have come through with a picture that beggars description. You will have to see it to appreciate its bigness—its vitality. And see it you must, if you can get in.

Here is a smash hit—the like of which will gladden your heart. It is amazing—the fact that one producer could turn out such a succession of great musical pictures. Yet their ability to do so is easily understandable when we realize that Lloyd Bacon who directed "42nd Street" is responsible for "Footlight Parade." Then there is that master of creative dance numbers, Busby Berkeley who again directed the brilliant numbers in this picture.

Dr. Catherine Wynekoop Discloses Private Life Of the Wynekoop Family

FOREWORD: I hesitate to place before the public the intimate story of my family, which I have considered sacred. But so much has been written that is both unfair and untrue that I have decided to accept this opportunity of telling the facts of my mother's life as they are. Mother always has been a kindly and understanding person, one to whom her children and friends could turn when in trouble, and for those who have not had the privilege of knowing her as she really is, I have attempted to picture her life.—Dr. Catherine Lindsay Wynekoop.

CHAPTER ONE

Whenever my mother talks about her childhood, it is to tell of something that happened on her father's farm. The farm was near Onarga, Ill., and mother was born there Feb. 1, 1871.

Her parents were Frank and Frances Catherine Lindsay. She was their third child and first daughter. Grandfather was a well-to-do farmer, chiefly of Scotch extraction, and grandmother was a hard - working, efficient housewife of Scotch and English ancestry.

Dr. Catherine Wynekoop

It was the ill health mother suffered as a child that made her decide later to become a doctor—a decision made in the days when it took courage for a woman to study and practice medicine.

As a little girl, she was afflicted much of the time with malaria and I have heard her tell how her father used to measure out huge doses of powdered quinine on the end of a knife, one such dose to be taken three times daily. How bitter it must have tasted!

During these years she became so anemic that she was forced to stay in bed for days at a time. While other children were at school or outdoors playing, mother learned to read. Grandmother would tell her the words and their meanings.

Because of her ill health, mother did not go to school until she was nine years old. Then she entered the Del Ray school. She had an unusual knowledge of reading, but was unable to spell, write or do "number work."

On her second day at school, the nine-year-old girl was called upon to read. She arose from her seat and, in a full, clear voice, read from her primer:

"Give me three grains of corn, Mother, only three grains of corn To keep the little life I have till the coming of the morn."

No sooner were the words out than she sat down again, crying. When the teacher asked what was the trouble, mother sobbed out that her father had lots of corn and could give the little boy plenty.

Defied Cold On Dare

Another story I have heard her tell of that first winter at school is about the day a group of boys dared her to take off her shoes and stockings and walk barefooted along the rails between the hitching posts surrounding the school yard.

It was bitter cold but, undaunted, mother stripped off her shoes and stockings and successfully walked on the icy rails. That night her feet were sore and blistered. Mother, always explicitly truthful, told grandmother just what had happened and I'm sure that, as she listened, my grandmother had an understanding smile.

Because she was ill so much, my mother's attendance at school was very irregular until she was 14. Then she entered the Grand Prairie Seminary and Commercial College at Onarga. She was enrolled as a special student.

NOT SO EASY

LEADERS of the state Grange are not satisfied with the havoc wrought, particularly in school and county finances, by the 15 mill property tax amendment, adopted a year ago and may seek a 10 mill tax limitation in this state, according to C. H. Bramble, master of the Michigan State Grange. Speaking before the final session of the state grange meeting at Grand Rapids on Saturday, Mr. Bramble insisted that a further constitutional property tax limitation amendment may be necessary, to force the people of the state to adopt an income tax law for Michigan long advocated by the state Grange leaders.

In view of the plight of the schools of Michigan, traceable in large part to the results of the operation of the 15 mill tax amendment, it is doubtful if Mr. Bramble and his associates would find it as easy to carry a further tax limitation amendment, if submitted to voters of Michigan. A great mass of electors, with the single idea of forcing a reduction in the cost of government, went to the polls a year ago and voted for the 15 mill tax amendment, without thought as to its effect on local institutions. It is believed they were largely shooting at the state government and when that governmental division countered by enacting a sales tax law, the result was anything but what had been anticipated by those most vigorous in supporting the tax limitation amendment. Michigan's experience of the past few months certainly should offer rather definite proof that the state administration will devise some manner of taxation that will interfere little with either normal governmental functions or the supplying of funds for the support of all the extra governmental activities deemed advisable by the party in power. Apparently a cut in state governmental costs cannot be brought about by the property tax limitation route.

The most serious sufferers from Michigan's present tax limitation program has been the schools of the state, both rural and city. The people of Michigan, interested in the education of their boys and girls, know the cause for the present situation and it is not likely they could be induced to further handicap the schools by further tax limitation legislation. Mr. Bramble and his associates will find a much bigger job cut out for themselves, should they attempt such a program, than they encountered in their activity of 1932.

OF PUBLIC INTEREST

PEOPLE will sign a petition a mile long to serve an emotional objective such as making "The Star Spangled Banner" the national anthem, but when it comes to something vitally affecting their interests such as the Tugwell bill there often is a dangerous inertia and apathy to be overcome. There is a tendency for the average person to think that measures of this type do not affect him and he is apt to allow them to pass by default, only to discover later that he should have spoken out for his own good.

This is an actual danger in connection with the Tugwell bill to revise the pure food laws. The average citizen may understand that the measure will cause some inconvenience to advertisers, to business men and to certain manufacturers, but he sees nothing in it that concerns him personally. He is apt to accept the statement of sponsors that the objectives of the measure are for his protection, without realizing that there are provisions which would react adversely to his own interests.

But if the citizen understands that the Tugwell bill in its present form is apt to close down unjustifiably many manufacturing concerns, throwing thousands of workers out of jobs; if he is made to realize that he might be forbidden to administer simple remedies for his own minor ailments without a doctor's prescription — which analysts say would be possible under the bill, if he is awakened to the danger of an unrestrained political dictatorship over the foods he uses and if he understands that a political tyranny might be set up by the measure, then he may be convinced he should register his protest against it.

Food and drug manufacturers, dealers and advertisers will present strong opposition. They make it their business to know what proposals threaten their interests and they will maintain strong representation in the capital to present their viewpoint. But their opposition is expected by congressmen and unless it is supported by a showing of popular opinion it is apt to be discounted. So there is need also for a strong registration of public disapproval if the abuses in the proposed measure are to be defeated.

The fight on the Tugwell bill is not that of the manufacturer, the merchant and the advertiser alone, but it is the fight also of every citizen who values his freedom under his government. It is the fight of all who would oppose the establishment of dictatorship in any form. It is a fight against dangerous one-man political control over a vast industry. And as such it should command the attention of every person who values the fundamental principles of his democracy.

WORKS BOTH WAYS

A CITIZENRY imbued with the spirit of '76 is needed, if the country is to cope successfully with gangsters, according to the International Police Chiefs' Association in recent convention.

The police chiefs ask, in effect, that every citizen "put himself on the spot" and banish all fear of testimony against gangsters.

And citizens, on their side, plead with police all over the country to afford every protection to the person daring enough to take such risk.

It undoubtedly is true that scores of citizens who could give evidence against racketeers and gangsters are held back from such action by fear of consequences. And rightfully so.

No man or woman cares to invite a shot in the dark, just because he did his civic duty, especially when he suspects that a policeman is likely to look the other way because the shooting was done by someone "in good" with the Big Boss.

Give our citizens protection and they will do their part. But the police have been far from diligent enough in their pursuit of gangsters to give us the confidence we need to step up to the witness stand and tell our stories without fear of deadly reprisal.

DYING GANG RULE

IT IS heartening to read the report of the Illinois state's attorney, Thomas J. Courtney, that organized games have been wiped out of Chicago and that gang killings this year have been kept down to two.

Chicago, for so many years, has been the center of racketeering and other gangster activities that it has acquired an unenviable reputation among American cities. Thanks to its aroused citizenry, and to the help of the federal government, Chicago has succeeded finally in clearing itself of this stigma.

There are gangsters, yet, in Chicago there may be rats, mice, detectives. But, with Chicago's lawabiding people in active control of the city, these gangsters soon should find their activities as unbearable here as elsewhere.

It is correct to say "None of them are here" according to an Enroll it professor of the University of Michigan. It is to means properly bringer "None of them never wuz here.

The telephone code will be limited to regulation of hours and wages. When it comes to area numbers and overcall, it is the government knows what it licked.

CHAPTER XXVII

The death of Al Drugan, known to be a close friend of Tracy King's brought the King murder mystery into blazing headlines once more. On street corners and at dinner tables little else was talked of. Newspaper columns devoted to "letters to the editor" lengthened by inches. Why, indignant letter-writers demanded had the police not solved this crime? Why had they not apprehended the murderer? How could honest, law-abiding citizens feel safe in their homes at night when such criminals were at large?

There were newspaper accounts too, hinting that the "accident" in which Drugan met his death was something far more sinister. Captain McNeal had refused to be quoted on the subject, but many others knew the facts.

Bannister and J. Randolph Gainey talked it over, sitting in a corner of the Post city room.

"What gets me," Gainey declared, "is the fact that whenever a piece of news breaks you manage to be there before it happens. Not just afterward but before! That's what I can't understand. Won't you tell me how you do it? There was the day Denise Lang walked into police headquarters with her story about the other girl. Then there's this accident and you find Drugan's body—"

"Coleman really did that," Bannister objected. "He saw the car before I did."

"Yes, but you got the story just the same. I don't see how you do it! Here I plug away all day long—"

"And you're doing a swell job!" Bannister told him crisply. "An excellent job. I just happened to be lucky a couple of times, as anyone might be. But luck isn't enough to see you through a job like this."

"Oh, isn't it? Well, I wish I had some of yours, just the same."

There was a silence for a moment, then Gainey went on. "Drugan ran into bad luck, too," he said. "You know I've been thinking all day about that talk we had with him the other night."

"So have I," admitted Bannister.

"Remember how he kept telling us what a swell guy King was?"

"Yes."

There was a pause again, unbroken until Bannister said, "Our friends at headquarters don't seem to be making much progress toward bringing Joe Parrott in, do they?"

"And I suppose it's occurred to you that with Drugan out of the way they can't make much of a case against Parrott, anyhow? McNeal's been complaining all along that they didn't have anything against him except Drugan's story."

"Maybe they've got something more now," Bannister volunteered.

"You mean it wasn't an accident? That it was Parrott who got Drugan? Do you really think that?"

"All I said was 'maybe,'" Bannister reminded him. "Parrott's got friends, I suppose. There may have been someone who knew Drugan had been talking. He certainly didn't do much to try to keep it quiet. I don't say that's what happened but—well, it could have been something like that. McNeal's getting awfully close-mouthed lately. There's something he's figuring on that he won't tell anyone."

Whatever McNeal was figuring on he continued to keep to himself. It was because of this that on the following morning David Bannister dropped into Chief Henley's office.

The chief was busy but his secretary said Bannister might see him in half an hour or so. Bannister waited and presently was ushered into the private office.

"Good morning, Chief," he greeted from the threshold.

"Why, David! So you're still with us. Come in, won't you?"

They were old friends. Police Chief Henley had held that post for 12 years. Of medium height, slightly round, his clear, fresh color belied the snow white hair. Less active now than formerly he was generally credited with giving Tremont an honest, thorough-going police department.

"Come in and sit down." he invited. "What's on your mind this morning?"

Bannister dropped into a chair. "It's this murder," he said. "I mean Tracy King. And now this other—er—accident. They look bad, Chief. When are we going to get something definite on them? I mean some action?"

"We're doing all we can."

"I know that. But I'd like to talk to you about your own personal theories about the crime."

"For publication?" The chief glanced at him warily from the corner of his eye.

"No, of course not."

Chief Henley turned more comfortably in his chair, lifted one knee over the other, and leaned back. "Well," he said, "I don't think it's such a difficult case. We've handled harder ones. Our main problem is to get that girl to talk."

"You mean Juliet France?"

"Yes—if that's her name. You never can tell about those things. It may be a name she picked up in a book. We've had her here for three days now and I've never seen such a stubborn creature!"

Bannister leaned forward. "Do you really think she shot King?" he asked.

The police chief laced his fingers together. "I'm not saying that," he said, "but I'm certain she's the key to the whole affair. Maybe someone else—a man—did the actual shooting, but I'm not convinced of that. What we've got to do is make her talk. She won't do it and lately she's refused to eat. She's making herself sick—"

"Can't you do something about it?"

The chief went on speaking and Bannister looked across the room. Suddenly he was aware that he had not been listening to what the other man was saying.

He turned. "Look here, Chief," he said. "Don't you think there's a better way of getting information from that girl?"

"What do you mean?"

"Well—" Bannister hesitated. "I talked to her," he said, "the first day she was here. She didn't strike me as the ordinary sort to be mixed up in an affair like this. She—well, she just doesn't look it. Don't you think you could get more out of her if she weren't in jail?"

The look the police chief gave him was incredulous. "Are you suggesting that I should turn her loose?" he demanded.

"Of course not! I just thought if there was some place you could put her where she could be watched as closely as she is here, without realizing that she was being watched, you might learn a lot more about her—find out if she tries to get in touch with anyone, who she writes to and all that."

Henley nodded. "I see what you mean," he said. "It's an idea. It might work—possibly. Still, I don't know where I could send her. No, I'm afraid I don't know of a place—"

"I do!" Bannister interrupted eagerly. "My Aunt Kate's."

"What?"

"My Aunt Kate's," Bannister repeated firmly. "It's just the place. I'll tell my aunt she's an

CHRISTMAS MAILING

Say this for me, when I shall be
Beyond the reach of truth or slander,
Though I was no Apollo, though
I was not brave as brave Leander,
Although the hair my temples wear
Was thin and straight, not thick and curly
I had one claim to honest fame
I did my Christmas mailing early

Although my face was commonplace,
Although my singing may have hurt ears
Let this be said above my bed,
At least I had one signal virtue,
I did not wait until too late
Two weeks before the hurly hurly
My gifts I sent, my presents went
I did my Christmas mailing early

No ten hour day the U. S. A.,
In states, or Islands, or the Isthmus,
Will need to work the postal clerk
Because of me, this coming Christmas
A crown awaits me at the gates,
Those certain gates described as pearly,
On judgement day for, anyway,
I did my Christmas mailing early.

"Good morning, Chief," he greeted from the threshold.

"Why, David! So you're still with us. Come in, won't you?"

They were old friends. Police Chief Henley had held that post for 12 years. Of medium height, slightly rotund, his clear, fresh color belied the snow white hair. Less active now than formerly he was generally credited with giving Tremont an honest, thorough-going police department.

"Come in and sit down," he invited. "What's on your mind this morning?"

Bannister dropped into a chair. "It's this murder," he said. "I mean Tracy King. And now this other—er, accident. They look bad, Chief. When are we going to get something definite on them? I mean some action?"

"We're doing all we can."

"I know that. But I'd like to talk to you about your own personal theories about the crime."

"For publication?" The chief glanced at him warily from the corner of his eye.

Chief Henley turned more comfortably in his chair, lifted one knee over the other, and leaned back. "Well," he said, "I don't think it's such a difficult case. We've handled harder ones. Our main problem is to get that girl to talk."

"You mean Juliet France?"

"Yes—if that's her name. You never can tell about those things. It may be a name she picked up in a book. We've had her here for three days now and I've never seen such a stubborn creature!"

Bannister leaned forward. "Do you really think she shot King?" he asked.

The police chief laced his fingers together. "I'm not saying that," he said, "but I'm certain she's the key to the whole affair. Maybe someone else—a man—did the actual shooting, but I'm not convinced of that. What we've got to do is make her talk. She won't do it and lately she's refused to eat. She's making herself sick—"

"Can't you do something about it!"

The chief went on speaking and Bannister looked across the room. Suddenly he was aware that he had not been listening to what the other man was saying. He turned. "Look here, Chief," he said. "Don't you think there's a better way of getting information from that girl?"

"What do you mean?"

"Well—" Bannister hesitated. "I talked to her," he said, 'the first day she was here. She didn't strike me as the ordinary sort to be mixed up in an affair like this. She—well, she just doesn't look it. Don't you think you could get more out of her if she weren't in jail?"

The look the police chief gave him was incredulous. "Are you suggesting that I should turn her loose?" he demanded.

"Of course not! I just thought if there was some place you could put her where she could be watched as closely as she is here, without realizing that she was being watched, you might learn a lot more about her—find out if she tries to get in touch with anyone, who she writes to and all that."

Henley nodded. "I see what you mean," he said. "It's an idea. It might work—possibly. Still, I don't know where I could send her. No, I'm afraid I don't know of a place—"

"I do!" Bannister interrupted eagerly. "My Aunt Kate's."

"What?"

"My Aunt Kate's," Bannister repeated firmly. "It's just the place. I'll tell my aunt she's an

CHRISTMAS MAILING

Say this for me, when I shall be
Beyond the reach of truth or slander,
Though I was no Apollo, though
I was not brave as brave Leander,
Although the hair my temples wear
Was thin and straight, not thick and curly,
I had one claim to honest fame—
I did my Christmas mailing early.

Although my face was commonplace,
Although my singing may have hurt you,
Let this be said above my bed,
At least I had one signal virtue:
I did not wait until too late—
Two weeks before the hurly-burly
My gifts I sent, my presents went;
I did my Christmas mailing early.

No ten-hour day the U. S. A.,
In states, or islands, or the Isthmus,
Will need to work the postal clerk
Because of me, this coming Christmas.
A crown awaits me at the gates,
Those certain gates described as pearly,
On judgment day—for, anyway,
I did my Christmas mailing early.

PRIMARY FUND TO COME SOON

Final Installment of School Money Will Be Distributed

Distribution of the final installment of the 1933 primary school fund money will be made by the state treasurer to the various county treasurers this week, according to announcement received from Lansing.

According to an announcement by State Treasury Theodore I. Fry and Auditor General John K. Stack, Jr., the final installment will total $3,110,917.50. The final adjusted census figures indicate that this sum will be distributed equally among 1,382,630 children as reported on the 1932 census. On an individual basis, there will be $2.25 distributed per child.

This final distribution makes a total of $12.58 for each census child, or a total for the year of $17,396,936.40.

While this amount represents a substantial aid to school districts, it is a decrease from the amount distributed in former years. In 1932 the distribution totaled $20,789,287.43, in 1931 the amount was $24,224,239.92, while the 1930 distribution was $24,160,905.57.

Michigan Woman Wins Relief From Stomach Trouble

For eight years Mrs. Myrtle M. Dolan, who lives at 123 Madison Avenue, Big Rapids, Michigan, suffered terribly with her stomach. She went to numerous doctors and submitted to an X-ray examination which disclosed a gastric ulcer. This she was advised would have to be operated on. Before taking this step she decided to try a simple home treatment known as Udga which brought her complete relief, the ability to eat food, and restored her to normal stomach health. Mrs. Dolan is so delighted with the result of The Udga Treatment that she wants all stomach sufferers to know of her experience.

Mrs. Dolan advises all sufferers from stomach trouble, stomach ulcers, gas pains, excess acid, belching, pains after eating, constipation, sour stomach, poor digestion, dyspepsia, and gastritis, due to hyperacidity or faulty diet, to try Udga at once. Now we offer the same treatment which produced such splendid results for Mrs. Dolan to all stomach sufferers on 15 days' trial, with money back if not satisfied. Also testimonials, a sworn statement of genuineness and a free book explaining the cause and treatment of various stomach disorders, including stomach ulcers. If you suffer, ask for the $1.00 trial package today. If it fails to help you, we'll give you your dollar back.

LUMBER TRADE OUTLOOK GOOD

Shipments in U. P. and Wisconsin Show Business Uptrend

Sawmill operators in upper Michigan and Wisconsin are closing the year confident that their industry has reached bottom in the period of business depression and started upward in point of volume. A talk with several of the leading operators reveals that in 1933 their shipments were slightly heavier than in 1931 and double the volume for 1932. The prospects for 1934 are considered bright as regards better prices and a better demand for all the northern hardwoods and softwoods.

In the past week or 10 days demand for upper Michigan and Wisconsin hardwoods and softwoods has simmered down to only small immediate shipment orders, but this is expected at this time of the year with yards and the factory consumers buying nothing ahead of their actual requirements. Statistical reports indicate that at the same time there are no large surplus stocks of lumber in pile in the north and that logging and sawing activities will be at a minimum through the winter months.

Code Prices Prevail

Minimum code prices now prevail in the north and such lumber as is now being shipped to the trade is bringing more money for the operators. Under the code the prices cover costs. In consequence the millmen are confident that all that is needed is volume to enable them to break at least even and this is expected in the first quarter when the industrial consumers have completed inventories and start coming into the market for their requirements. The outlook now is for a good first quarter demand for birch, maple, basswood, white pine and hemlock.

Shipment records of some of the leading northern sawmill operators show that after three years of a steady decline in volume their business in 1933 actually started on the upgrade. In the last four years the sawmill output in the north probably was the lowest in the history of the industry. There was no incentive for the operators to saw their trees into lumber and sell at a loss. In consequence much of the lumber sold was shipped from stocks in pile without much of any replacement.

Business Outlook Brighter

A feeling prevails among the upper Michigan and Wisconsin operators that in 1934 the dairy farmers in the north are going to have more money to spend for such lumber as is required to make improvements and alterations. This is expected to improve conditions in the hemlock and pine trade. It also is a belief of the northern millmen that soon after the turn of the year there will be a good seasonal pickup in the demand for hardwood lumber from the automobile and the furniture interests.

Christmas Greeting Cards Without Seal Can Go Third Class

Christmas and other greeting cards sent under cover in unsealed envelopes are rated as third class mail and can be sent at the rate of one and one-half cents for each two ounces or fraction thereof, according to a bulletin received by George G. Genesse, Escanaba postmaster.

"There appears to be some confusion on the part of the public as well as some postmasters with respect to the rate of postage on Christmas and other greeting cards sent under cover of unsealed envelopes," Mr. Geniesse said.

"Printed greetings cards mailed under cover of unsealed envelopes are chargeable with postage at the third-class rate of 1½ cents for each two ounces, or fraction of two ounces, regardless of whether addressed for delivery through postoffice boxes or general delivery, or by city or rural carrier; the one-cent-drop-letter rate applicable at non-letter-carrier offices does not apply to such cards in unsealed envelopes.

Simple Inscription

"Printed Christmas and other greeting cards in unsealed envelopes may bear a simple written inscription not in the nature of personal correspondence, such as 'Sincerely yours,' 'Merry Christmas,' 'Happy New Year,' 'with Best Wishes,' etc., together with the name and address of the sender and of the addressee, without subjecting them to more than the third class rate.

"Greeting cards, sealed or unsealed, bearing written messages other than the simple inscriptions above mentioned, as well as all cards sent in sealed envelopes, are chargeable with postage at the first-class rate of three cents an ounce or fraction of an ounce, except when the one-cent or two-cent drop-letter rate applies."

There was no incentive for the operators to saw their trees into lumber and sell at a loss. In consequence much of the lumber sold was shipped from stocks in pile without much of any replacement.

Business Outlook Brighter

A feeling prevails among the upper Michigan and Wisconsin operators that in 1934 the dairy farmers in the north are going to have more money to spend for such lumber as is required to make improvements and alterations. This is expected to improve conditions in the hemlock and pine trade. It also is a belief of the northern millmen that soon after the turn of the year there will be a good seasonal pickup in the demand for hardwood lumber from the automobile and the furniture interests.

Christmas Greeting Cards Without Seal Can Go Third Class

Christmas and other greeting cards sent under cover in unsealed envelopes are rated as third class mail and can be sent at the rate of one and one-half cents for each two ounces or fraction thereof, according to a bulletin received by George G. Geneisse, Escanaba postmaster.

"There appears to be some confusion on the part of the public as well as some postmasters with respect to the rate of postage on Christmas and other greeting cards sent under cover of unsealed envelopes," Mr. Geniesse said.

"Printed greetings cards mailed under cover of unsealed envelopes are chargeable with postage at the third-class rate of 1½ cents for each two ounces, or fraction of two ounces, regardless of whether addressed for delivery through postoffice boxes or general delivery, or by city or rural carrier; the one-cent-drop-letter rate applicable at non-letter-carrier offices does not apply to such cards in unsealed envelopes.

Simple Inscription

"Printed Christmas and other greeting cards in unsealed envelopes may bear a simple written inscription not in the nature of personal correspondence, such as 'Sincerely yours,' 'Merry Christmas,' 'Happy New Year,' 'with Best Wishes,' etc., together with the name and address of the sender and of the addressee, without subjecting them to more than the third-class rate.

"Greeting cards, sealed or unsealed, bearing written messages other than the simple inscriptions above mentioned, as well as all cards sent in sealed envelopes, are chargeable with postage at the first-class rate of three cents an ounce or fraction of an ounce, except when the one-cent or two-cent drop-letter rate applies."

Audience Finds Much of Worth In "The Tinker"

The outstanding evidence of the success of the playing of "The Tinker," Sunday evening at the Presbyterian church was the fact that it stirred the deep religious emotions of those in attendance. Through the thinker, the pivotal character of the drama, the author has shown his genius in portraying the splendid spirit of St. Francis of Assissi in a setting of modern life. The play represents a family which had come to the point of ruination through a desire for money and things; brought finally to realize that there are higher values, and through the recognition of these values the bonds of unity are strengthened again.

The part of the Tinker was taken by Noel Granberg who showed exceptional skill acquired through a devotion to a study of his character. The parts of the husband and wife of the distraught family were taken by Roy Ford and Irene Thompson who played these parts most realistically, so much so that they completely lost their identity as townspeople. Bob Mills as the nonchalant school boy was completely at ease in his role portrayal of boy life. As his college sister, Millicent Molloy showed that she was an equal master of her part and keenly alert in every situation. Lori Hemes as the college friend employed her splendid low speaking voice to full advantage in the coy observations which she made as a visitor in the family. And Clifford Hansen in the part of the "down and out" brother revealed a most marked ability in character portrayal and adaptation.

Mrs. John A. Semer, in her presention of the beautiful Ave Maria by Bach-Gounod, showed her careful devotion to the fine points of the art of music. This number was ably supported by Miss Genevieve Sedlock in the violin obligato and by Mrs. F. M. Fernstrom at the piano. In addition Mrs. Semer pleasantly interpreted Brahms' "Cradle Song."

It is the opinion of many of those closely connected with events of the church that this production stands as one of its most valued events in the file of the church. To Mrs. Carl E. Berger a high tribute of praise is due for her ability as director and also for her choice of characters as well as of worth while plays.

Bazaar And Tea At St. Stephen's

Early Planning Will Simplify Christmas Dinner Preparation

(From B. Altman and Co., New York.)

A gleaming white damask cloth makes the ideal background for this Merry Christmas dinner table. Red crystal glasses, red candles in painted angel candlesticks light each plate, silver holders contain big red candles, tiny Christmas trees in red pots stand at either end, and colorful red apples, red and green grapes and other fruit fill the center bowl and two bowls at either end.

The overwork and worry incident to elaborate Christmas dinner preparations can be overcome by working on a prearranged schedule. How to plan the holiday feast with maximum efficiency and a minimum of labor is described by Sister Mary in the article presented below, the first of a series of six on Cooking for Christmas.

Times have changed in many ways but Christmas customs and festivities remain much the same year after year. In fact, most families resent any marked innovation in the festivities and consider the Christmas dinner lacking if the cook fails to provide the traditional favorites.

In homes where there are small children, breakfast is an important meal. When the stockings that are "hung by the chimney" or even over the foot of the bed are quite small, breakfast may be wanted early on "Christmas day in the morning." Breakfast any time until nine o'clock means a fairly hearty meal, but it should be simple and easily and quickly prepared. Fruit prepared the night before, toast made at the table and a simple easily digested main dish are all that is necessary. Excitement retards digestion so the children's breakfast must be a simple nourishing meal that will see them through the thrills of the morning.

Simplifying Preparations

Careful planning on the part of the home-maker will simplify the preparation of her dinner so that she may enjoy her own gifts and guests without overwork and worry. Several days before Christmas she will take stock of her staple supplies and be sure that all table appointments are ready for use.

The day before Christmas is usually a very busy day for the cook. The fowl should be cleaned and stuffed and trussed, ready for the oven. The pudding sauce can be made at least in part. The salad dressing can be made one or two days before wanted and kept on ice. The celery can be crisped and wrapped in a damp towel and stored in the refrigerator until wanted. The lettuce can be washed and crisped and kept in an airtight container. Consomme or bouillon should be made and clarified all ready for reheating. A cream soup can be prepared to combine with thin white sauce.

Plum pudding is better if made several weeks before wanted for use and stored in a closely covered crock or tin box until Christmas day, when it can be returned to its mold and steamed one hour before serving.

Fowl or Roast Appropriate

All this planning produces a schedule that will reduce the amount of work left to be done on Christmas day to a minimum.

Goose has been the popular Christmas bird for centuries but any sort of fowl or roast is in perfect keeping. A study of world-wide customs shows a great variety of meats from which to choose. Many housewives plan their Christmas dinner with regard to the preceding Thanksgiving feast and the following New Year festivity: Turkey for Thanksgiving, goose for Christmas and duck for New Years.

The woman who has no maid may hesitate to serve an elaborate, many-course dinner, but if children are present it is best to start the meal with a clear soup. The hot soup steadies small nerves and is an aid to digestion.

Following are two menus that can be elaborated or simplified to meet individual needs.

Keep in mind the necessity of serving foods that children may eat without danger of later trouble.

Menu No. 1
Bouillon
Radishes Celery Assorted Olives
Roast Goose with Prune Stuffing
Giblet Gravy
Martinique Potatoes
Brussels Sprouts
Tomato Jelly and Cream Cheese Salad
Plum Pudding Sunshine Sauce
Christmas Candy
Black Coffee

Menu No. II
Grapefruit Cocktail
Consomme
Crown Roast of Pork
Blushing Apples
Glace Sweet Potatoes
Molded Spinach
Stuffed Sweet Pepper Salad
Jellied Plum Pudding Fruit Cake
Nuts Fruit
Coffee

The roast pork is prepared ready for roasting the day before the blushing apples are made, sweet potatoes parboiled and the salad and pudding made ready to serve. The fruit cake has been baked for weeks. On Christmas morning the cocktail must be made and chilled. Later the pork must be roasted, the consomme reheated, the spinach cooked and the sweet potatoes finished. But there is no elaborate and painstaking fussing necessary in the preparation of the meal.

Today's Recipe

Apple Sauce Cake

One and one-half cups apple sauce, 1 cup granulated sugar, ½ cup butter and lard mixed, 2 cups seedless raisins, 3 cups flour, 2 teaspoons soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon brandy or 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Use apple sauce sweetened as for the table. Cream shortening and sugar. Add apple sauce. Mix cleaned raisins with one cup flour and add to first mixture. Mix and sift remaining flour with salt, spices and soda. Sift several times to be sure the soda is thoroughly mixed through the flour. Add vanilla and brandy or lemon juice to first mixture. Beat well and add dry ingredients and nuts. Stir until thoroughly blended and smooth. Turn into a deep pan lined with heavy parchment paper and bake one and one-half hours in a low oven.

Whenever a cake is spiced any preferred shortening other than butter can be used. Many particular cooks use butter in delicate cakes because of the delicious flavor imparted to the cake. But even in these cakes at least half of some other less expensive shortening can be used with satisfactory results providing the amount of salt is increased.

Father Paiement Is Appointed To Dyckesville, Wis.

Rev. Walter A. Paiement, O. Praem., formerly of Gladstone, who assisted for a time at St. Patrick's parish in this city, has been appointed to the parish of St. Louis at Dyckesville, Wis., of which the late Rev. Father R. G. Londo, O. Praem, was pastor.

Father Londo, it will be recalled, met death when he drove his car into the rear of a truck to avoid striking pedestrians on the highway. He and Father Paiement were close friends.

The appointment of Father Paiement was made by the Rt. Rev. Abbot B. H. Pennings of St. Norbert's, Depere, and was approved by Rt. Rev. Bishop Paul P. Rhode of Green Bay.

Father Paiement, who is 37, entered St. Norbert's college in 1913 and joined the Praemonstratensian order in 1916. He was ordained in 1921 and became an instructor and prefect at St. Norbert's. Later he continued his studies at the Catholic University of America in Washington, D. C.

He has been serving as pastor of the summer parish at Sayner, Wis., and has also been engaged in conducting retreats and missions in various parishes.

The roast pork is prepared ready for roasting the day before. The blushing apples are made sweet potatoes parboiled and the salad and pudding made ready to serve. The fruit cake has been baked for weeks. On Christmas morning the cocktail must be made and chilled. Later the pork must be roasted, the consomme reheated, the spinach cooked and the sweet potatoes finished. But there is no elaborate and painstaking fussing necessary in the preparation of the meal.

Today's Recipe

Apple Sauce Cake

One and one-half cups apple sauce, 1 cup granulated sugar, ½ cup butter and lard mixed, 2 cups seedless raisins, 3 cups flour, 2 teaspoons soda, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, ½ teaspoon nutmeg, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 tablespoon brandy or 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Use apple sauce sweetened as for the table. Cream shortening and sugar. Add apple sauce. Mix cleaned raisins with one cup flour and add to first mixture. Mix and sift remaining flour with salt, spices and soda. Sift several times to be sure the soda is thoroughly mixed through the flour. Add vanilla and brandy or lemon juice to first mixture. Beat well and add dry ingredients and nuts. Stir until thoroughly blended and smooth. Turn into a deep pan lined with heavy parchment paper and bake one and one-half hours in a low oven.

Whenever a cake is spiced any preferred shortening other than butter can be used. Many particular cooks use butter in delicate cakes because of the delicious flavor imparted to the cake. But even in these cakes at least half of some other less expensive shortening can be used with satisfactory results providing the amount of salt is increased.

Father Paiement Is Appointed To Dyckesville, Wis.

Rev. Walter A. Paiement, O. Praem., formerly of Gladstone, who assisted for a time at St. Patrick's parish in this city, has been appointed to the parish of St. Louis at Dyckesville, Wis., of which the late Rev. Father R. G. Londo, O. Praem, was pastor.

Father Londo, it will be recalled, met death when he drove his car into the rear of a truck to avoid striking pedestrians on the highway. He and Father Paiement were close friends.

The appointment of Father Paiement was made by the Rt. Rev. Abbot B. H. Pennings of St. Norbert's, Depere, and was approved by Rt. Rev. Bishop Paul P. Rhode of Green Bay.

Father Paiement, who is 37, entered St. Norbert's college in 1913 and joined the Praemonstratensian order in 1916. He was ordained in 1921 and became an instructor and prefect at St. Norbert's. Later he continued his studies at the Catholic University of America in Washington, D. C.

He has been serving as pastor of the summer parish at Sayner, Wis., and has also been engaged in conducting retreats and missions in various parishes.

TELLS WORK OF COUZENS' FUND

Dr. H. I. Miller Gives Interesting Talk Before Rotarians

An interesting picture of the work done by the Couzens Children's Fund of Michigan both locally and throughout the state, was drawn by Dr. H. I. Miller, Escanaba, representative of the fund in Delta county, before the Gladstone Rotary club yesterday noon at their weekly meeting.

The fund was established four years ago by the Michigan statesman for the purpose of promoting the welfare and health of children throughout the state, Dr. Miller stated, and while the work has been principally of dental nature recently some relief has been given children of indigent families in various localities.

Figures showing the amount of dental work done by fund dentists during the past six months were quoted and were prodigious. In most of the cases the work would have been unnecessary had proper care been taken of the teeth. He also pointed out that care of even the baby teeth is needed.

As the result of improved dental condition, the speaker said that children showed better health and also better work scholastically.

A brief resume of the work done in Delta county was also given. In Gladstone alone some 200 children in the public and parochial schools have received attention.

Education of the children as to the proper care of teeth is also a phase of the work and towards this end an annual dental health poster contest is conducted, an event in which the local club cooperates. A number of the posters entered in a contest which closed recently were presented with pertinent remarks as the speaker concluded his address.

B. D. Kuhn, Menominee, county agricultural agent, was a guest at the meeting.

St. Paul's Church Selects Officers

Harvey Karnitz was elected president at the annual meeting of voting members of St. Paul's Lutheran church, held here Sunday afternoon. Charles Fitzlaff was selected as treasurer and Rufus Karnitz as secretary. All offices are for the year 1934. Chas. Fitzlaff was chosen as deacon for the next three years and Clarence Olson was named as trustee for a similar period. Olson and Owen Longberry will serve on the finance committee.

Mrs. Max Neumann Heads Ladies' Aid

Mrs. Max Neumann was elected head of the Ladies' Aid society of St. Martin's Lutheran church of Rapid River at the annual meeting held last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Buehler at Rapid. Mrs. Wm. Turant was named secretary and Mrs. James Flinn, treasurer.

Mrs. B. D. Kuhn and daughter, Joyce, who have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Kuhn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Skellenger, returned to their home in Menominee Monday.

AIRPORT SITE IS APPROVED

Landing Field To Be Built on Bluff as Civil Works Project

Approval of an airport site located on the bluff several miles south of Gladstone was given by Lieut. Col. Floyd Evens, director of the state board of aeronautics, while in Delta county last weekend to inspect airport sites.

The project has been approved by the county welfare commission as a civil works and a crew of approximately 30 men have already been put to work clearing and improving the property. Lieut. Walter Arntzen and Emmet Meehan are directing the work for the road commission which is in charge. The crew will later be increased to approximately 50 men, it is understood.

The site, located on the bluff about opposite the intersection of the highways below Terrace Gardens, contains 160 acres. It can be purchased at a nominal price or may be had under a long-term lease at low rental.

Some Tuberculosis Sanatoria Are Pressed For Funds

Death is shadowing Michigan's Christmas this year.

"In many counties the tax-supported care of the tuberculosis has been abandoned and in others its end is not far off," declared Dr. Bruce H. Douglas, president of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association yesterday.

"Several tuberculosis sanatoriums are in critical financial straits and may be compelled to turn out their patients. This means that poverty-stricken men and women are either now out on their own or will be soon turned loose in their communities to increase their own sickness and to infect others. That means Death."

Such a situation, he warned Christmas seal salesmen, calls for re-doubled efforts on the part of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

"In many places, the Christmas seal alone is left to protect the public. Last summer, lack of finances forced one sanatorium to close its children's building, shutting out boys and girls who through no fault of their own were infected with a deadly disease. Another sanatorium has never had money enough to equip its children's building."

"Means must be found, and found by the Christmas seal, to safeguard Michigan from the results of dropping proper public health standards because of a lack of money. No community, no individual is safe until all are safe. Funds from the sale of Christmas seals are left as the only way the common man can be assured of more sanatofium beds and fewer deaths from tuberculosis in this state."

"We have reached a crisis in a peace-time emergency and we cannot drop our guard. The work of the Christmas seal must go forward, until parents may be sure their children are safe from tuberculosis and children may know they won't be left fatherless or motherless. The fight must go on!"

TAX COLLECTION STARTED HERE

Delinquent Special Assessments Also Spread on Roll

Collection of the winter, or state, county and school taxes, was officially begun yesterday at the city clerk's office. The amount to be collected for all purposes totals $40,415.39.

The rate per thousand dollars of assessed valuation is $17.09 in comparison with $38.85 per thousand a year ago. This is considerably less than half. Besides the state, county and school taxes, there are levies for county and school debt service.

In addition to the current taxes a total of $4,932.20 in delinquent special assessments has also been added to the roll as prescribed by the city charter.

The delinquencies, according to project, are as follows:

Minnesota Ave., paving, $864.-43; East Minnesota sewer, $264.-46; Delta Ave., sewer, $119.79; Ninth Street paving, $175.86; Dakota Ave., sewer, $365.03; Michigan Ave., paving, $549.64; Montana Ave., sewer, $451.25; Wisconsin Ave., paving, $1,954.-51; Superior Ave., sewer, $116.-17; West Minnesota Ave., sewer, $126.62.

Probation Given To Youth Arrested For Violating Game Law

Carl Bergman, charged with carrying a 22-calibre rifle into an area frequented by deer during the open season without first securing a license to do so, pleaded guilty in justice court Friday. Because of the fact that there was no evidence of the offender ever hunting before, had never violated, and also due to his age, Justice Stephens showed leniency.

Bergman was put on probation for ninety days and his fine of $10.00 and $8.50 costs were suspended. His rifle was confiscated. Bergman was arrested on November 5 while hunting in Manistique township by Frank Generon, local conservation officer.

Road Officials Say All Highways Open

One of the worst blizzards of the season struck Manistique and vicinity Sunday. Fine snow, driven by a strong gale, obscured vision and made driving precarious. Thermometers at the court house and county garage registered three above during the night, while on the west side of the city the mercury went down as low as three below.

County road officials stated yesterday morning that the snowfall interfered with traffic but little and that principal highways are easily passable. Highways M-28, US-2, M-94, and M-77, are all motorable. Greatest snowfall occurred on M-77 north of Seney where six inches were recorded.

HARRY KIPKE TO SPEAK MONDAY

Famous Michigan Coach to Bring Movies of Wolverine Plays

Famous Michigan plays, including "old 83," a trick play which has won many a game for the Wolverines, will be shown on the screen at the Elks' temple next Monday evening when Harry G. Kipke, youngest and most successful coach in the Big Ten, will be here to hand local football fans some of the inside information which has enabled University of Michigan teams to hang up the greatest record in modern football history. Kipke's services were secured through the efforts of the Manistique University of Michigan Alumni club.

Those who desire to hear Mr. Kipke, an interesting and fluent speaker as well as a great grid mentor, are urged to communicate with Herbert K. Peterson, secretary of the local U. of M. club. As accomodations can be made for only 50 persons it is advised that tickets be obtained well in advance.

The banquet, which is being sponsored by the local U. of M. club, Chamber of Commerce, and Rotary club, will commence at 6:30 o'clock and tickets will sell for $1.00 per plate. Those in charge state that reservations will be made only on the basis of the number of advance tickets sold. The meeting will be open to the general public as well as to members of the above named organizations.

In addition to the address at the Elks' temple, Coach Kipke will also speak to local high school students either at 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, or if more convenient, on Friday morning.

New City Projects Slated Under CWA

Several new projects for the relief of local unemployed have been given approval by the county Civil Works commission and sent to the state commission for approval, it was stated yesterday. They include work on city streets, redecoration of the city hall, and repair of the former Charcoal Iron company roundhouse. Other tentative projects which are being submitted to the local commission include various repair jobs on township schools and a project at the state hatchery at Thompson which is expected to absorb quite a number of city unemployed if approval is granted.

It is planned to make a city shop out of the Charcoal Iron company structure in which to store municipal equipment. It is believed that this can be accomplished with but very little expense in materials, but would provide a fine proportionate share of work.

Street projects are in the nature of extension work on Caribou street eastward from Front street to Mackinac avenue and on Potter street south.

City projects upon which men are now being employed are at Riverside park and on the playground site at the old quarry east of the Inland Lime and Stone company office. Work will also be accomplished on the Lakeshore park project which has already been given tentative approval by the state commission.

Estimates of the cost of the various city projects are as follows:

Potter street, $5,000; Caribou street, $7,500; Riverside Park, $2,500; Lakeside Park, $500; Playground, $7,500; City Hall, $925; Charcoal Iron building, $1,600.

Doctors Give Creosote For Dangerous Coughs

For many years our best doctors have prescribed creosote in some form for coughs, colds and bronchitis, knowing how dangerous it is to let them hang on.

Creomulsion with creosote and six other highly important medicinal elements, quickly and effectively stops all coughs and colds that otherwise might lead to serious trouble.

Creomulsion is powerful in the treatment of all colds and coughs, yet it is absolutely harmless and is pleasant and easy to take.

Your own druggist guarantees Creomulsion by refunding your money if you are not relieved after taking Creomulsion as directed. Beware the cough or cold that hangs on. Always keep Creomulsion on hand for instant use. (adv.)

TELLS WORK OF COUZENS' FUND

Dr. H. I. Miller Gives Interesting Talk Before Rotarians

An interesting picture of the work done by the Couzens Children's Fund of Michigan both locally and throughout the state, was drawn by Dr. H. I. Miller, Escanaba, representative of the fund in Delta county, before the Gladstone Rotary club yesterday noon at their weekly meeting.

The fund was established four years ago by the Michigan statesman for the purpose of promoting the welfare and health of children throughout the state, Dr. Miller stated, and while the work has been principally of dental nature recently some relief has been given children of indigent families in various localities.

Figures showing the amount of dental work done by fund dentists during the past six months were quoted and were prodigious. In most of the cases the work would have been unnecessary had proper care been taken of the teeth. He also pointed out that care of even the baby teeth is needed.

As the result of improved dental condition, the speaker said that children showed better health and also better work scholastically.

A brief resume of the work done in Delta county was also given. In Gladstone alone some 200 children in the public and parochial schools have received attention.

Education of the children as to the proper care of teeth is also a phase of the work and towards this end an annual dental health poster contest is conducted, an event in which the local club cooperates. A number of the posters entered in a contest which closed recently were presented with pertinent remarks as the speaker concluded his address.

B. D. Kuhn, Menominee, county agricultural agent, was a guest at the meeting.

Some Tuberculosis Sanatoria Are Pressed For Funds

Death is shadowing Michigan's Christmas this year.

"In many counties the tax-supported care of the tuberculosis has been abandoned and in others its end is not far off," declared Dr. Bruce H. Douglas, president of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association yesterday.

"Several tuberculosis sanatoriums are in critical financial straits and may be compelled to turn out their patients. This means that poverty-stricken men and women are either now out on their own or will be soon—turned loose in their communities to increase their own sickness and to infect others. That means Death."

Such a situation, he warned Christmas seal salesmen, calls for re-doubled efforts on the part of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

"In many places, the Christmas seal alone is left to protect the public. Last summer, lack of finances forced one sanatorium to close its children's building, shutting out boys and girls who through no fault of their own were infected with a deadly disease. Another sanatorium has never had money enough to equip its children's building."

"Means must be found, and found by the Christmas seal, to safeguard Michigan from the results of dropping proper public health standards because of a lack of money. No community, no individual is safe until all are safe. Funds from the sale of Christmas seals are left as the only way the common man can be assured of more sanatorium beds and fewer deaths from tuberculosis in this state."

"We have reached a crisis in a peace-time emergency and we cannot drop our guard. The work of the Christmas seal must go forward, until parents may be sure their children are safe from tuberculosis and children may know they won't be left fatherless or motherless. The fight must go on!"

TAX COLLECTION STARTED HERE

Delinquent Special Assessments Also Spread on Roll

Collection of the winter, or state, county and school taxes, was officially begun yesterday at the city clerk's office. The amount to be collected for all purposes totals $40,415.39.

The rate per thousand dollars of assessed valuation is $17.09 in comparison with $38.85 per thousand a year ago. This is considerably less than half. Besides the state, county and school taxes, there are levies for county and school debt service.

In addition to the current taxes a total of $4,932.20 in delinquent special assessments has also been added to the roll as prescribed by the city charter.

The delinquencies, according to project, are as follows:

Minnesota Ave., paving, $864.43; East Minnesota sewer, $264.46; Delta Ave., sewer, $119.79; Ninth Street paving, $175.86; Dakota Ave., sewer, $365.03; Michigan Ave., paving, $549.64; Montana Ave., sewer, $451.25; Wisconsin Ave., paving, $1,954.51; Superior Ave., sewer, $116.17; West Minnesota Ave., sewer, $126.62.

Road Officials Say All Highways Open

One of the worst blizzards of the season struck Manistique and vicinity Sunday. Fine snow, driven by a strong gale, obscured vision and made driving precarious. Thermometers at the court house and county garage registered three above during the night, while on the west side of the city the mercury went down as low as three below.

County road officials stated yesterday morning that the snowfall interfered with traffic but little and that principal highways are easily passable. Highways M-28, US-2, M-94, and M-77, are all negotiable. Greatest snowfall occurred on M-77 north of Seney where six inches were recorded.

Grading Road Into New State Park

Construction of a new road into the new state park at the south side of Indian Lake is now being undertaken by a crew of men under the direction of Lawrence Cook who has recently been placed in charge as a successor to Mr. McGarry. Grading and clean-up work are the immediate projects as is the removal of underbrush, while a bathhouse will be erected in the spring. A warehouse was completed about a month ago.

Mr. Cook came here from Camp Hawkes, a Civilian Conservation Corps camp near Alpena. He is a graduate of Michigan State college.

SOCIAL

Evening Party

Complimentary to Mrs. Mauritz Carlson a delightful evening party was held Saturday at the home of Mrs. Lee Stewart, 191 North Cedar street.

Three tables of bridge were formed by the guests and prizes in the games were awarded to Mrs. V. F. Lang, high score, and Miss Monica McConnell, second high. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the evening, and the guest of honor was presented with a pretty gift.

HARRY KIPKE TO SPEAK MONDAY

Famous Michigan Coach to Bring Movies of Wolverine Plays

Famous Michigan plays, including "old 83," a trick play which has won many a game for the Wolverines, will be shown on the screen at the Elks' temple next Monday evening when Harry G. Kipke, youngest and most successful coach in the Big Ten, will be here to hand local football fans some of the inside information which has enabled University of Michigan teams to hang up the greatest record in modern football history. Kipke's services were secured through the efforts of the Manistique University of Michigan Alumni club.

Those who desire to hear Mr. Kipke, an interesting and fluent speaker as well as a great grid mentor, are urged to communicate with Herbert K. Peterson, secretary of the local U. of M. club. As accomodations can be made for only 50 persons it is advised that tickets be obtained well in advance.

The banquet, which is being sponsored by the local U. of M. club, Chamber of Commerce, and Rotary club, will commence at 6:30 o'clock and tickets will sell for $1.00 per plate. Those in charge state that reservations will be made only on the basis of the number of advance tickets sold. The meeting will be open to the general public as well as to members of the above named organizations.

In addition to the address at the Elks' temple, Coach Kipke will also speak to local high school students either at 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, or if more convenient, on Friday morning.

New City Projects Slated Under CWA

Several new projects for the relief of local unemployed have been given approval by the county Civil Works commission and sent to the state commission for approval, it was stated yesterday. They include work on city streets, redecoration of the city hall, and repair of the former Charcoal Iron company roundhouse. Other tentative projects which are being submitted to the local commission include various repair jobs on township schools and a project at the state hatchery at Thompson which is expected to absorb quite a number of city unemployed if approval is granted.

It is planned to make a city shop out of the Charcoal Iron company structure in which to store municipal equipment. It is believed that this can be accomplished with but very little expense in materials, but would provide a fine proportionate share of work.

Street projects are in the nature of extension work on Caribou street eastward from Front street to Mackinac avenue and on Potter street south.

City projects upon which men are now being employed are at Riverside park and on the playground site at the old quarry east of the Inland Lime and Stone company office. Work will also be accomplished on the Lakeshore park project which has already been given tentative approval by the state commission.

Estimates of the cost of the various city projects are as follows:

Potter street, $5,000; Caribou street, $7,500; Riverside Park, $2,500; Lakeside Park, $500; Playground, $7,500; City Hall, $925; Charcoal Iron building, $1,600.

Gilligan Obsequies Attended By Many

Impressive and solemn rites were held Saturday afternoon for John Wesley Gilligan, prominent local resident whose sudden death occurred early last Thursday morning. Services were held from the family residence, 202 Lake street, with Rev. S. T. Bottrell, pastor of the First Methodist church, delivering the sermon. A fine eulogy was presented by Thad Leland, of Detroit, and a quartet composed of Mrs. H. H. Hargreaves, Mrs. Charles Reilley, Harold Cockram and Leonard Males, sang several appropriate selections.

The services were attended by numberous friends of the deceased and the many floral offerings which surrounded the casket paid mute tribute to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Pallbearers were D. J. Ward, P. P. Stamness, J. C. Wood, Harry Eriksen, G. S. Johnson, and W. G. Stephens. Interment was made in Lakeview cemetery under the direction of Sven Johnson, local mortician.

During the services, from the hours of 2:30 to 4 p. m. local stores ceased business in respect to the memory of the deceased.

Joseph N. Chenord, Former Manistique Resident Is Dead

Joseph N. Chenord, 66, former well known resident of Schoolcraft county, passed away yesterday morning at 5:45 at the Garden hospital.

Death was due to complication of diseases, Mr. Chenord having been in ill health for the past six years. He had been a resident of Manistique Heights for 38 years and during the past eight years had operated a gas station at Garden Junction. For 30 years he held the post of Schoolcraft county surveyor and about 12 years ago served as supervisor of Hiawatha township for two terms.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete pending word from a sister in California but are expected to be held either Wednesday or Thursday morning. The remains are being prepared by Gunnarson and Kefauver, and will be taken to the home of a daughter, Mrs. Frank Weber, tannery location, prior to the funeral services.

Doctors Give Creosote For Dangerous Coughs

For many years our best doctors have prescribed creosote in some form for coughs, colds and bronchitis, knowing how dangerous it is to let them hang on.

Creomulsion with creosote and six other highly important medicinal elements, quickly and effectively stops all coughs and colds that otherwise might lead to serious trouble.

Creomulsion is powerful in the treatment of all colds and coughs, yet it is absolutely harmless and is pleasant and easy to take.

Your own druggist guarantees Creomulsion by refunding your money if you are not relieved after taking Creomulsion as directed. Beware the cough or cold that hangs on. Always keep Creomulsion on hand for instant use. (adv.)

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—Profit-taking tempered today's stock market but recent leanings toward cheerfulness still seemed to predominate and the close represented a small gain for the averages. Turnover jumped to 2,453,860 shares.

With dollar rates higher in foreign exchange dealings as the official gold price tarried at $34.01, bonds again had the benefit of a rally. U. S. governments, after some early hesitation, contributed their share of the investment market's upturn.

There were recurring reports that overtures had been or were to be made to Great Britain for an understanding on monetary matters, but these went unverified; a state department official denied that conversations had taken place.

The background of security markets continued favorable. Firmness in the bond list, noticeable for more than a week, as well as dollar movements, offer evidence that flight of capital from the country has been halted, while the situation of trade, which has just been through a sharp reaction, provides grounds for encouragement.

Steel operations begin the week with a good uplift. American Iron & Steel's operating ratio figure today was 31.5 percent of capacity, the best in about six weeks and a gain of 11 percent from a week ago when the rate was 28.3. This rise, contrary to seasonal expectancy, is attributed to larger specifications against fourth quarter contracts and to increased takings of automotive steel as car and truck makers prepare for new model production. Incidentally, the code requires that shipments on contracts for the quarter be completed by the year-end, which is presumably accelerating activity.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, Dec. 11—Stimulated by a sudden cold wave arousing crop damage fears, wheat rose today to 6½ cents above last week's low, but profit-taking virtually cancelled gains.
Almost total absence of snow protection, combined with 40 degrees drop in temperature, gave ground for uneasiness regarding the domestic wheat crop outlook, especially in the southwest. Notice was also taken of 3,788,000 bushels decrease of the United States wheat visible supply, with total stocks the smallest since 1927.
Wheat closed unsettled at the same a Saturday's finish to 3-8 higher, corn unchanged to 3-8 lower, oats ¼ to 3-4 up and provisions unchanged to a rise of 7 cents.
In the corn market, an increase of 1,743,000 bushels of the corn visible supply had a bearish influence. Oats were responsive to 622,000 bushels decrease of the stock of oats in sight.
Provisions averaged higher with cereals, despite setbacks of hog values.

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—Both prime investment and the more speculative secondary loans reflected improved trading sentiment in the bond market today and prices in most categories were pushed forward vigorously.

Total sales expanded to $14,996,000, par value, from $12,669,000 last Friday, and the average for 60 domestic corporate issues advanced half a point.

The United States government list, which had been declining for several days, rallied 1-32nd to 22-32nds of a point, with activity being centered principally in the lower-yield treasuries.

While the domestic gold rate was again unchanged, and currency stabilization rumors caused the dollar to advance in foreign exchange dealings, traders and investors apparently were much encouraged by optimistic business reports. The American Iron & Steel Institute estimated steel operations this week would be around 31.5 percent of capacity, which compares with 28.3 percent a week ago and is the highest figure since the week of October 23, when the rate was 31.6.

Foreign obligations were quiet and mixed. Bonds of Argentina, Germany, Switzerland and the United Kingdom sagged a point or more. Some of the Belgians improved.

Big Board Trend Followed On Curb

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—Following the trend on the big board curb prices moved upward today. Despite late profit taking, the list closed with numerous advances of fractions to around 2 points. Trading broadened on the upturn and turned quieter on the reaction. Transfers approximated 343,000 shares compared with 241,000 for last Friday.

Industrial specialties made the best progress while utilities followed closely. Alcoholds and metals lost most of their advantage, however. Oils were steady with the exception of Humble which finished 1 3-8 points lower at 102½. Earlier it had touched a new high at 105½. Humble Oil (new) which was traded for the first time today, closed at 35 after fluctuating between 34 7-8 and 35½.

Jones & Laughlin Steel was bid up 4¼ points. Columbia Gas & Electric preferred rose 3½ while gains of about 1 to 2 or so were registered by Commonwealth Edison, Columbia Gas & Electric preferred, Electric Bond and Share, New York Shipbuilding, Dow Chemical, Novadel Agene, Waco Aircraft and A. O. Smith.

old friend of mine. And the girl can think she's dismissed but that you want her to stay in town for a while longer. She won't know there are any strings to it. You can have someone watch the house."

"Wait a minute! Wait a minute!" the chief protested. "You mean Mrs. Hewlett would be willing to take the girl into her home?"

"Why not? Tell you what—how about having one of your men come out and pretend he's say, a gardener. No, that wouldn't do in November, would it? Well, then a house man. Tend the furnace and do errands and be sort of general handy man, you know. Even my aunt won't need to know what he's really there for. He can watch every move the girl makes, check up on everything she says and does!"

Henley shook his head. "This is a police department, David," he said. "It's not a school of dramatics. We don't do things the way you see them on the stage and in movies. My men don't go around pretending they're gardeners and furnace men or whatever you call it. They're policemen."

"But listen Chief—"

"It's a crazy idea. No. I'm afraid it's no use to us."

Twenty minutes later Bannister was at the telephone, calling a number.

"Aunt Kate," he exclaimed when he heard her voice. "I've some news for you."

Punctuality New Craze

London's younger generation has a new craze. It is punctuality. It no longer is smart for a girl to keep her escort waiting, and to arrive late at a theatre is considered vulgar. One youth declares that as soon as he is on his own he will have his clock electrically controlled. Parents are branded as "hopelessly unpunctual."

There were no ponies in the Pony Express, they were horses.

SOME LANSING SOLONS 'BROKE'

Legislators Having Hard Time to Get Along on $3 a Day

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 11.—Take the word of the members, especially the new Democratic members who had high hopes in the beginning, this thing of being a State legislator is a discouraging business. Some of those who swelled with pride when elected now are beginning to sympathize with themselves. The world, it seems, is against them.

In the first place, consider the matter of finances. And it isn't State finances, bond issues and tax programs, that constitute the greatest problem for some of the legislators to solve. It is the problem as to where this week's room rent is coming from.

In the days past, when Michigan Legislatures were Republican and normalcy prevailed, the men who aspired to serve their State usually were so situated that they could take a short winter's vacation without any particular damage to their income. They had a bank, a grocery store, a law practice, or a farm back home that would go on just the same in their absence and keep the wolf from the door.

Jobless Are Elected

But that was changed in the fall of 1932. The gentlemen who chose to represent the people because they had the time for it and could afford it were thrown out. Of the new members elected a few didn't even have jobs until the votes made them legislators. The $3 a day, approximately $1,000 a year, looked good to them. A number of businesses that formerly were equal to the support of a legislator proved entirely inadequate in 1933. The farmers could eat if they stayed at home but the farms were not producing much money to be spent in Lansing.

They began to feel the pinch early. Before the 1933 regular session was a month old leaders in the party began to cast about to see if there wasn't some way they could raise living expenses for a few of the members. There wasn't, they decided.

But the impecunious members were still hopeful. They had decided to make the session short and if they could struggle through to the end, then the $3 a day they would keep on drawing for two years would more than make up for what their Lansing sojourn had cost them.

Then see what happened.

The regular session strung right out past the middle of June, more than five and one-half months. Five and one-half months in Lansing, or any other city that isn't home, can do a lot of things to $2,000. Now comes this special session that already has lasted two weeks and may end any day, or may last until Christmas. And that isn't all the story. The Governor has announced that a second extraordinary session will begin about the middle of January. The Legislative Council, the Governor and virtually every organization and mill the individuals in the state are thinking up things to present to that session. There just isn't any telling how long it may last. The legislators might be here until June again, and long before it is time to set out the first flowers in the capitol lawn that $2,000 for the two years will have disappeared as completely as last summer's roses.

"And for all of that, what do we get?" asked one of the new Democrats. "We get kicked around by everybody. We get it in the neck from the folks at home, from the State officers, from city councils and boards of supervisors and even from Federal officers. Nobody likes us. Nobody likes anything we do. They wouldn't like it, no matter what we did."

But it gets in the blood. If they can borrow enough money to get cards printed, probably all of them will be candidates for re-election.

GARDEN NEWS

Will Move School

Garden, Mich., (Special)—According to a statement by Walter Stellwagen, secretary of the board of education, Garden township, the school building know as the Hennessey school, east of town, which was closed several years ago, will be brought down to town as soon as there is enough snow for sleighing, and placed on the north side of the high school building. When the schools open next September this building will accommodate the kindergarten pupils of the township. At that time, the Kate's Bay school north of town will be closed and the pupils of that district will be conveyed to town. This is a step toward greater efficiency in the school system.

Transports Yule Trees

Wesley Horning left here early Saturday with a load of approximately eight hundred Christmas trees for Chicago. They were cut in the Nahma Junction district for the Beach brothers who will retail them on the Chicago market. They were of varying sizes and usually good quality. More trees will be shipped from this district in the near future.

Personal News

Miss Eunice Reno of Nahma is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Reno. Her cousin, Miss Paulina Guertin was her guest for a few days. Miss Reno expects to return to the Reno camp about Friday.

The Womens' Guild of the Garden Congregational church held their meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William McNally. Place and time of the next meeting will be announced later.

Members of the Garden Village board and also members of the Garden Township board met Friday night to discuss the advisability of making improvements on the Town Hall. After considerable discussion it was decided to enlarge the hall and make a number of other improvements, details of which will be made public at a later date. The main street of the village will also be improved by further draining and grading. It is understood that the labor for this work will be furnished by those on the R. F. C. payroll. The necessity for making repairs on the hall has long been felt, due to its continued use as a gymnasium by the young folks of the community. It is hoped that actual work will be commenced almost immediately.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—Profit-taking tempered today's stock market but recent leanings toward cheerfulness still seemed to predominate and the close represented a small gain for the averages. Turnover jumped to 2,453,860 shares.

With dollar rates higher in foreign exchange dealings as the official gold price tarried at $34.01, bonds again had the benefit of a rally. U. S. governments, after some early hesitation, contributed their share of the investment market's upturn.

There were recurring reports that overtures had been or were to be made to Great Britain for an understanding on monetary matters, but these went unverified; a state department official denied that conversations had taken place.

The background of security markets continued favorable. Firmness in the bond list, noticeable for more than a week, as well as dollar movements, offer evidence that flight of capital from the country has been halted, while the situation of trade, which has just been through a sharp reaction, provides grounds for encouragement.

Steel operations begin the week with a good uplift. American Iron & Steel's operating ratio figure today was 31.5 percent of capacity, the best in about six weeks and a gain of 11 percent from a week ago when the rate was 28.3. This rise, contrary to seasonal expectancy, is attributed to larger specifications against fourth quarter contracts and to increased takings of automotive steel as car and truck makers prepare for new model production. Incidentally, the code requires that shipments on contracts for the quarter be completed by the year-end, which is presumably accelerating activity.

CHICAGO GRAIN
Chicago, Dec. 11—Stimulated by a sudden cold wave arousing crop damage fears, wheat rose today to 5¼ cents above last week's low, but profit-taking virtually cancelled gains.
Almost total absence of snow protection, combined with 40 degrees drop in temperature, gave ground for uneasiness regarding the domestic wheat crop outlook, especially in the southwest. Notice was also taken of 3,788,000 bushels decrease of the United States wheat visible supply, with total stocks the smallest since 1927.
Wheat closed unsettled at the same as Saturday's finish to 3-8 higher, corn unchanged to 5-8 lower, oats ¼ to 3-4 up and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.
In the corn market, an increase of 1,743,000 bushels of the corn visible supply had a late bearish influence. Oats were responsive to 692,000 bushels decrease of the stock of oats in sight.
Provisions averaged higher with cereals, despite setbacks of hog values.

(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—Both prime investment and the more speculative secondary loans reflected improved trading sentiment in the bond market today and prices in most categories were pushed forward vigorously.

Total sales expanded to $14,996,000, par value, from $12,669,000 last Friday, and the average for 60 domestic corporate issues advanced half a point.

The United States government list, which had been declining for several days, rallied 1-32nd to 22-32nds of a point, with activity being centered principally in the lower-yield treasuries.

While the domestic gold rate was again unchanged, and currency stabilization rumors caused the dollar to advance in foreign exchange dealings, traders and investors apparently were much encouraged by optimistic business reports. The American Iron & Steel Institute estimated steel operations this week would be around 31.5 percent of capacity, which compares with 28.3 percent a week ago and is the highest figure since the week of October 23, when the rate was 31.6.

Foreign obligations were quiet and mixed. Bonds of Argentina, Germany, Switzerland and the United Kingdom sagged a point or more. Some of the Belgians improved.

Big Board Trend Followed On Curb

BY BERNARD S. O'HARA
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—Following the trend on the big board curb prices moved upward today. Despite late profit taking, the list closed with numerous advances of fractions to around 2 points. Trading broadened on the upturn and turned quieter on the reaction. Transfers approximated 343,000 shares compared with 241,000 for last Friday.

Industrial specialties made the best progress while utilities followed closely. Alcohols and metals lost most of their advantage, however. Oils were steady with the exception of Humble which finished 1 3-8 points lower at 102½. Earlier it had touched a new high at 105½. Humble Oil (new) which was traded for the first time today, closed at 35 after fluctuating between 34 7-8 and 35½.

Jones & Laughlin Steel was bid up 4¼ points. Columbia Gas & Electric preferred rose 3½ while gains of about 1 to 2 or so were registered by Commonwealth Edison, Columbia Gas & Electric preferred, Electric Bond and Share, New York Shipbuilding, Dow Chemical, Novadel Agene, Waco Aircraft and A. O. Smith.

old friend of mine. And the girl can think she's dismissed but that you want her to stay in town for a while longer. She won't know there are any strings to it. You can have someone watch the house—"

"Wait a minute! Wait a minute!" the chief protested. "You mean Mrs. Hewlett would be willing to take the girl into her home?"

"Why not? Tell you what—how about having one of your men come out and pretend he's—say, a gardener. No, that wouldn't do in November, would it? Well, then a house man. Tend the furnace and do errands and be sort of general handy man, you know. Even my aunt won't need to know what he's really there for. He can watch every move the girl makes, check up on everything she says and does!"

Henley shook his head. "This is a police department, David," he said. "It's not a school of dramatics. We don't do things the way you see them on the stage and in movies. My men don't go around pretending they're gardeners and furnace men or whatever you call it. They're policemen."

"But listen, Chief—!"

"It's a crazy idea. No. I'm afraid it's no use to us!"

Twenty minutes later Bannister was at the telephone, calling a number.

"Aunt Kate," he exclaimed when he heard her voice. "I've some news for you!"

Punctuality New Craze

London's young generation has a new craze. It is punctuality. It no longer is smart for a girl to keep her escort waiting, and to arrive late at a theatre is considered vulgar. One youth declares that as soon as he is on his own he will have his clocks electrically controlled. Parents are branded as "hopelessly unpunctual."

There were no ponies in the Pony Express; they were horses.

SOME LANSING SOLONS 'BROKE'

Legislators Having Hard Time to Get Along on $3 a Day

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 11.—Take the word of the members, especially the new Democratic members who had high hopes in the beginning, this thing of being a State legislator is a discouraging business. Some of those who swelled with pride when elected now are beginning to sympathize with themselves. The world, it seems, is against them.

In the first place, consider the matter of finances. And it isn't State finances, bond issues and tax programs, that constitute the greatest problem for some of the legislators to solve. It is the problem as to where this week's room rent is coming from.

In the days past, when Michigan Legislatures were Republican and normalcy prevailed, the men who aspired to serve their State usually were so situated that they could take a short winter's vacation without any particular damage to their income. They had a bank, a grocery store, a law practice, or a farm back home that would go on just the same in their absence and keep the wolf from the door.

Jobless Are Elected

But that was changed in the fall of 1932. The gentlemen who chose to represent the people because they had the time for it and could afford it were thrown out. Of the new members elected a few didn't even have jobs until the votes made them legislators. The $3 a day, approximately $1,000 a year, looked good to them. A number of businesses that formerly were equal to the support of a legislator proved entirely inadequate in 1933. The farmers could eat if they stayed at home but the farms were not producing much money to be spent in Lansing.

They began to feel the pinch early. Before the 1933 regular session was a month old leaders in the party began to cast about to see if there wasn't some way they could raise living expenses for a few of the members. There wasn't, they decided.

But the impecunious members were still hopeful. They had decided to make the session short and if they could struggle through to the end, then the $3 a day they would keep on drawing for two years would more than make up for what their Lansing sojourn had cost them.

Then see what happened.

The regular session strung right out past the middle of June, more than five and one-half months. Five and one-half months in Lansing, or any other city that isn't home, can do a lot of things to $2,000. Now comes this special session that already has lasted two weeks and may end any day, or may last until Christmas. And that isn't all the story. The Governor has announced that a second extraordinary session will begin about the middle of January. The Legislative Council, the Governor and virtually every organization and half the individuals in the state are thinking up things to present to that session. There just isn't any telling how long it may last. The legislators might be here until June again, and long before it is time to set out the first flowers in the capitol lawn that $2,000 for the two years will have disappeared as completely as last summer's roses.

"And for all of that, what do we get?" asked one of the new Democrats. "We get kicked around by everybody. We get it in the neck from the folks at home, from the State officers, from city councils and boards of supervisors and even from Federal officers. Nobody likes us. Nobody likes anything we do. They wouldn't like it, no matter what we did."

But it gets in the blood. If they can borrow enough money to get cards printed, probably all of them will be candidates for re-election.

GARDEN NEWS

Will Move School

Garden, Mich., (Special)—According to a statement by Walter Stellwagen, secretary of the board of education, Garden township, the school building know as the Hennessey school, east of town, which was closed several years ago, will be brought down to town as soon as there is enough snow for sleighing, and placed on the north side of the high school building. When the schools open next September this building will accommodate the kindergarten pupils of the township. At that time, the Kate's Bay school north of town will be closed and the pupils of that district will be conveyed to town. This is a step toward greater efficiency in the school system.

Transports Yule Trees

Wesley Horning left here early Saturday with a load of approximately eight hundred Christmas trees for Chicago. They were cut in the Nahma Junction district for the Beach brothers who will retail them on the Chicago market. They were of varying sizes and usually good quality. More trees will be shipped from this district in the near future.

Personal News

Miss Eunice Reno of Nahma is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Reno. Her cousin, Miss Paulina Guertin was her guest for a few days. Miss Reno expects to return to the Reno camp about Friday.

The Womens' Guild of the Garden Congregational church held their meeting Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William McNally. Place and time of the next meeting will be announced later.

Members of the Garden Village board and also members of the Garden Township board met Friday night to discuss the advisability of making improvements on the Town Hall. After considerable discussion it was decided to enlarge the hall and make a number of other improvements, details of which will be made public at a later date. The main street of the village will also be improved by further draining and grading. It is understood that the labor for this work will be furnished by those on the R. F. C. payroll. The necessity for making repairs on the hall has long been felt, due to its continued use as a gymnasium by the young folks of the community. It is hoped that actual work will be commenced almost immediately.

Gladstone Opens Home Cage Season With Rock

LITTLE GIANTS PROVIDE TEST

Reserve Teams to Meet in Prelim at 7:15; Feature at 8:15

Gladstone—A real court battle looms tonight when the Rock Little Giants meet the Kellmen here on the floor of the local gymnasium. It will be the first home game of the season and fans will be offered a double treat, the second teams of each school clashing in a preliminary beginning at 7:15 o'clock.

In Lauri and Vitala at forward, Rosdet at center and Kaukola and Kulju at guard, Coach Weingartner of the Little Giants has a formidable quintet as was demonstrated at Escanaba last week when they romped through for a 31-21 win over the Eskymos. If they continue to perform as they did at the county seat this combination will give most basketball teams plenty of trouble.

Coach Keil, although handicapped by having only one regular from last year, is trying out a team from unseasoned material. Various combinations are being tried out in an effort to secure a smooth-working quintet.

Tonight's starting lineup will be slightly changed from that which faced Marquette in the opener last week. Kircher, who last week was at a forward berth will be at guard, with Wilbee at the other defense post. Srock will replace Kircher at forward. Freeman will again be at the pivot post and Weingartner will hold down the other forward position.

Gladstone displayed a strong defense against Marquette and went into the last quarter with a one-point lead, but the Graveraets opened up in the final quarter and connected with some long shots that gave them a decisive lead and victory.

Snow Forces Lions To Hold Rose Bowl Practices Indoors

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—A heavy blanket of snow on Baker field forced Columbia's football team indoors today as the Lions continued their preparations for the Rose Bowl game with Stanford New Year's Day.

The drill, lasting for two hours, was held in the 105th field artillery armory. The whole squad was in uniform and concentrated most of its attention on a defense for Stanford plays as put on by a scrub lineup.

Later Lou Little sent the first team through an offensive scrimmage against the second team line and wound up the practice with a scrimmage between the second team and the scrubs.

INDIANS STALE

Stanford University, Calif., Dec. 11 (AP)—Stanford's football Indians went through their first intensive workout here today in preparation for the Rose Bowl game with Columbia university New Year's day.

In the absence of "Tiny" Thornhill, head coach, who was in San Francisco attending a Pacific coast conference meeting, the practice was in charge of Eralie Nevers and Jim Lawson, assistant coaches.

The players donned headgears and were put through a fast scrimmage for an hour after warming up at hitting dummies. The practice was featured by much forward passing. Bobby Grayson and Jack Hillman, fullbacks, tossed most of the passes.

Apparently somewhat stale after a layoff, the Indians looked weak in blocking.

Practices tomorrow and Wednesday will conclude the formal training here but the players will work out at odd times during final scholastic examinations next week. Thornhill will lead the squad south the night of December 23.

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—Ralph Budd, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, said today that he felt fairly sure the road's earnings for 1933 would exceed $3 a share compared with 88 cents in 1932. He estimates December net income at between $650,000 and $700,000.

The New York Stock Exchange has received notice from Spear & Co. of a proposed reduction in authorized preferred stock to $3,300,000 from $4,300,000.

Carloadings on the New York, Chicago & St. Louis railroad, known as the "Nickel Plate Road," totaled 10,499 for the week ended December 9 compared with 9,932 the previous week and 9,843 the same week last year.

Howard M. Erskine was elected president of Power, Gas & Water Securities Corp. at the annual meeting today. He formerly was vice president. John M. Greene was named vice president and a director and Lawrence Riker was elected to the board.

Dun & Bradstreet report business failures for the first week of December numbered 303 compared with 268 the previous week and 588 for the same week last year.

Maxie Baer Headed Back to Fight Ring

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—A very large and debonair young man, Maxwell Adelbert Baer, is heading straight back to the fight business at a pace that startles even him—something he thought couldn't be done.

To his normal role of heavyweight challenger, and his recent success as a motion picture actor, Maxwell has added a brand new dodge. That of master of ceremonies in a night club. He strats tomorrow night .Right now he's rehearsing fifteen hours a day. And he says it's killing him.

"I've got to get back outdoors," he muttered as he raced around, fresh from the tailor, the barber and a manicurist, among piled up chairs and tables, carpenters, actors, dancing girls, and howling directors. "I want to get back to fighting. I've got to get healthy again. This stuff's smothering me."

He sings and he dances—very fetching—but his mind is on prize fighting. In the picture he made he boxed ten rounds with Primo Carnera, the heavyweight champion. He took several knockdowns, and so did Carnera. But he's convinced of one thing. When he and Primo finally tangle—possibly in June—there's going to be a new champion.

"I learned all about him and I know this. I can hit him on the chin with a right hand, and that's all I need. He'll come down in more pieces than a church steeple hit by lightning. You saw what happened to Max Schmeling when I conked him, huh? Well Carnera'll go the same way but it'll be funnier. That's one that'll be so good I wish I was out in the audience watching it myself."

That's Baer's idea of what will happen. He mixes the monologue with large and portentious winks. But he does give Carnera some credit.

"He's very big and he's very strong. He also can fight a lot more than I thought. But—I can hit him with right hands and that's that. That's also that for any guy in the world I can hit with a right hand. They just naturally get sleepy when they taste those knuckles."

One of Baer's reason for coming east was to prospect for a title match. Madison Square Garden wants to stage the bout in June, has Carnera signed. But Baer would rather Jack Dempsey staged the affair. Dempsey is expected east within a few weeks, and some compromise may be effected with the Garden.

"I'm glad," said Baer, "that the Garden has Carnera all signed, because he'd be a hard guy to find otherwise. He won't be anxious to fight me. He knows now I can hit him with right hands."

HOCKEY LOOP IS ORGANIZED

Rhinelander, Eagle River, Marquette, Ishpeming in League

Marquette.—Formation of a four-team Michigan - Wisconsin hockey league, composed of Marquette, Ishpeming, Rhinelander and Eagle River, was announced here yesterday by T. P. Cook, of Marquette, secretary-treasurer of the new loop, who also announced that Marquette would play nine games at home on the Palestra rink, exclusive of championship playoffs.

The Marquette team has been organized with Leo "Pope" Demars as coach and already has had a few practice sessions.

George Clark, former pro star, will coach the Ishpeming team. He also will play on the forward line and the Hematite net will be guarded by "Smoky" Vassar.

Allaire at Rhinelander

The Rhinelander sextet has been organized by "Doc" Allaire, another former pro, who played with Marquette and Ironwood in the old U. P. circuit. Allaire probably will play in the Rhinelander lineup.

At Eagle River the league team will be coached by Patterson, a former Kansas City pro, who also will play right wing.

The league was formed at a meeting in Eagle River at which the following officers were named: Dr. Russell Oldfield, Eagle River, president; Phil B. Spear, Jr., Marquette, first vice president; Clyde Esterbrook, Rhinelander, second vice president; J. V. Nelson, Ishpeming, third vice president; T. P. Cook, Marquette, secretary-treasurer.

BOXING

KEEPS FLY TITLE

Manchester, Eng., Dec. 11 (AP)—Jackie Brown, of Manchester, recognized as world's flyweight champion by British boxing authorities and by the National Boxing Association of the United States, retained his title tonight by outpointing Ginger Foran of Liverpool in 15 rounds. Browns weighed in at the class limit of 112 pounds. Foran scaled 109¼.

CANADIANS WIN

London, Dec. 11 (AP)—Two Toronto fighters, Larry Gains, negro heavyweight, and Teddy Phillips, light heavyweight, won bouts in England tonight.

Adrian Defeated By Albion, 28-26

Albion, Mich., Dec. 11 (AP)—Albion college won its first basketball game on the home floor tonight, defeating Adrian college, 28 to 26. Albion built up a 23 to 6 lead in the first half, but a number of long shots by the visitors late in the game threatened to overcome the lead.

Smith and Ruttman led the harpshooting for Albion with ten points each, while Gouge, with eight, topped the Adrian scoring.

LEAGUES START SHOPPING TOUR

Diamond Deals Develop at Winter Session in Chicago

BY PAUL MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chicago, Dec. 11 (AP)—Baseball's trade winds whipped into a veritable gale tonight as major league club owners and their pilots, all of them out to get their men, sailed into Chicago for their annual winter meeting and shopping tour.

No less than a score of players in both leagues were reported to be on the ivory block and the magnates, confronted with important problems in baseball such as the adoption of a uniform ball and what to do about radio broadcasts of games, admitted happily that they anticipated the biggest turnover of talent in many years. The various problems will be discussed in separate meetings tomorrow and Wednesday while the trades and sales will be completed in hotel lobbies, nooks and corners.

Cochrane Deal Certain

As the baseball writers searched for news and impending trades today, they spied one of the first arrivals and a central figure in one of the outstanding deals about to be completed, Mickey Cochrane. The Athletic catcher was reported sold to Detroit as manager and catcher and was straining at the leash, waiting for Connie Mack and Frank Navin of the Tigers to arrive to announce it officially. Navin already has announced he was certain of getting Cochrane, and planned to clinch the deal after a short conference with the tall tactician of the Athletics. Cochrane was enthusiastic over the deal and was planning trades and sales in his mind and discussing Detroit's prospects for 1934.

As far as the league meetings were concerned, the leaders expected to adopt a uniform baseball for both circuits and offer Kenesaw Mountain Landis another contract as commissioner. The radio problem appeared to be unsettled and the best information was that those clubs that so desired could broadcast but that the league or clubs would ask for a cut in the profits accruing from the baseball broadcasts.

"Personally, I don't look for any change in the radio policy," said Will Harridge, president of the American League. "Some want it; some don't. The situation is about the same as a year ago."

Which Ball?

Both President Harridge and President John Heydler of the National League agreed that a uniform baseball would be advantageous, but the big question was which ball the American or National League sphere?

Going back to trades and sales, here are the needs and rumors. Take 'em or leave 'em:

American League

Detroit—Cochrane to manage Tigers, plugging up the weak spot of ears catching.

Philadelphia—Connie Mack is going to sell or trade George Earnshaw, Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg and Max Bishop to the highest bidders.

St. Louis—Manager Rogers Hornsby needs a power hitter and likes Earl Averill of Cleveland, but Cleveland wants him to swap Oscar Melillo for two other players.

Cleveland—The Indians want a second baseman that can hit.

Chicago—Rumors say the White Sox already have completed a cash deal for George Earnshaw.

New York—Rumor has Tony Lazzeri up as bait for the best deal. Manager Joe McCarthy out to rebuild infield.

Boston—Only three members of 1931 club left and club wide open for deals.

Washington—Joe Cronin said he was pretty well satisfied but on the lookout for anything that looked good.

National League

New York—Manager Bill Terry says he's all set since the purchase of Joe Bowman, star right handed pitcher from Portland, but could use another good hitter.

Chicago—It was reported a hitch has developed in the rumored deal by which Pitcher Pat Malone and Outfielder Kiki Cuyler would go to Cincinnati for Outfielder Chick Hafey, but that it would be overcome and the swap made.

Brooklyn—The Dodgers are hot after a southpaw pitcher.

St. Louis—All set but always ready for a deal.

Cincinnati—An apparently well rounded report is going around that the Reds have given up hope of landing Catcher Jimmy Wilson from the Phillies and plan to name Jim Bottomley as manager. More punch and fighter fielding needed.

Pittsburgh—The Pirates, with lots of trading material, are after a start pitcher and second baseman of proven ability.

Philadelphia—Phillies are looking for a good hitter.

REVOLTA WINS SECOND PLACE

Biltmore Golf Tourney Is Captured by McFarlane

Biltmore Country Club, Coral Gables, Fla., Dec. 11 (AP)—A brilliant sub-par round of 70 Sunday pulled Willie MacFarlane, the lanky Scot, out of a three-way tie, and gave him a 288 to win the $10,000 Miami Biltmore 72-hole open golf tournament here and first money of $2,500.

U. P. Golfer Second

Six up at the 54th hole at 218, with Johnny Revolta, of Menominee, Mich., and Ralph Guldahl, of St. Louis, the 42-year-old Tuckahoe, N. Y., pro, buckled down to shade par by one stroke on the final 18, and finished four strokes ahead of the field.

Revolta, who won the Miami open last year, came in with a 292 to cop second prize of $1,250 and give him runner-up honors for the second consecutive year in the Biltmore tournament.

Third money of $1,000 and fourth of $750 was split at $875 each for Paul Runyan, of White Plains, New York, Agua Caliente champion, and Tommy Armour, the black Scot from Chicago, who has won virtually every major crown in golf.

They tied back of Revolta at 294.

Goodman Wins Trophy

While others in the classy field battled around the final route, struggling for lesser prizes that ranged downward to $25, Johnny Goodman, Omaha amateur and holder of the American open title, came in with a 304 to win the Colonel Henry L. Doherty trophy for the low scoring non-professional. He was so far ahead of the other amateurs in the pack that he had an easy walkaway in that division.

Sidelines

By Edward J. Neil

It's beginning to look as though Max Baer, the handsome man of the screen, is coming back to his old job of flattening noses, and possibly without the care, chaperonage, and tutelage of old massa Dempsey.

The Garden insists now that Baer will sign shortly for a heavyweight title match in June with Primo Carnera, the villain in the piece that made Baer a moving picture star for a day or so. They fought ten rounds before the camera. Baer was down a half dozen times, Carnera as many more, and the screen decision was a draw. If they do half as well in actual competition it will be the fight of the ages.

But getting back to a lively behind the scenes situation, Baer is sort of divorcing himself from the stage by way of a month's engagement as master of ceremonies at a New York night club. Dempsey is coming east with him, probably for his final effort to make some kind of deal whereby he retains his hold on Baer.

Max Is Restless

You see, Dempsey has more than just a personal hold on Baer. Under their agreement, Dempsey has first call on the services of the big fellow who knocked out Max Schmeling with such a display of right hand punching power. But that hold lasts just so long.

Dempsey must find an arena and get an opponent for Baer, or Max, already restless, will have to look elsewhere for competition. The slate so far calls for Tommy Loughran to fight Schmeling in Atlantic City in January, then Schmeling to tackle Baer again in San Francisco Feb. 22, with Dempsey a partner in the promotion of both shows.

That seems good enough on the face of it, but there's every possibility that Loughran, staging another comeback and looking better than ever in his victory over the giant Ray Impellittiere, may outpoint a ring rusty, honeymooning Schmeling. That would take all the gloss off the San Francisco match.

Of course, Baer and Loughran would then be an outstanding match, but not for Baer. They met once in Madison Square Garden and Tommy not only left jabbed the big fellow silly but outsmarted and outfought him so consistently that Max retired in confusion to the coast. So another match with Loughran is scarcely a prize to dangle before Baer's eyes. It seems likely that the Garden, with Carnera signed for a title defense, will soon have Baer's signature as his opponent in June. The stickler so far has been Dempsey's private influence with Baer and the Garden's refusal to cut old Johnno in on the promotion of the title bout.

Hard to Handle

Without Dempsey, it's very probable that Baer will be no world beater in his next fight. The young fellow is hard to handle. He likes to roam, women fascinate him, training irks him. He was a nickel fighter until Dempsey moved in.

The old champion can handle him. While promoting the Schmeling fight he made Baer's condition and training a personal issue between them. He threatened to belt the daylights out of Baer in person if the proper training wasn't done. He even went in and boxed with him in Atlantic City. And he popped Max with so many left hooks that it looked for a moment, gone back as far as he was, that he'd belt half his big attraction right out of there in half a round.

The picture of Dempsey, a fat old man, sleepless for a couple of nights, tired and worn, trying to pull punches on a youngster like Baer was comical. But it taught Baer something he never would have learned otherwise. He was right for Schmeling. The next time? Nobody knows.

Every coin minted in Venezuela bears the profile of Simon Bolivar.

City Amateur League Gets Under Way Here

The Hornets, Psalmsinger, Ramblers and Kinkachus won their opening games in the city amateur basketball league at the Coliseum gymnasium, the winners finding little difficulty except the Kinkachus who barely nosed out the Herringchokers, 12 to 11 and the Psalmsingers who were forced to batter down a stubborn defense before conquering St. Joseph, 11 to 6.

The results of the games follow:

Ramblers 25; Cardinals 3.

Hornets 18; Yellow Jackets 5.

[illegible] 11; St. Joseph 6.

Kinkachus 12; Herringchokers 11.

The Ramblers displayed a tight defense and a stalwart offense in turning back the challenge of the Cardinals. Olson sank five baskets for the winners while Rogers was the only man to score a field goal for the Cardinals.

Murphy, tall center, lead the Hornets' attack in their 18 to 5 conquest of the Yellowjackets. He scored four field goals for his time. Almonroeder scored both of the Yellow Jackets' field goals.

The Psalmsingers found St. Joseph tough but broke through a stout defense to score four field goals and added three free throws while the Parochials were garnering only two field goals and a brace of charity tosses.

The Kinkachus-Herringchokers game was a thriller and was not decided until the final whistle. The more experienced Kinkachus found the Herringchokers tougher than they had anticipated and were forced to battle for every point. The Herringchokers indicated the eligibility of at least one of the Kinkachus players would be questioned due to the three lettermen ruling.

BEARS DEFEAT PACKERS, 7-6

Chicago Pro Gridders to Play Giants Sunday for Title

Chicago, Dec. 10. (AP)—The Chicago Bears clinched the right to meet the New York Giants here next Sunday in the final championship game for the National Professional Football league title by defeating the Green Bay Packers, 7 to 6.

New York leads the eastern division and the Bears the western division in the league, winding up their final campaign with victories today.

Today's battle was filled with thrills as the Bears trounced the Packers for the third straight time this season. On the opening kickoff, Hinkle, of the Packers, ran 95 yards, but the Bears held on their own five year line. The Bears scored their winning touchdown in the second period when Molesworth tossed a 37-yard pass to Ronzani who dodged over five yards more for the touchdown. Manders kicked the point.

Bob Monnett, former Michigan State star, ran 85 yards for the Packer touchdown in the fourth period, but Link Lyman broke through and blocked Hinkle's try for the extra point.

GIANTS WIN

Philadelphia, Dec. 10. (AP)—Harry Newman and his New York Giants defeated the Philadelphia Eagles, 20 to 14, on a snow-covered field today, but the eastern champions of the National Professional Football league had a battle on their hands.

Newman, former Michigan ace, opened the scoring for the Giants with a touchdown in the second period. He also kicked the extra point.

REDS BLANK DODGERS

Dayton, Ohio, Dec. 10. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds handed the Brooklyn Dodgers their second defeat in as many weeks today, winning, 13 to 0, in a charity exhibition game.

ST. LOUIS CLUB WINS

St. Louis, Dec. 10. (AP)—The St. Louis Gunners, pro football aggregation coached by Gwinn Henry, former Missouri University coach, overrode the Chicago All-Stars, a team sponsored by the Chicago Cardinals, here today, 24 to 7.

Yale May Offer Post To Kipke; He'll Consider

Dayton, O., Dec. 11 (AP)—Although indicating he might have been approached informally, Harry Kipke, football coach at the University of Michigan, said here tonight he had not been officially offered a similar post at Yale university.

Kipke said if an official of the school should make an offer, he would consider it.

However, he added that he was very much satisfied with his position at Michigan and would "regret very much" to leave.

He is going to New York Friday to deliver a radio address, he said, denying that the purpose of the trip is to confer with Yale officials.

BASEBALL SIZE IS COMPROMISE

Simple Solution Offered Two Big Leagues By Yankee Leader

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Dec. [illegible] (AP)—A simple solution of one of the major controversies confronting the baseball magnates at their annual gatherings in Chicago next week—the difference between the American and National League baseballs—was offered today by Ed Barrow, the man behind the big guns of the New York Yankees.

"A compromise is the logical thing," he said. "Major league ball should be played with similar implements in both big leagues. Put the American League cover on the ball. Add the thicker stitching now used in the seams of the National League ball. That should satisfy everyone."

Other Items

Apparently this is a compromise that will be discussed at great length when the magnates get together Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, argue over many things, including "synthetic" double-headers, the re-election of Commissioner K. M. Landis, the suggestion for a regular series of inter-league games, and the constant plight of minor league ball.

Last year there were devout protestations through and beyond winter meeting time that identical balls would be used in both leagues. But when the season rolled around, the American League was a hitters' circuit, the ball fast and agile. The National League was a pitchers' paradise, with Carl Hubbell achieving an earned run average of 1.66 per game that eclipsed everything since Grover Alexander's mark of 1.55, made with the Phillies in 1916.

The make-up of the two spheres, from the cover into and including the core, was identical, Barrow said, although it had been thought the American League ball was wound with a finer yarn. The difference was all on the outside.

The American League cover was made from flank horsehide, and was lighter and more resilient than the leather used in the National League ball. The National League ball's cover was two grades thicker, with heavier thread, thereby giving the pitchers a better grip.

"Hitting those two balls brought quite different results," Barrow said. "The American League ball traveled faster on the ground, lifted farther. When the National League ball was hit dead center it traveled just as far as the American League ball. But if it wasn't hit solidly, grounders were easier to handle and fly balls softer."

Landis Unopposed

Such a compromise probably would meet opposition from Bill

ANDERSONS ON ANOTHER CARD

Joe and Roy Will Fight at Menominee Next Monday Night

Menominee (Special)—One of the best cards of amateur boxing bouts ever arranged in the twin cities, will be presented at the Menominee Athletic club next Monday night, when the club presents the first of a series of boxing programs to be held during the winter months.

George Casebeer of Stephenson, matchmaker for the club in its boxing program, has announced the complete cards to be presented next Monday and it will bring together boxers who have appeared on programs in this section in the past and assures the customers of their money's worth of this entertainment that is commonly known as the art of self-defense.

Seven bouts have been booked by Matchmaker Casebeer, with the fighters ranging in weights from the 118-pound to the light heavy class at 160 pounds. There are two matches in the light heavyweight class, and these will bring into the ring the famous Anderson brothers of Gladstone, who have boxed here before and have worked up a considerable following among the fistic fans.

The Cards

At 118 pounds—Francis Rivard, Daggett, vs. Omer Crocker, Iron Mountain.

At 126 pounds—"Billy" Chesna Oshkosh, vs. Francis Vetort, Stephenson.

At 130 pounds—"Jiggs" Jacobson, Daggett, vs. Clarence Davis, Oshkosh.

At 160 pounds—Paul Palmer, Stephenson, vs. Roy Anderson, Gladstone.

At 147 pounds—George Steffen, vs. Hans Ahls, Oshkosh.

At 160 pounds—Joe Anderson, Gladstone, vs. Larry Gilbert, of Menominee.

The bouts will start promptly at 8:30 o'clock.

Leave Grid Rules Alone, Learn 'Em

Norman, Okla. (AP)—The answer to the burning question of what to do about the football rules, in the opinion of Coach Lewie Hardage of the University of Oklahoma, is—nothing.

Hardage recommends that the standard set of rules be maintained so that fans, players, coaches and officials may become thoroughly familiar with them.

However, he added he would like to see all players required to wear helmets for their own protection and the goal posts moved back to the goal line and padded to prevent injuries. The latter move, Hardage said, would result in more scoring.

It is against the law for a London milkman to open a bottle of milk on the street; but he may open a can if necessary.

Terry, manager of the Yankees' neighbors, the world champion Giants. The Giants won the National League pennant and the world series chiefly on brilliant pitching, backed with little real clouting. Undoubtebly they'd like another order of the same for 1934.

Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, will head the American League opposition against "synthetic" double-headers, arranged by playing Monday games along with single games scheduled for Sundays, a device invented by Branch Rickey, of the St. Louis Cardinals. The feeling is very strong in the American circuit against this practice, the argument being that it cheapens the game and makes it a "one day a week" attraction.

Several American League officials stoutly oppose the suggestion, growing out of the highly successful all-star game in Chicago last summer, that each major league team play two or three games with each team in the rival league as a part of the regular season schedule. Little opposition is expected to Landis' retention as baseball's high commissioner.

Gladstone Opens Home Cage Season With Rock

LITTLE GIANTS PROVIDE TEST

Reserve Teams to Meet in Prelim at 7:15; Feature at 8:15

Gladstone—A real court battle looms tonight when the Rock Little Giants meet the Kellmen here on the floor of the local gymnasium. It will be the first home game of the season and fans will be offered a double treat, the second teams of each school clashing in a preliminary beginning at 7:15 o'clock.

In Lauri and Vitala at forward, Rosdet at center and Kaukola and Kulju at guard, Coach Weingartner of the Little Giants has a formidable quintet as was demonstrated at Escanaba last week when they romped through for a 31-21 win over the Eskymos. If they continue to perform as they did at the county seat this combination will give most basketball teams plenty of trouble.

Coach Keil, although handicapped by having only one regular from last year, is trying out a team from unseasoned material. Various combinations are being tried out in an effort to secure a smooth-working quintet.

Tonight's starting lineup will be slightly changed from that which faced Marquette in the opener last week. Kircher, who last week was at a forward berth will be at guard, with Wilbee at the other defense post. Srock will replace Kircher at forward. Freeman will again be at the pivot post and Weingartner will hold down the other forward position.

Gladstone displayed a strong defense against Marquette and went into the last quarter with a one-point lead, but the Graveraets opened up in the final quarter and connected with some long shots that gave them a decisive lead and victory.

Snow Forces Lions To Hold Rose Bowl Practices Indoors

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—A heavy blanket of snow on Baker field forced Columbia's football team indoors today as the Lions continued their preparations for the Rose Bowl game with Stanford New Year's Day.

The drill, lasting for two hours, was held in the 105th field artillery armory. The whole squad was in uniform and concentrated most of its attention on a defense for Stanford plays as put on by a scrub lineup.

Later Lou Little sent the first team through an offensive scrimmage against the second team line and wound up the practice with a scrimmage betwen the second team and the scrubs.

INDIANS STALE

Stanford University, Calif., Dec. 11 (AP)—Stanford's football Indians went through their first intensive workout here today in preparation for the Rose Bowl game with Columbia university New Year's day.

In the absence of "Tiny" Thornhill, head coach, who was in San Francisco attending a Pacific coast conference meeting, the practice was in charge of Eraie Nevers and Jim Lawson, assistant coaches.

The players donned headgears and were put through a fast scrimmage for an hour after warming up at hitting dummies. The practice was featured by much forward passing. Bobby Grayson and Jack Hillman, fullbacks, tossed most of the passes.

Apparently somewhat stale after a layoff, the Indians looked weak in blocking.

Practices tomorrow and Wednesday will conclude the formal training here but the players will work out at odd times during final scholastic examinations next week. Thornhill will lead the squad south the night of December 23.

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—Ralph Budd, president of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, said today that he felt fairly sure the road's earnings for 1933 would exceed $3 a share compared with 88 cents in 1932. He estimates December net income at between $650,000 and $700,000.

The New York Stock Exchange has received notice from Spear & Co. of a proposed reduction in authorized preferred stock to $3,-300,000 from $4,300,000.

Carloadings on the New York, Chicago & St. Louis railroad, known as the "Nickel Plate Road," totaled 10,499 for the week ended December 9 compared with 9,932 the previous week and 9,843 the same week last year.

Howard M. Erskine was elected president of Power, Gas & Water Securities Corp. at the annual meeting today. He formerly was vice president. John M. Greene was named vice president and a director and Lawrence Riker was elected to the board.

Dun & Bradstreet report business failures for the first week of December numbered 303 compared with 268 the previous week and 588 for the same week last year.

Maxie Baer Headed Back to Fight Ring

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—A very large and debonair young man, Maxwell Adelbert Baer, is heading straight back to the fight business at a pace that startles even him—something he thought couldn't be done.

To his normal role of heavyweight challenger, and his recent success as a motion picture actor, Maxwell has added a brand new dodge. That of master of ceremonies in a night club. He strats tomorrow night .Right now he's rehearsing fifteen hours a day. And he says it's killing him.

"I've got to get back outdoors," he muttered as he raced around, fresh from the tailor, the barber and a manicurist, among piled up chairs and tables, carpenters, actors, dancing girls, and howling directors. "I want to get back to fighting. I've got to get healthy again. This stuff's smothering me."

He sings and he dances—very fetching—but his mind is on prize fighting. In the picture he made he boxed ten rounds with Primo Carnera, the heavyweight champion. He took several knockdowns, and so did Carnera. But he's convinced of one thing. When he and Primo finally tangle—possibly in June—there's going to be a new champion.

"I learned all about him and I know this. I can hit him on the chin with a right hand, and that's all I need. He'll come down in more pieces than a church steeple hit by lightning. You saw what happened to Max Schmeling when I conked him, huh? Well Carnera'll go the same way but it'll be funnier. That's one that'll be so good I wish I was out in the audience watching it myself."

That's Baer's idea of what will happen. He mixes the monologue with large and portentious winks. But he does give Carnera some credit.

"He's very big and he's very strong. He also can fight a lot more than I thought. But—I can hit him with right hands and that's that. That's also that for any guy in the world I can hit with a right hand. They just naturally get sleepy when they taste those knuckles."

One of Baer's reason for coming east was to prospect for a title match. Madison Square Garden wants to stage the bout in June, has Carnera signed. But Baer would rather Jack Dempsey staged the affair. Dempsey is expected east within a few weeks, and some compromise may be effected with the Garden.

"I'm glad," said Baer, "that the Garden has Carnera all signed, because he'd be a hard guy to find otherwise. He won't be anxious to fight me. He knows now I can hit him with right hands."

HOCKEY LOOP IS ORGANIZED

Rhinelander, Eagle River, Marquette, Ishpeming in League

Marquette.—Formation of a four-team Michigan - Wisconsin hockey league, composed of Marquette, Ishpeming, Rhinelander and Eagle River, was announced here yesterday by T. P. Cook, of Marquette, secretary-treasurer of the new loop, who also announced that Marquette would play nine games at home on the Palestra rink, exclusive of championship playoffs.

The Marquette team has been organized with Leo "Pope" Demars as coach and already has had a few practice sessions.

George Clark, former pro star, will coach the Ishpeming team. He also will play on the forward line and the Hematite net will be guarded by "Smoky" Vassar.

Allaire at Rhinelander

The Rhinelander sextet has been organized by "Doc" Allaire, another former pro, who played with Marquette and Ironwood in the old U. P. circuit. Allaire probably will play in the Rhinelander lineup.

At Eagle River the league team will be coached by Patterson, a former Kansas City pro, who also will play right wing.

The league was formed at a meeting in Eagle River at which the following officers were named: Dr. Russell Oldfield, Eagle River, president; Phil B. Spear, Jr., Marquette, first vice president; Clyde Esterbrook, Rhinelander, second vice president; J. V. Nelson, Ishpeming, third vice president; T. P. Cook, Marquette, secretary-treasurer.

BOXING

KEEPS FLY TITLE

Manchester, Eng., Dec. 11 (AP)—Jackie Brown, of Manchester, recognized as world's flyweight champion by British boxing authorities and by the National Boxing Association of the United States, retained his title tonight by outpointing Ginger Foran of Liverpool in 15 rounds. Browns weighed in at the class limit of 112 pounds. Foran scaled 109¼.

CANADIANS WIN

London, Dec. 11 (AP)—Two Toronto fighters, Larry Gains, negro heavyweight, and Teddy Phillips, light heavyweight, won bouts in England tonight.

Adrian Defeated By Albion, 28-26

Albion, Mich., Dec. 11 (AP)—Albion college won its first basketball game on the home floor tonight, defeating Adrian college, 28 to 26. Albion built up a 23 to 6 lead in the first half, but a number of long shots by the visitors late in the game threatened to overcome the lead.

Smith and Ruttman led the sharpshooting for Albion with ten points each, while Gouge, with eight, topped the Adrian scoring.

REVOLTA WINS SECOND PLACE

Biltmore Golf Tourney Is Captured by McFarlane

Biltmore Country Club, Coral Gables, Fla., Dec. 11. (AP)—A brilliant sub-par round of 70 Sunday pulled Willie MacFarlane, the lanky Scot, out of a three-way tie, and gave him a 288 to win the $10,000 Miami Biltmore 72-hole open golf tournament here and first money of $2,500.

U. P. Golfer Second

Six up at the 54th hole at 218, with Johnny Revolta, of Menominee, Mich., and Ralph Guldahl, of St. Louis, the 42-year-old Tuckahoe, N. Y., pro, buckled down to shade par by one stroke on the final 18, and finished four strokes ahead of the field.

Revolta, who won the Miami open last year, came in with a 292 to cop second prize of $1,250 and give him runner-up honors for the second consecutive year in the Biltmore tournament.

Third money of $1,000 and fourth of $750 was split at $875 each for Paul Runyan, of White Plains, New York, Agua Caliente champion, and Tommy Armour, the black Scot from Chicago, who has won virtually every major crown in golf.

They tied back of Revolta at 294.

Goodman Wins Trophy

While others in the classy field battled around the final route, struggling for lesser prizes that ranged downward to $25, Johnny Goodman, Omaha amateur and holder of the American open title, came in with a 304 to win the Colonel Henry L. Doherty trophy for the low scoring non-professional. He was so far ahead of the other amateurs in the pack that he had an easy walkaway in that division.

LEAGUES START SHOPPING TOUR

Diamond Deals Develop at Winter Session in Chicago

BY PAUL MICKELSON
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Chicago, Dec. 11 (AP)—Baseball's trade winds whipped into a veritable gale tonight as major league club owners and their pilots, all of them out to get their men, sailed into Chicago for their annual winter meeting and shopping tour.

No less than a score of players in both leagues were reported to be on the ivory block and the magnates, confronted with important problems in baseball such as the adoption of a uniform ball and what to do about radio broadcasts of games, admitted happily that they anticipated the biggest turnover of talent in many years. The various problems will be discussed in separate meetings tomorrow and Wednesday while the trades and sales will be completed in hotel lobbies, nooks and corners.

Cochrane Deal Certain

As the baseball writers searched for news and impending trades today, they spied one of the first arrivals and a central figure in one of the outstanding deals about to be completed, Mickey Cochrane. The Athletic catcher was reported sold to Detroit as manager and catcher and was straining at the leash, waiting for Connie Mack and Frank Navin of the Tigers to arrive to announce it officially. Navin already has announced he was certain of getting Cochrane, and planned to clinch the deal after a short conference with the tall tactician of the Athletics. Cochrane was enthusiastic over the deal and was planning trades and sales in his mind and discussing Detroit's prospects for 1934.

As far as the league meetings were concerned, the leaders expected to adopt a uniform baseball for both circuits and offer Kenesaw Mountain Landis another contract as commissioner. The radio problem appeared to be unsettled and the best information was that those clubs that so desired could broadcast but that the league or clubs would ask for a cut in the profits accruing from the baseball broadcasts.

"Personally, I don't look for any change in the radio policy," said Will Harridge, president of the American League. "Some want it; some don't. The situation is about the same as a year ago."

Which Ball?

Both President Harridge and President John Heydler of the National League agreed that a uniform baseball would be advantageous, but the big question was which ball—the American or National League sphere?

Going back to trades and sales, here are the needs and rumors. Take 'em or leave 'em:

American League

Detroit—Cochrane to manage Tigers, plugging up the weak spot of cars—catching.

Philadelphia—Connie Mack is going to sell or trade George Earnshaw, Lefty Grove, Rube Walberg and Max Bishop to the highest bidders.

St. Louis—Manager Rogers Hornsby needs a power hitter and likes Earl Averill of Cleveland, but Cleveland wants him to swap Oscar Melillo for two other players.

Cleveland—The Indians want a second baseman that can hit.

Chicago—Rumors say the White Sox already have completed a cash deal for George Earnshaw.

New York—Rumor has Tony Lazzeri up as bait for the best deal. Manager Joe McCarthy out to rebuild infield.

Boston—Only three members of 1931 club left and club wide open for deals.

Washington—Joe Cronin said he was pretty well satisfied but on the lookout for anything that looked good.

National League

New York—Manager Bill Terry says he's all set since the purchase of Joe Bowman, star right handed pitcher from Portland, but could use another good hitter.

Chicago—It was reported a hitch has developed in the rumored deal by which Pitcher Pat Malone and Outfielder Kiki Cuyler would go to Cincinnati for Outfielder Chick Hafey, but that it would be overcome and the swap made.

Brooklyn—The Dodgers are hot after a southpaw pitcher.

St. Louis—All set but always ready for a deal.

Cincinnati—An apparently well founded report is going around that the Reds have given up hope of landing Catcher Jimmy Wilson from the Phillies and plan to name Jim Bottomley as manager. More punch and tighter fielding needed.

Pittsburgh—The Pirates, with lots of trading material, are after a start pitcher and second baseman of proven ability.

Philadelphia—Phillies are looking for a good hitter.

Sidelines

By Edward J. Neil

It's beginning to look as though Max Baer, the handsome man of the screen, is coming back to his old job of flattening noses, and possibly without the care, chaperonage, and tutelage of old massa Dempsey.

The Garden insists now that Baer will sign shortly for a heavyweight title match in June with Primo Carnera, the villain in the piece that made Baer a moving picture star for a day or so. They fought ten rounds before the camera. Baer was down a half dozen times, Carnera as many more, and the screen decision was a draw. If they do half as well in actual competition it will be the fight of the ages.

But getting back to a lively behind the scenes situation. Baer is sort of divorcing himself from the stage by way of a month's engagement as master of ceremonies at a New York night club. Dempsey is coming east with him, probably for his final effort to make some kind of deal whereby he retains his hold on Baer.

Max Is Restless

You see, Dempsey has more than just a personal hold on Baer. Under their agreement, Dempsey has first call on the services of the big fellow who knocked out Max Schmeling with such a display of right hand punching power. But that hold lasts just so long.

Dempsey must find an arena and get an opponent for Baer, or Max, already restless, will have to look elsewhere for competition. The slate so far calls for Tommy Loughran to fight Schmeling in Atlantic City in January, then Schmeling to tackle Baer again in San Francisco Feb. 22, with Dempsey a partner in the promotion of both shows.

That seems good enough on the face of it, but there's every possibility that Loughran, staging another comeback and looking better than ever in his victory over the giant Ray Impellittiere, may outpoint a ring rusty, honeymooning Schmeling. That would take all the gloss off the San Francisco match.

Of course, Baer and Loughran would then be an outstanding match, but not for Baer. They met once in Madison Square Garden and Tommy not only left jabbed the big fellow silly but outsmarted and outfought him so consistently that Max retired in confusion to the coast. So another match with Loughran is scarcely a prize to dangle before Baer's eyes. It seems likely that the Garden, with Carnera signed for a title defense, will soon have Baer's signature as his opponent in June. The stickler so far has been Dempsey's private influence with Baer and the Garden's refusal to cut old Johnno in on the promotion of the title bout.

Hard to Handle

Without Dempsey, it's very probable that Baer will be no world beater in his next fight. The young fellow is hard to handle. He likes to roam, women fascinate him, training irks him. He was a nickel fighter until Dempsey moved in.

The old champion can handle him. While promoting the Schmeling fight he made Baer's condition and training a personal issue between them. He threatened to belt the daylights out of Baer in person if the proper training wasn't done. He even went in and boxed with him in Atlantic City. And he popped Max with so many left hooks that it looked for a moment, gone back as far as he was, that he'd belt half his big attraction right out of there in half a round.

The picture of Dempsey, a fat old man, sleepless for a couple of nights, tired and worn, trying to pull punches on a youngster like Baer was comical. But it taught Baer something he never would have learned otherwise. He was right for Schmeling. The next time? Nobody knows.

Every coin minted in Venezuela bears the profile of Simon Bolivar.

City Amateur League Gets Under Way Here

The Hornets, Psalmsinger, Ramblers and Kinkachus won their opening games in the city amateur basketball league at the Coliseum gymnasium, the winners finding little difficulty except the Kinkachus who barely nosed out the Herringchokers, 12 to 11 and the Psalmsingers who were forced to batter down a stubborn defense before conquering St. Joseph, 11 to 6.

The results of the games follow:

Ramblers 25; Cardinals 8.

Hornets 18; Yellow Jackets 5.

Psalmsingers 11; St. Joseph 6.

Kinkachus 12; Herringchokers 11.

The Ramblers displayed a tight defense and a stalwart offense in turning back the challenge of the Cardinals. Olson sank five baskets for the winners while Rogers was the only man to score a field goal for the Cardinals.

Murphy, tall center, lead the Hornets' attack in their 18 to 5 conquest of the Yellowjackets. He scored four field goals for his time. Almonroeder scored both of the Yellow Jackets' field goals.

The Psalmsingers found St. Joseph tough but broke through a stout defense to score four field goals and added three free throws while the Parochials were garnering only two field goals and a brace of charity tosses.

The Kinkachus-Herringchokers game was a thriller and was not decided until the final whistle. The more experienced Kinkachus found the Herringchokers tougher than they had anticipated and were forced to battle for every point. The Herringchokers indicated the eligibility of at least one of the Kinkachus players would be questioned due to the three lettermen ruling.

BEARS DEFEAT PACKERS, 7-6

Chicago Pro Gridders to Play Giants Sunday for Title

Chicago, Dec. 10. (AP)—The Chicago Bears clinched the right to meet the New York Giants here next Sunday in the final championship game for the National Professional Football league title by defeating the Green Bay Packers, 7 to 6.

New York leads the eastern division and the Bears the western division in the league, winding up their final campaign with victories today.

Today's battle was filled with thrills as the Bears trounced the Packers for the third straight time this season. On the opening kickoff, Hinkle, of the Packers, ran 95 yards, but the Bears held on their own five year line. The Bears scored their winning touchdown in the second period when Molesworth tossed a 37-yard pass to Ronzani who dodged over five yards more for the touchdown. Manders kicked the point.

Bob Monnett, former Michigan State star, ran 85 yards for the Packer touchdown in the fourth period, but Link Lyman broke through and blocked Hinkle's try for the extra point.

GIANTS WIN

Philadelphia, Dec. 10. (AP)—Harry Newman and his New York Giants defeated the Philadelphia Eagles, 20 to 14, on a snow-covered field today, but the eastern champions of the National Professional Football league had a battle on their hands.

Newman, former Michigan ace, opened the scoring for the Giants with a touchdown in the second period. He also kicked the extra point.

REDS BLANK DODGERS

Dayton, Ohio, Dec. 10. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds handed the Brooklyn Dodgers their second defeat in as many weeks today, winning, 13 to 0, in a charity exhibition game.

ST. LOUIS CLUB WINS

St. Louis, Dec. 10. (AP)—The St. Louis Gunners, pro football aggregation coached by Gwinn Henry, former Missouri University coach, overrode the Chicago Allstars, a team sponsored by the Chicago Cardinals, here today, 25 to 7.

Yale May Offer Post To Kipke; He'll Consider

Dayton, O., Dec. 11 (AP)—Although indicating he might have been approached informally, Harry Kipke, football coach at the University of Michigan, said here tonight he had not been officially offered a similar post at Yale university.

Kipke said if an official of the school should make an offer, he would consider it.

However, he added that he was very much satisfied with his position at Michigan and would "regret very much" to leave.

He is going to New York Friday to deliver a radio address, he said, denying that the purpose of the trip is to confer with Yale officials.

Kipke spoke here tonight at a high school football banquet.

BASEBALL SIZE IS COMPROMISE

Simple Solution Offered Two Big Leagues By Yankee Leader

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

New York, Dec. 11 (AP)—A simple solution of one of the major controversies confronting the baseball magnates at their annual gatherings in Chicago next week—the difference between the American and National League baseballs—was offered today by Ed Barrow, the man behind the big guns of the New York Yankees.

"A compromise is the logical thing," he said. "Major league ball should be played with similar implements in both big leagues. Put the American League cover on the ball. Add the thicker stitching now used in the seams of the National League ball. That should satisfy everyone."

Other Items

Apparently this is a compromise that will be discussed at great length when the magnates get together Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, argue over many things, including "synthetic" double-headers, the re-election of Commissioner K. M. Landis, the suggestion for a regular series of inter-league games, and the constant plight of minor league ball.

Last year there were devout protestations through and beyond winter meeting time that identical balls would be used in both leagues. But when the season rolled around, the American League was a hitters' circuit, the ball fast and agile. The National League was a pitchers' paradise, with Carl Hubbell achieving an earned run average of 1.66 per game that eclipsed everything since Grover Alexander's mark of 1.55, made with the Phillies in 1916.

The makeup of the two spheres, from the cover into and including the core, was identical, Barrow said, although it had been thought the American League ball was wound with a finer yarn. The difference was all on the outside.

The American League cover was made from flank horsehide, and was lighter and more resilient than the leather used in the National League ball. The National League ball's cover was two grades thicker, with heavier thread, thereby giving the pitchers a better grip.

"Hitting those two balls brought quite different results," Barrow said. "The American League ball traveled faster on the ground, lifted farther. When the National League ball was hit dead center it traveled just as far as the American League ball. But if it wasn't hit solidly, grounders were easier to handle and fly balls softer."

Landis Unopposed

Such a compromise probably would meet opposition from Bill Terry, manager of the Yankees' neighbors, the world champion Giants. The Giants won the National League pennant and the world series chiefly on brilliant pitching, backed with little real clouting. Undoubtedly they'd like another order of the same for 1934.

Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, will head the American League opposition against "synthetic" double-headers, arranged by playing Monday games along with single games scheduled for Sundays, a device invented by Branch Rickey, of the St. Louis Cardinals. The feeling is very strong in the American circuit against this practice, the argument being that it cheapens the game and makes it a "one day a week" attraction.

Several American League officials stoutly oppose the suggestion, growing out of the highly successful all-star game in Chicago last summer, that each major league team play two or three games with each team in the rival league as a part of the regular season schedule. Little opposition is expected to Landis' retention as baseball's high commissioner.

Joe and Roy Will Fight at Menominee Next Monday Night

Menominee (Special)—One of the best cards of amateur boxing bouts ever arranged in the twin cities, will be presented at the Menominee Athletic club next Monday night, when the club presents the first of a series of boxing programs to be held during the winter months.

George Casebeer of Stephenson, matchmaker for the club in its boxing program, has announced the complete cards to be presented next Monday and it will bring together boxers who have appeared on programs in this section in the past and assures the customers of their money's worth of this entertainment that is commonly known as the art of self-defense.

The Cards

At 118 pounds—Francis Rivard, Daggett, vs. Omer Crocker, Iron Mountain.

At 126 pounds—"Billy" Chesna Oshkosh, vs. Francis Vetort, Stephenson.

At 130 pounds—"Jiggs" Jacobson, Daggett, vs. Clarence Davis, Oshkosh.

At 160 pounds—Paul Palmer, Stephenson, vs. Roy Anderson, Gladstone.

At 147 pounds—George Steffen, vs. Hans Ahls, Oshkosh.

At 160 pounds—Joe Anderson, Gladstone, vs. Larry Gilbert, of Menominee.

The bouts will start promptly at 8:30 o'clock.

Leave Grid Rules Alone, Learn 'Em

Norman, Okla. (AP)—The answer to the burning question of what to do about the football rules, in the opinion of Coach Lewie Hardage of the University of Oklahoma, is—nothing.

Hardage recommends that the standard set of rules be maintained so that fans, players, coaches and officials may become thoroughly familiar with them.

However, he added he would like to see all players required to wear helmets for their own protection and the goal posts moved back to the goal line and padded to prevent injuries. The latter move, Hardage said, would result in more scoring.

It is against the law for a London milkman to open a bottle of milk on the street; but he may open a can if necessary.

Forgot He Left One Shell In Gun, Kills His Companion, 15

Iron Mountain, Dec. 9 (Special)—Because Howard Auger, 17, son of Eugene Auger, 320 Dickinson boulevard, Kingsford Heights, forgot that he had left one shell in the .22 calibre revolver with which he and his chum, John E. Osby, Jr., 15, had been hunting yesterday afternoon, young Osby is dead today.

The victim of the tragedy, a son of Mr. and Mrs. John Osby, Sr., 105 Rexford street, Kingsford, died at about 7 o'clock last evening in General hospital from a bullet wound in the head, the shot being fired by Auger as the two youths were aiming at objects in the attic of the Osby home.

The boys, boon companions, left their homes early yesterday afternoon, each with a .22 calibre revolver, according to the account given to the sheriff's department. They walked to the Ford airport near Cowboy lake and spent the afternoon shooting at targets in the woods of that area.

Replaced Cartridge

Toward late afternoon they started home. According to young Auger they had fired all but one of the .22 calibre bullets they had taken with them. As they walked along, Auger recalled, he had first taken the one bullet out of his revolver and put it in his pocket. Later, however, he said, and while handling the gun as they walked along the road, he had put the cartridge back in again. He recalled having twirled the chamber so that, if the trigger should accidentally snap, it would not hit the shell.

It was the latter act, however, which slipped young Auger's mind when he later pulled the trigger on the one shell.

The boys arrived at the Asby home at about 5 o'clock and went into the attic. They leveled their revolvers at various objects, pulling the triggers. Auger, as nearly as he could recall, had pulled the trigger of his gun two or three times before the chamber swung around with the shell in firing position.

And it was at that moment that, smiling at Osby, he leveled the revolver at his chum's head and looked along the sights. He pulled the trigger and, as the shell was discharged, Osby fell to the floor, blood spurting from the wound.

Osby was taken to the General hospital where it was found that the bullet had entered the forehead squarely in the center, near the top, passed along the center of the brain and came out at the back of the head. The boy died about an hour after having been shot.

DeLand Talks Politics, But Not About Self

Charles J. DeLand, former secretary of state, was a visitor in Escanaba yesterday for the purpose of addressing the meeting of the automobile dealers of Delta, Schoolcraft and Menominee counties. As deputy administrator of the retail automobile code in Michigan, he addressed the dealers on this subject.

Asked whether he would re-enter state politics actively next fall in view of the fact that Secretary of State Fitzgerald's candidacy for governor would leave a vacancy in his former position, DeLand said he was "not thinking of it."

DeLand, however, appeared to be quite interested in the political situation in the upper peninsula, wishing to know to what mentioned candidates public sentiment was leaning. In past campaigns, DeLand has been associated with former Governor J. Groesbeck.

He intimated that Groesbeck's political intentions will likely be made known after the holidays. The former secretary of state predicted that there will be no stopping U. S. Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg for the Republican nomination, and he doubted whether former Governor Fred W. Green will oppose him. With an outstater running for the U. S. senate, DeLand said that the natural thing would be for the Republicans to secure a Wayne county candidate for governor.

"That 62,000 majority the Democrats got in Wayne county last fall should not be overlooked," DeLand explained.

DeLand said there was much talk below the straits that Judge Arthur Lacy of Detroit would become the Democratic candidate for the governorship.

BISHOP AGAIN HEADS BUREAU

Resignation Withdrawn After Losing His Government Job

George E. Bishop, secretary of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau for the past 12 years, is to continue in that position, according to action taken by members of the executive committee of the bureau at Marquette yesterday.

When Mr. Bishop was appointed as Michigan representative of the National Farm Production Credit corporation, a few weeks ago, he submitted his resignation to officers of the bureau.

Within a few days after he had assumed his new position Mr. Bishop was informed of his dismissal because of objections made to his appointment by Democratic leaders of the lower peninsula.

When members of the bureau's executive committee met at Marquette yesterday, Mr. Bishop's resignation was withdrawn and he will continue in his old position at a salary in conformity with a markedly reduced bureau budget.

PEEK CHOSEN FOR NEW JOB BY PRESIDENT

ing pacts which are expected to reopen trade channels clogged now by tariffs or other impediments.

Secretary Wallace regarded the dispute over policies as a fundamental difference in viewpoint between himself and the administrator.

Wallace's followers asserted that Peek had been loathe to admit that the secretary had the final word where administration of the far mact was concerned. They said also that the administrator did not regard production control as a particularly essential part of the effort to restore farm prosperity.

The secretary has insisted that any stabilization activities aimed to raise the price of farm products were worthless unless a firm control of production enabled a reduction of present surpluses and prevented the accumulation of future market gluts.

Peek's followers, however, blamed much of the trouble on Tugwell and Jerome, farm administration counsel.

Peek quit private business almost ten years ago, however, to devote his time to farm relief work and it was said today that he was loathe to let indifferences over policies take him away from the activities he regards as essential if prosperity is to be restored.

BY JAMES COPE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP) A restudy of prices fixed under the cleaners and dyers code was promised tonight by NRA with indications that few if any of those now violating them will be punished, but with a definite warning that whatever levels are finally determined upon be enforced.

The promise of a new study came from Arthur D. Whiteside after seven hours of public hearing had developed that most of the numerous violations now reported were a result of a struggle between purely cash and carry cleaners and old line establishments maintaining deliveries.

Price Is Objection

He said if possible a decision would be rendered by Friday, but did not indicate whether revision could be looked for.

Frankly, almost defiantly, witnesses came up and said they were abiding by the code in every respect but prices, and that to observe the 65 cent to 95 cent minimums now in force would drive the cash and carries out of business.

Many who have been maintaining the fixed prices said their business had slumped alarmingly already. Most vigorous of all, Isador Paul of New York, president of the National Retail Dry Cleaners and Outlet Association, who admitted he had led a revolt against the prices, contended that no relief could have been obtained otherwise in time to save many of the business involved. Most speakers wanted a price fixed 15 to 20 per cent lower than that for delivery service.

The opposing side had as chief spokesman N. J. Harkness of the National Association of Cleaners and Dyers, who called the typical cash and carry business a "child of the depression," thriving on low prices, low wages and sweating of labor uneconomically low rents, poor service to the customer and making the most of "depression psychology."

Violator Booed

The hearing was one of the most extraordinary ever held by NRA. In the auditorium of the chamber of commerce of the United States were packed hundreds of cleaners who at the slightest provocation burst fourth into a din of applause or booing.

Hugh S. Johnson was treated to an ovation. A moment later a confessed violator who demanded lower fixed prices and charged his competitors with sending gangsters to drive him out of business, was booed to the echo. The noise continued at intervals throughout the day, its distribution soon revealing that one third of the audience was made up of cash and carry men, the other two blocks of seats being filled with their opponents.

A roll call by states to give opponents opportunity to say what they wanted brought witnesses from the far west, south, middlewest and east to protest, almost every one asking a differential for the cash and carry. Most states called drew the response:

"Paul will speak for us!"

When Paul took the stand, one third the audience tried to rival the demonstration given Johnson earlier. He made this presentation of his side's case: That the cash and carries had developed a new class of trade, the low-paid white collar workers who used to sponge out spots at home; that this had increased the total volume of business tremendously on a low price basis 39 cents for a suit or plain dress; that a 75 cent or 95 cent charge would destroy all this new trade; that on a low price 40 to 50 cents, there would be enough business for all, and that with a differential of 15 or 20 cents in favor of the cash and carry this class of store would survive.

Fur-Coat Hunter, And Other Yarns Make the Rounds

Newberry, Dec. 13—Was it a down state hunter or a local nitwit who went hunting in a coat of black bear skin? A city tenderfoot was given credit for the yarn when it was first told but now they say that it was someone who has lived in Luce county for years. We do not know. We do not want to know. Such knowledge would be an uncomfortable item to carry about although maybe, in strict fairness, we should send for Mr. S. Holmes and investigate. At any rate, now that the season has closed and only rabbit and predatory animals can be hunted within the law this and some other good ones can be told, and retold.

First the Bear Story

Two men, hunting deer, saw a bear walking behind a fringe of second growth. They never could see the whole body but enough of the fur showed through the brush that they were sure it was a bear. One of them took aim, but waited. The animal made queer movements, not quite natural for bruin. However, he decided it was all right and aimed again, but some queer feeling made him think that all was not well and he lowered his gun the second time. The animal was walking along a low piece of land, as the story is told, and suddenly reared up, unfastened its hide and showed he was wearing coat and trousers. The fool hunter, when told how near he had come to being a dead hunter, remarked: "Well the weather is cold enough for a fur coat."

But it was an old hunter, a man who was born almost with a gun in his hands who tells the following about himself.

He was hunting deer. He had spent some hours on the trail and finally came to the cross road where he was to meet his companions. He sat down on a log, leaned back comfortably against a stump and lighted his pipe. Pretty soon he heard someone walk up behind him.

"Any luck," he asked. "I followed the tracks of a big buck but he left and went down through the swamp a ways back." Receiving no answer he looked over his shoulder in time to see the big buck quietly disappearing in the brush.

Then there is the story of the man who tagged his buck first then shot him. This hunter took a crack at a good sized buck and had the satisfaction of seeing him drop. He ran up, attached the tag and then stepped back to place his gun in a dry place before using the knife. The buck arose with a leap and was on his way.

Almost instantly he heard another gun shot and rushed along the trail to see another hunter bending over his buck. "Hi, there! Leave that alone. It's mine!" he shouted.

"Like so and so it is. I just shot him."

"O yeah! Well he's wearing my tag."

"The second hunter looked, gasped, and then stepped back."

"You win," he said, awe in his voice.

There is the yarn of the green hunter who strayed a few yards from his companion when on his first—and last hunt. He suddenly found himself out of sight of a human form and the tall trees stood all around. A mountain high brush pile was along side him. He started running. Soon he struck a path made by someone who had recently passed in a hurry. So he followed as fast as he could leg it. He ran and ran, then panic caught him and he began to cry: "I'm lost, I'm lo-o-o-st! My name is John Doe and I'm Lo-o-o-o-st!" His companions, missing him, listening and hearing the racket, came back to find him chasing himself about the brush pile.

ROADS KEPT OPEN

A storm which reached blizzard size raged all night Sunday caused dozens of small accidents. Cars were in and out of ditches and snow banks but none was injured and no damage done. County road plows ran all night and kept all roads open. The state highway department office reports that they have received word of no blocking from any U. P. counties. Although only about six to eight inches of snow fell it was blown up in drifts and called all of the snow removal equipment into use.

NEWBERRY BRIEFS

Rodger Fretz made a trip to Marquette over the week-end. He has discontinued his school term in the Northern Teachers' college and will assist in the Newberry News office for the rest of the winter.

Jack Rossi, working on a CWA road project, was accidently struck on the head by a shovel in the hands of a workman early on Monday morning. He suffered a scalp wound.

Mrs. Leonard Peterson and Mrs. C. R. Carr returned Saturday from visiting for several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Plaunt at Sault Ste. Marie.

Morris Beaudin has accepted a position at the Newberry state hospital. He will be in charge of the meat department.

Mrs. R. E. L. Gibson and daughters Miss Virginia and Margaret and Jack Homlund were visitors at Sault Ste. Marie on Saturday.

A short time later, the smell of smoke brought sudden attention and a fire extinguisher to his locker.

The blaze was of brief duration but the young fellow is without an overcoat, and spring is a long ways away.

Menominee Youth Is Killed Walking Home From Resort

Menominee, Dec. 11 (Special) David B. Langill, 21, Jordan college student and son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Langill, 1007 Ogden avenue, was struck and believed to have been killed instantly by a car about 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning as he was walking home from the Surf club, recently opened resort four miles south of Marinette on the Bay Shore road.

District Attorney S. E. Eastman of Marinette this morning said a warrant charging Duane McCall, youthful editor of the Oconto County Reporter at Oconto, with being the driver of the death car and failing to stop and render assistance after the accident would be issued some time this afternoon.

A grown up man breathes about 15 to 16 times a minute, a woman breathes about 18 times, while children breathe faster.

BISHOP AGAIN HEADS BUREAU

Resignation Withdrawn After Losing His Government Job

George E. Bishop, secretary of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau for the past 12 years, is to continue in that position, according to action taken by members of the executive committee of the bureau at Marquette yesterday.

When Mr. Bishop was appointed as Michigan representative of the National Farm Production Credit corporation, a few weeks ago, he submitted his resignation to officers of the bureau.

Within a few days after he had assumed his new position, Mr. Bishop was informed of his dismissal because of objections made to his appointment by Democratic leaders of the lower peninsula.

When members of the bureau's executive committee met at Marquette yesterday, Mr. Bishop's resignation was withdrawn and he will continue in his old position at a salary in conformity with a markedly reduced bureau budget.

ing pacts which are expected to reopen trade channels clogged now by tariffs or other impediments.

Secretary Wallace regarded the dispute over policies as a fundamental difference in viewpoint between himself and the administrator.

Wallace's followers asserted that Peek had been loathe to admit that the secretary had the final word where administration of the far mact was concerned. They said also that the administrator did not regard production control as a particularly essential part of the effort to restore farm prosperity.

The secretary has insisted that any stabilization activities aimed to raise the price of farm products were worthless unless a firm control of production enabled a reduction of present surpluses and prevented the accumulation of future market gluts.

Peek's followers, however, blamed much of the trouble on Tugwell and Jerome, farm administration counsel.

Peek quit private business almost ten years ago, however, to devote his time to farm relief work and it was said today that he was loathe to let indifferences over policies take him away from the activities he regards as essential if prosperity is to be restored.

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—A restudy of prices fixed under the cleaners and dyers code was promised tonight by NRA with indications that few if any of those now violating them will be punished, but with a definite warning that whatever levels are finally determined upon be enforced.

The promise of a new study came from Arthur D. Whiteside after seven hours of public hearing had developed that most of the numerous violations now reported were a result of a struggle between purely cash and carry cleaners and old-line establishments maintaining deliveries.

Price Is Objection

He said if possible a decision would be rendered by Friday, but did not indicate whether revision could be looked for.

Frankly, almost defiantly, witnesses came up and said they were abiding by the code in every respect but prices, and that to observe the 65 cent to 95 cent minimums now in force would drive the cash and carries out of business.

Many who have been maintaining the fixed prices said their business had slumped alarmingly already. Most vigorous of all, Isador Paul of New York, president of the National Retail Dry Cleaners and Outlet Association who admitted he had led a revolt against the prices, contended that no relief could have been obtained otherwise in time to save many of the business involved. Most speakers wanted a price fixed 15 to 20 per cent lower than that for delivery service.

The opposing side had as chief spokesman N. J. Harkness of the National Association of Cleaners and Dyers, who called the typical cash and carry business a "child of the depression," thriving on low prices, low wages and sweating of labor, uneconomically low rents, poor service to the customer and making the most of "depression psychology."

Violator Booed

The hearing was one of the most extraordinary ever held by NRA. In the auditorium of the chamber of commerce of the United States were packed hundreds of cleaners who at the slightest provocation burst fourth into a din of applause or booing.

Hugh S. Johnson was treated to an ovation. A moment later a confessed violator who demanded lower fixed prices and charged his competitors with sending gangsters to drive him out of business, was booed to the echo. The noise continued at intervals throughout the day, its distribution soon revealing that one third of the audience was made up of cash and carry men, the other two blocks of seats being filled with their opponents.

A roll call by states to give opponents" opportunity to say what they wanted brought witnesses from the far west, south, middlewest and east to protest, almost every one asking a differential for the cash and carry. Most states called drew the response:

"Paul will speak for us!"

When Paul took the stand, one third the audience tried to rival the demonstration given Johnson earlier. He made this presentation of his side's cash: That the cash and carries had developed a new class of trade, the low-paid white collar workers who used to sponge out spots at home; that this had increased the total volume of business tremendously on a low price basis—39 cents for a suit or plain dress; that a 75 cent or 95 cent charge would destroy all this new trade; that on a low price, 40 to 50 cents, there would be enough business for all, and that with a differential of 15 or 20 cents in favor of the cash and carry this class of store would survive.

Fur-Coat Hunter, And Other Yarns Make the Rounds

Newberry, Dec. 13—Was it a down state hunter or a local nitwit who went hunting in a coat of black bear skin? A city tenderfoot was given credit for the yarn when it was first told but now they say that it was someone who has lived in Luce county for years. We do not know. We do not want to know. Such knowledge would be an uncomfortable item to carry about although maybe, in strict fairness, we should send for Mr. S. Holmes and investigate. At any rate, now that the season has closed and only rabbit and predatory animals can be hunted within the law this and some other good ones can be told, and retold.

First the Bear Story

Two men, hunting deer, saw a bear walking behind a fringe of second growth. They never could see the whole body but enough of the fur showed through the brush that they were sure it was a bear. One of them took aim, but waited. The animal made queer movements, not quite natural for bruin. However, he decided it was all right and aimed again, but some queer feeling made him think that all was not well and he lowered his gun the second time. The animal was walking along a low piece of land, as the story is told, and suddenly reared up, unfastened its hide and showed he was wearing coat and trousers. The fool hunter, when told how near he had come to being a dead hunter, remarked: "Well the weather is cold enough for a fur coat."

But it was an old hunter, a man who was born almost with a gun in his hands who tells the following about himself.

He was hunting deer. He had spent some hours on the trail and finally came to the cross road where he was to meet his companions. He sat down on a log, leaned back comfortably against a stump and lighted his pipe. Pretty soon he heard someone walk up behind him.

"Any luck," he asked. "I followed the tracks of a big buck but he left and went down through the swamp a ways back." Receiving no answer he looked over his shoulder in time to see the big buck quietly disappearing in the brush.

Then there is the story of the man who tagged his buck first then shot him. This hunter took a crack at a good sized buck and had the satisfaction of seeing him drop. He ran up, attached the tag and then stepped back to place his gun in a dry place before using the knife. The buck arose with a leap and was on his way.

Almost instantly he heard another gun shot and rushed along the trail to see another hunter bending over his buck. "Hi, there! Leave that alone. It's mine!" he shouted.

"Like so and so it is. I just shot him."

"O yeah! Well he's wearing my tag."

"The second hunter looked, gasped, and then stepped back."

"You win," he said, awe in his voice.

There is the yarn of the green hunter who strayed a few yards from his companion when on his first—and last hunt. He suddenly found himself out of sight of a human form and the tall trees stood all around. A mountain high brush pile was along side him. He started running. Soon he struck a path made by someone who had recently passed in a hurry. So he followed as fast as he could log it. He ran and ran, then panic caught him and he began to cry: "I'm lost, I'm lo-o-o-st! My name is John Doe and I'm Lo-o-o-o-st!" His companions, missing him, listening and hearing the racket, came back to find him chasing himself about the brush pile.

ROADS KEPT OPEN

A storm which reached blizzard size raged all night Sunday caused dozens of small accidents. Cars were in and out of ditches and snow banks but none was injured and no damage done. County road plows ran all night and kept all roads open. The state highway department office reports that they have received word of no blocking from any U. P. counties. Although only about six to eight inches of snow fell it was blown up in drifts and called all of the snow removal equipment into use.

NEWBERRY BRIEFS

Rodger Fretz made a trip to Marquette over the week-end. He has discontinued his school term in the Northern Teachers' college and will assist in the Newberry News office for the rest of the winter.

Jack Rossi, working on a CWA road project, was accidently struck on the head by a shovel in the hands of a workman early on Monday morning. He suffered a scalp wound.

Mrs. Leonard Peterson and Mrs. C. R. Carr returned Saturday from visiting for several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Plaunt at Sault Ste. Marie.

Morris Beaudin has accepted a position at the Newberry state hospital. He will be in charge of the meat department.

Mrs. R. E. L. Gibson and daughters Miss Virginia and Margaret and Jack Homlund were visitors at Sault Ste. Marie on Saturday.

Tries To Save Cig, But Loses Overcoat

There's never a cold day that doesn't bring fires—even in a Junior high school!

Yesterday morning a lad, to whom the forbidden cigarettes are evidently scarce and highly prized property, pinched out the light of his only smoke, or evidently thought he did, and deposited it for safe keeping and future use in his overcoat pocket.

A short time later, the smell of smoke brought sudden attention and a fire extinguisher to his locker.

The blaze was of brief duration but the young fellow is without an overcoat, and spring is a long ways away.

Menominee Youth Is Killed Walking Home From Resort

Menominee, Dec. 11 (Special)—David B. Langill, 21, Jordan college student and son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Langill, 1007 Ogden avenue, was struck and believed to have been killed instantly by a car about 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning as he was walking home from the Surf club, recently opened resort four miles south of Marinette on the Bay Shore road.

District Attorney S. E. Eastman of Marinette this morning said a warrant charging Duane McCall, youthful editor of the Oconto County Reporter at Oconto, with being the driver of the death car and failing to stop and render assistance after the accident would be issued some time this afternoon.

Although more than 150 miles of passageways already have been explored in Kentucky's Mammoth Cave, many miles still are to be seen.

A grown-up man brathes about 15 to 16 times a minute; a woman breathes about 18 times, while children breathe faster.

PEEK CHOSEN FOR NEW JOB BY PRESIDENT

DISPUTE IN FARM ADMINISTRATION ADJUSTED

BY SAM BLEDSOE
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—A compromise was reached today on the farm administration controversy through the selection by President Roosevelt of George N. Peek, the farm administrator, to head an organization which will try to find foreign markets for farm commodities.

Peek will leave the farm administration soon. His successor is to be Chester C. Davis, production chief.

Several of those who supported Peek in his differences with Secretary Wallace, Assistant Secretary Tugwell and others will follow him out of the farm administration, among them several who hold high places.

Couldn't Agree

Peek decided to quit as farm administrator last week after he and Secretary Wallace broke openly over policies.

Peek did not make his decision known until the White House conference today in which Acting Secretary Morgenthau, Jesse H. Jones, of the reconstruction corporation, Secretary Wallace, Joseph H. Choate, Jr., head of the alcohol control administraion, Acting Secretary Phillips of the state department and other high officials participated.

Both he and Wallace hurried from the White House to a train bound for Chicago where they are to speak tomorrow at a meeting of the American farm bureau federation.

Shortly after their departure, the White House issued a formal statement that said Peek would head the export organization.

For the time being it will be a "temporary committee to recommend permanent machinery to coordinate all governmental relations to American foreign trade."

Sees Opportunities

The committee is to make its report in about two weeks and then the permanent organization which Peek will direct is to be formed.

Meanwhile, the temporary committee will include the members of the interdepartmental advisory board on reciprocal treaties and the interdepartmental trade policy committee, both formed within the Roosevelt administration to map out and promote foreign trade policies.

The statement said that as far back as last March Mr. Roosevelt discussed with Peek the prospects for reopening foreign markets for agricultural surpluses but that a program of domestic restriction of production was decided upon at the time.

"Now," the White House statement said, "the time has come to initiate the second part of the program and to correlate the two parts, the internal adjustment of production with such effective foreign purchasing power as may be developed by reciprocal tariffs, barter and other international arrangements."

Tugwell Blamed

Peek's committee probably will assist the state department, the farm administration and the alcohol control administration in finding news markets for American agricultural products and in eliminating barriers, or negotiat-

CHACO VICTORY IS CELEBRATED

Paraguayan Forces Take 13,000 Bolivians in Warfare

Asuncion, Paraguay, Dec. 11 (AP)—Celebrants marched through flag-decorated streets tonight as the defense ministry announced officially the capture of more than 13,000 Bolivian soldiers in victories in the Chaco boreal.

The ministry issued three successive communiques declaring Paraguayan forces had captured:

(1)—The Bolivian calvary regiment, Lanza with its commanding officer, Lieut. Col. Vidal Araubar, six lieutenants and six sub-lieutenants;

(2)—The Bolivian 20th regiment, "the Loa," and the Bolivian 21st regiment, "the Abaroa," a total of 1,500 men and their complete personnel of officers in an engagement in which 600 Bolivians were killed;

(3)—The Bolivian fourth and ninth army divisions with 10,500 men and more than 700 officers, as well as a large quantity of munitions.

The municipality invited all business houses to close for a fiesta of celebration and to permit all civilians to assist in the victory celebration.

The capture of the fourth and ninth divisions originally was reported unofficially but later the defense ministry confirmed the report officially.

BUREAU BACKS FARM POLICIES

Roosevelt Is Optimistic In Message Sent to Federation

Chicago, Dec. 11 (AP)—The American Farm Bureau Federation today received a message of agricultural optimism from President Roosevelt, and responded with expressions of staunch support from its leaders for the president's program of farm recovery.

Although declaring that "we seem to be on our way," the president's message admonished that full support and complete cooperation from the farmers were essential to final success.

Even before the presidential message was read to the assemblage of 1,000 farmers by their leader, Edward A. O'Neal, Alabama cotton farmer and head of the federation, the convention was reported as firmly in support of Roosevelt and his policies.

The resolutions committee was reported to have drafted a resolution expressing such sentiment, and calling upon the president to continue his program without deviation. Another resolution was reported to ask that congress consider seriously the possibility of remonetization of silver, which O'Neal advocated in his opening address.

Scheduled to address the convention tomorrow were Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and George N. Peek. Leaders of the federation thus hoped to learn first hand the details of the controversy between Wallace and Peek over conduct of the AAA.

Discussing the problem of burdensome taxation, Governor Paul V. McNutt of Indiana reviewed for the convention today his state's plan for "broadening the tax base" and reducing the load on real estate. He said gross income sales manufacturing, and wholesaling taxes had given the solution.

Boy Extortionist Put On Probation

Charlevoix, Dec. 11 (AP)—Gerald Carney, 14 year old school boy accused by police of writing threatening letters to William P. Porter, millionaire East Jordan lumberman,, was placed on probation for four years today in juvenile court by Judge E. A. Ruegsegger.

Carney, who authorities said wrote Porter a letter demanding $150 and threatening him with death if the sum were not forthcoming, had a clear record previously. Department of justice agents declined to prosecute under United States postal laws.

COWBOY ADMITS KIDNAP MURDER

Killed Wichita Couple to Avoid Trouble on Bad Check

Hutchinson, Kans., Dec. 11 (AP)—Jack Wisdom, 26, a cowboy, signed a statement this afternoon, Assistant County Attorney Eli Eubanks announced, that he kidnaped and killed Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pritchard of Wichita, Kans.

The statement, obtained at the Kansas state reformatory where Wisdom is held for safe-keeping, did not mention "Buck" Smith, who Wisdom had stated earlier killed the couple while he looked on.

Wisdom, according to the statement, shot the couple to death and hid the bodies in Oklahoma because he feared prosecution on a worthless check for $21.40 which he had given the Wichita merchant.

The cowboy was under heavy guard.

Pritchard's body was found today beneath a culvert near El Reno, Okla., soon after Wisdom was rushed from Kingfisher, Okla., to Kansas for safekeeping. His wife's body was discovered yesterday in a culvert near Bison, Okla.

Wisdom was quoted as confessing he had a dual motive—robbery and retaliation for a threat by Pritchard to prosecute unless he made good a check given at Pritchard's store in Wichita which was returned marked "no funds."

Mindful of recent lynchings in San Jose, Cal., and St. Joseph, Mo., Governor William H. Murray of Oklahoma called out his national guardsmen last night to forestall possible mob violence.

Wisdom was brought here secretly, and Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas expressed determination today to thwart any attempt to establish "lynch law" by calling out the Kansas guard if necessary.

League Observers For Pan-American Group Postponed

BY G. D. SEYMOUR
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Montevideo, Uruguay, Dec. 11 (AP)—The Associated Press learned today that leaders have agreed to postpone until the next Pan-American conference the question of seating an official observer for the League of Nations.

This stand was taken in view of the fact that no formal request for the credentials was received from the league. The conference normally meets every wour years.

This developed after a three-hour debate in a sub-commission of the steering committee on the proposal of Cordell Hull, secretary of state of the United States, that a policy committee be formed to consider credentials for the league.

WORK BEGINS ON DRAFTING 1935 BUDGET

BL RICHARD L. TURNER
((Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—The problem of gauging expenditures for the next fiscal year—what outlays are to be continued, what new moves undertaken—came to the front today as President Roosevelt and his fiscal advisors went to work on the government's 1935 budget.

Lewis Douglas, director of the budget bureau, who favors a "pay as you go policy," took the White House tentative figures calling for disbursements of $2,600,000,000 between July 1, 1934, and June 30, 1935, with receipts loosely estimated at $3,550,000,000 leaving a margin of nearly a billion for unexpected needs and reductions of the nation's debt.

Gold Price Unchanged

The two were joined by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., acting secretary of the treasury, who is new to the problem of federal finances but has made a close study of budgetary needs since assuming command of the department three weeks ago.

A short while before, Morgenthau had announced another continuation of the domestic newly mined gold price at $34.01. It has been unchanged since December 1, with new and unrevealed safeguards in effect to prevent the figure from becoming known in financial centers before its official publication here. Meanwhile, officials silently continued their investigation of a report that the gold price had gotten out ahead of time.

Back Silver Coinage

While the week-end brought assurances from several quarters, including Senator Thomas of Oklahoma, an exponent of inflation, that no move for mandatory inflation was planned for the coming session of congress, Senator Pittman of Nevada, champion of silver, today asserted remonetization of the white metal would be ordered by congress unless the president acted in the meanwhile.

Predicting the silver advocates would introduce measures ranging from free and unlimited coinage to governmental purchases of silver bullion, the senator said he was willing to compromise. He suggested "a bill providing for the coinage of silver dollars from all silver mined after the passage of the bill," which he said, would add approximately $30,000,000 to our currency, and provide a "mild inflation."

Douglas' disposition has been to throw his influence against huge emergency expenditures and work toward a more normal budget.

The president has shown a desire to put government money to work wherever there is promise that such action will help the unemployed. How deeply this apparent rift runs was not disclosed in the opening conferences on the 1935 budget.

Public Works Big Item

Of great importance and vagueness among the emergency expenditures is the amount that the reconstruction corporation will need. Its life officially expires in January.

Parole Is Denied Liquor Violator; Record Not Good

Lansing, Dec. 11 (AP)—Henry Sass, Ionia factory worker reported as sentenced to 15 months imprisonment for "giving a man a drink," will stay in prison, Governor Comstock decided today.

Instead of being the innocent victim of circumstances, Sass has been a consistent violator of the law and has a bad record, the governor said. He alleged Sass sold liquor to intoxicated persons and otherwise collided with law and order. The governor investigated the case and said the trial judge was entirely justified. He said no pardon will be granted. George E. Nichols, Ionia county prosecutor, informed the governor of Sass' record.

WELFARE FUNDS DENIED SCHOOLS

Governor Will Submit Emergency Measure to Legislature

Lansing, Dec. 11 (AP)—A proposal by the legislature that $12,000,000 appropriated from sales tax revenues for welfare relief be diverted to school aid was described as impractical by welfare officials today. Following their report Governor Comstock said he probably will not recommend such a diversion, but will submit to the legislature a school emergency. It is expected to provide for the appropriation of liquor and other revenues to a school fund.

Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, wired the governor that no federal funds will be advanced to Michigan if the state appropriation is abolished. Fred R. Johnson, state relief administrator, filed a report with the executive declaring the state fund should be continued.

The information was obtained by the governor following the adoption by the house of a resolution urging the diversion of the $12,000,000 appropriation to needy school districts if civil works administration funds were sufficient to meet relief needs.

Johnson's report said that the CWA is expected to cut welfare costs to about $2,500,000 in December in Michigan compared with more than $4,000,000 in October. With statistics for the month still incomplete, Johnson estimated that November expenditures were reduced to $3,600,000 by the federal program.

There were 155,372 families on relief rolls in Otcober, the report showed, with the state bearing $1,007,033 of a total cost of $4,053,366. For the period, April through October, the total cost amounted to $25,729,343 of which $3,134,192 was paid by the state, $20,867,065 by the federal government, and $1,727,085 by local communities.

Lynching Called Murder By Judge

St. Joseph, Mo., Dec. 11 (AP)—In a stern denunciation of lynch law, Circuit Judge J. V. Gaddy told a special grand jury today that every person who was active in the mob that lynched Lloyd Warner, negro youth, the night of November 28 "is guilty of murder in the first degree."

The jurist called upon the grand jury to return indictments.

Prison Criticisms Denied at Lansing

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 13 (AP)—Members of the state prison commission and officials of the institutions joined today in denying many of the charges contained in the report of the survey made by the Osborne Association, Inc., of New York, which criticized many phases of Michigan's prison administration and predicted the possibility of violence within the penitentiary walls.

Those alleged defects which were not denied generally, were asserted to have been corrected insofar as possible.

Warden Peter F. Gray, of the Michigan state penitentiary at Jackson, said the report of the Osborne association was based on conditions found during a survey made on July 27 and 28, 1931, during the regime of Warden Harry H. Jackson and Deputy Warden Leonard McCoy.

"The morale here," Warden Gray said, "is higher than at any time in the prison's history, and the men, far from being intractable, are cooperating splendidly with the management in its efforts to ameliorate the worst features of unemployment."

O. K. Fjetland, executive secretary to Governor Comstock, and W. Alfred Debo, parole commissioner, both members of the prison commission, criticized the report. Fjetland said the report was virtually the same as that of the Wickersham commission a few years ago and added that unemployment in Michigan's prison was at its lowest point in years.

Debo said prison officials recognize the importance of the employment program but faced a severe handicap in the enactment of the federal Horace Cooper law curbing industry in the prisons.

Warden Gray in his statement said that the size of the prison at Jackson "is justly criticised, but I do not see what can be done about it. The prison was planned by former Governor Groesbeck and completed by Governors Green and Brucker. Its size is a lamentable fact, not an alterable theory."

The warden said many of the conditions upon which the report commented critically have been corrected by the present administration, but added that the unemployment situation while improved to some extent, "is still a most difficult problem and one that can be satisfactorily corrected only when the general public alters its present prejudice against prison labor."

MICHIGAN HAS 10 DEATHS IN ROAD MISHAPS

TEMPERATURE HITS 16 BELOW FOR WISCONSIN

(By The Associated Press)

Blizzards, floods and zero weather left a trail of death and destruction across the nation yesterday.

Six persons dead, one person missing, hundreds homeless and property damage of more than a million dollars in the Pacific Northwest.

Four dead at Bellefonte, Pa., after a train and an automobile crashed in a snow storm.

Three burned to death in a dance hall fire at Hampden, Me., which raged at the height of a blizzard.

Two dead from cold in Philadelphia; one in Delaware, another in Baltimore.

Snow in East

Snow blanketed most of the eastern seaboard, snowslides blocked transportation in northwest, and the mercury touched 24 degrees below zero in Owls Head, New York; western Wisconsin reported a temperature of 16 below; North Dakota, 14; Minnesota, 23 below.

In the Alleghanies in western Pennsylvania, two transcontinental and western mail planes crashed to earth, their wings burdened with ice. The pilots bailed out to safety.

Although some relief from frigid weather was promised some sections of the east today, weather bureau officials expected the mercury to drop even lower in many of the nation's largest cities.

In Detroit tonight the mercury was expected to drop to between zero and five degrees above while in the northern portions of Michigan temperatures of as low as five below were expected.

First relief, forecasters said, will be felt in the north central and northeastern states, in which slowly rising temperatures were promised today. Throughout the region, said weather statisticians, the temperature had been "much below normal."

Forecasts of new minimums last night had sent anticipatory shivers from Chicago to Boston.

Down to Zero

Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Baltimore and Louisville had been warned to expect a drop of from five to 10 degrees, and the western states were notified the night would bring "severe cold."

The cold snap swept suddenly away the mild weather which Colorado, Montana and Wyoming had enjoyed. In all the mercury last night was bound for zero, with snow predicted today.

Three of the six deaths in Michigan traceable to weather conditions occurred over the week-end in Allegan county. Leona Janse, 16, and Henrietta Tein, both of Martin, Mich., died after being struck by a skidding car. David

"WHITE COLLAR" JOBS PROMISED

New Federal Statistical Projects to Employ 17,724 Workers

Washington, Dec. 11 (AP)—The civil works administration announced today six new federal projects which officials said were planned to take care of 17,724 white collar workers under the supervision of three federal departments.

Harry L. Hopkins, administrator, said he had authorized hiring of 1,033 workers for the bureau of labor statistics to make a study on employment and payrolls; 1,834 to be used by the census bureau to make a study on tax delinquency and the overlapping functions of government units; 14,857 to be employed by thte bureau of agricultural economics on four studies.

The division of agricultural finance of the agricultural economic bureau will use 12,202 on a tax delinquency study dealing with land utilization and taxation policy and on farm mortgage financing. The crop and livestock division will employ 3,449 to collect information on prices of commodities farmers buy; the cotton marketing division will use 193 to compile cotton price statistics and the foreign competition and demand division will use 13 to compile statistics on foreign trades in agricultural products.

BRANDED KILLER

Accused by his wife of beating their 3-year-old son to death, Donald K. Smith, 30, above, Littleton, Col., farmer, was spirited away to Denver for safety when a crowd gathered at the Littleton jail, causing fears of possible lynching. The slain child is shown below.

WYNEKOOP WILL ASSIST MOTHER

Young Widower Released from Charges of Slaying Wife

Chicago, Dec. 11 (AP)—Shortly after Earle Wynekoop, 27, was released today from state charges in connection with the strange operating room death of his young wife, Rheta, he visited his accused mother and promised to devote himself to efforts to obtain her vindication of the slaying.

With his brother, Walker, the young widower rushed to the county jail after the state freed him by a surprise nolle prosse to a charge of being an accessory to the mysterious death. The prosecution said it was unable to connect Earle with the death.

His meeting with Dr. Alice Wynekoop occurred in an elevator. On the third floor as Walker and Earle went up, the car stopped. A cot was wheeled in bearing the accused physician on her way from her quarters to the infirmary. It was the first time they had seen each other since her indictment for the slaying several days ago. He had been held in jail on the accessory charge.

"My son!" she called as Earle stooped over the cot to embrace her. She has been ill since she was placed in jail, but doctors said her condition was much improved.

Detroit Banking Inquiry Delayed

Detroit, Dec. 11 (AP)—The probability arose today that the senate sub-committee on banking and currency, investigating the closing of Detroit's two large national banks, will hold its final hearing in Washington on December 19 instead of December 18 as planned.

David Saperstein, assistant to Ferdinand Pecora, counsel to the sub-committee, said the one-day postponement was probable because of the large amount of data collected here by investigators working on the closing of the First National Bank-Detroit, and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce.

Negaunee Man Gets Republic Mine Job

Youngstown, O., Dec. 11 (AP)—R. J. Wysor, Republic Steel Corp. vice president, today announced the appointment of John H. Nelson of Negaunee, Mich., as general manager of the company's Lake Superior district at Duluth.

Mr. Nelson, who was general superintendent for the Marquette range properties of Republic, succeeds F. J. Webb, who died last week.

TABLETS FATAL

Niles, Mich. (AP)—Mrs. Hester Blair, 44, of Tulsa, Okla., died in a hospital Monday. Robert Roebeck, justive of the peace, said she had taken an overdise of sleeping tablets intentionally. Mrs. Blair had come to Niles for treatment of her eyes.

LOWER HOUSE WILL REJECT THE MEASURE

DEBATE SPIRITED; MARGIN ONLY 17 TO 14

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 11. (AP)—The senate tonight passed the legislative liquor control bill by the slender margin of 17 to 14 votes, returning the measure to the house for concurrence in amendments. The larger chamber upon meeting tomorrow afternoon is expected to reject the heavily amended bill.

The bill then will go to a conference committee. Members gave the bill immediate effect after a previous vote had rejected a motion to put the measure into effect at once. The bill was passed amid a final spirited debate.

Derham, Doyle Vote No

Against: Derham, Doyle, Foster, Gorman, Heidcamp, Karwick, Leidlein, Leland, Moore, Palmer, Reid, Ruff, Town, Upjohn—14.

Senator Ray Derham, Republican, Iron Mountain, introduced an amendment which would have permitted the purchase of liquor in drug stores throughout the state to anyone who signed an affidavit that he was ill. First adopted by a vote of 18 to 12, the amendment finally was defeated, 16 to 15.

An amendment was adopted to permit the sale of beer on holidays, Sundays and election days. It altered an amendment passed earlier in the day prohibiting the sale of all alcoholic beverages on those days.

Revenue Complicated

An ameudment was adopted limiting the number of establishments to sell liquor to one for each 1,000 population in the various localities. Another change incorporated in the bill denies the right to retail liquor to chain stores with charters in states other than Michigan.

The complicated revenue provisions of the bill remained intact in the face of four separate attempts to amend them. The liquor revenue, as the bill now stands, will be given school districts as loans, to be repaid as money under the $15,000,000 appropriation by the last legislature becomes available. It then goes into the old age pension fund.

The senators defeated an amendment which would have placed a state liquor dispensary in every county of 25,000 population or over. Under present provisions, a state store is provided only in counties of 75,000 or more.

Bill Ridiculed

The bill will be sent to the house, where it will be received officially at 2 p. m. The house then will vote on its acceptance as amended by the senate. Senate leaders predicted that it would not be accepted. In that event the bill will be returned to the senate with a request for a joint conference of the two bodies to iron out differences.

Senators openly ridiculed the bill as it was passed tonight. Sen. John Leidlein, Democrat, Saginaw, said "I am ashamed to send this bill to the house," while Sen W. F. Doyle, Republican, Menominee, recommended that it be called the "Marx, Hitler and Mussolini bill."

There was some controversy about the number of votes necessary to pass the bill. Sen. Joseph C. Foster, Republican, Lansing, contended that inasmuch as it provided for local appropriations, a two-thirds majority was necessary for passage. Lieut. Gov. Allen E. Stebbins announced that he had obtained a ruling from the attorney general and from Governor Comstock's legal advisor that a majority vote only was necessary.

Peninsula Favored

After prolonged debate over the issue, the senate adopted amendments permitting glass

TELLS WORK OF COUZENS' FUND

Dr. H. I. Miller Gives Interesting Talk Before Rotarians

An interesting picture of the work done by the Couzens Children's Fund of Michigan both locally and throughout the state, was drawn by Dr. H. I. Miller, Escanaba, representative of the fund in Delta county, before the Gladstone Rotary club yesterday noon at their weekly meeting.

The fund was established four years ago by the Michigan statesman for the purpose of promoting the welfare and health of children throughout the state, Dr. Miller stated, and while the work has been principally of dental nature recently some relief has been given children of indigent families in various localities.

Figures showing the amount of dental work done by fund dentists during the past six months were quoted and were prodigious. In most of the cases the work would have been unnecessary had proper care been taken of the teeth. He also pointed out that care of even the baby teeth is needed.

As the result of improved dental condition, the speaker said that children showed better health and also better work scholastically.

A brief resume of the work done in Delta county was also given. In Gladstone alone some 200 children in the public and parochial schools have received attention.

Education of the children as to the proper care of teeth is also a phase of the work and towards this end an annual dental health poster contest is conducted, an event in which the local club cooperates. A number of the posters entered in a contest which closed recently were presented with pertinent remarks as the speaker concluded his address.

B. D. Kuhn, Menominee, county agricultural agent, was a guest at the meeting.

St. Paul's Church Selects Officers

Harvey Karnitz was elected president at the annual meeting of voting members of St. Paul's Lutheran church, held here Sunday afternoon. Charles Fitzlaff was selected as treasurer and Rufus Karnitz as secretary. All offices are for the year 1934. Chas. Fitzlaff was chosen as deacon for the next three years and Clarence Olson was named as trustee for a similar period. Olson and Owen Longberry will serve on the finance committee.

Mrs. Max Neumann Heads Ladies' Aid

Mrs. Max Neumann was elected head of the Ladies' Aid society of St. Martin's Lutheran church of Rapid River at the annual meeting held last Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Buehler at Rapid. Mrs. Wm. Turant was named secretary and Mrs. James Flinn, treasurer.

Mrs. B. D. Kuhn and daughter, Joyce, who have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Kuhn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Skellenger, returned to their home in Menominee Monday.

AIRPORT SITE IS APPROVED

Landing Field To Be Built on Bluff as Civil Works Project

Approval of an airport site located on the bluff several miles south of Gladstone was given by Lieut. Col. Floyd Evens, director of the state board of aeronautics, while in Delta county last week-end to inspect airport sites.

The project has been approved by the county welfare commission as a civil works and a crew of approximately 30 men have already been put to work clearing and improving the property. Lieut. Walter Arntzen and Emmet Meehan are directing the work for the road commission which is in charge. The crew will later be increased to approximately 50 men, it is understood.

The site, located on the bluff about opposite the intersection of the highways below Terrace Gardens, contains 160 acres. It can be purchased at a nominal price or may be had under a long-term lease at low rental.

Christmas Party

Mrs. Gaspard Page was the guest of honor at a delightful Christmas party held at her home Saturday evening in celebration of her birthday anniversary. The party was arranged by Mrs. F. J. Miller, Mrs. M. J. Neveaux, and Mrs. Milton Damitz.

During the evening bridge was played, three tables being formed. A tasty luncheon was served at the close of the bridge games.

Surprised on Birthday

Twenty friends gathered at the Andrew G. Johnson home, 1107 Minnesota avenue, Thursday afternoon and pleasantly surprised Mrs. Johnson on the occasion of her birthday anniversary. The party was arranged by Mrs. Fred Hawkinson.

Five hundred and bridge were the diversions of the afternoon and at the close a tasty luncheon was served. Mrs. Johnson received several pretty gifts.

Byron's Party

On Saturday afternoon Byron Norton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Norton, 711 Michigan avenue, was host to five of his little friends at a party given in observance of his fourth birthday anniversary.

The youngsters enjoyed games during the afternoon and a lovely birthday luncheon was served.

Byron had as his guests Susanne Tischer, Joyce Kuhn of Menominee, Marilyn Stock, Glen Wilson, and Danny Lynch.

Some Tuberculosis Sanatoria Are Pressed For Funds

Death is shadowing Michigan's Christmas this year.

"In many counties the tax-supported care of the tuberculosis has been abandoned and in others its end is not far off," declared Dr. Bruce H. Douglas, president of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association yesterday.

"Several tuberculosis sanatoriums are in critical financial straits and may be compelled to turn out their patients. This means that poverty-stricken men and women are either now out on their own or will be soon—turned loose in their communities to increase their own sickness and to infect others. That means Death."

Such a situation, he warned Christmas seal salesmen, calls for re-doubled efforts on the part of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

"In many places, the Christmas seal alone is left to protect the public. Last summer, lack of finances forced one sanatorium to close its children's building, shutting out boys and girls who through no fault of their own were infected with a deadly disease. Another sanatorium has never had money enough to equip its children's building."

"Means must be found, and found by the Christmas seal, to safeguard Michigan from the results of dropping proper public health standards because of a lack of money. No community, no individual is safe until all are safe. Funds from the sale of Christmas seals are left as the only way the common man can be assured of more sanatorium beds and fewer deaths from tuberculosis in this state."

"We have reached a crisis in a peace-time emergency and we cannot drop our guard. The work of the Christmas seal must go forward, until parents may be sure their children are safe from tuberculosis and children may know they won't be left fatherless or motherless. The fight must go on!"

TAX COLLECTION STARTED HERE

Delinquent Special Assessments Also Spread on Roll

Collection of the winter, or state, county and school taxes, was officially begun yesterday at the city clerk's office. The amount to be collected for all purposes totals $40,415.39.

The rate per thousand dollars of assessed valuation is $17.09 in comparison with $38.85 per thousand a year ago. This is considerably less than half. Besides the state, county and school taxes, there are levies for county and school debt service.

In addition to the current taxes a total of $4,932.20 in delinquent special assessments has also been added to the roll as prescribed by the city charter.

The delinquencies, according to project, are as follows:

Minnesota Ave., paving, $864.43; East Minnesota sewer, $264.46; Delta Ave., sewer, $119.79; Ninth Street paving, $175.86; Dakota Ave., sewer, $305.03; Michigan Ave., paving, $549.64; Montana Ave., sewer, $451.25; Wisconsin Ave., paving, $1,954.51; Superior Ave., sewer, $116.17; West Minnesota Ave., sewer, $126.62.

John Daley, of St. Ignace, attended the funeral services held here Saturday for J. W. Gilligan.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Raredon and family have moved from Cherry street to their new home on Oak street.

Miss Elsie LaBar is expected home today from Detroit where she has been spending the past two weeks visiting with her brother, Wesley, and other relatives and friends.

Carl Yoder returned home Sunday evening from Sault Ste. Marie where he underwent a minor operation at the Memorial hospital and is convalescing favorably. He was accompanied by the Misses Margaret Stone, Bertha and Mildred Linderoth, who had been visiting there with friends.

Road Officials Say All Highways Open

One of the worst blizzards of the season struck Manistique and vicinity Sunday. Fine snow, driven by a strong gale, obscured vision and made driving precarious. Thermometers at the court house and county garage registered three above during the night, while on the west side of the city the mercury went down as low as three below.

County road officials stated yesterday morning that the snowfall interfered with traffic but little and that principal highways are easily passable. Highways M-28, US-2, M-94, and M-77, are all negotiable. Greatest snowfall occurred on M-77 north of Seney where six inches were recorded.

Grading Road Into New State Park

Construction of a new road into the new state park at the south side of Indian Lake is now being undertaken by a crew of men under the direction of Lawrence Cook who has recently been placed in charge as a successor to Mr. McGarry. Grading and clean-up work are the immediate projects as is the removal of underbrush, while a bathhouse will be erected in the spring. A warehouse was completed about a month ago.

Mr. Cook came here from Camp Hawkes, a Civilian Conservation Corps camp near Alpena. He is a graduate of Michigan State college.

SOCIAL

Evening Party

Complimentary to Mrs. Mauritz Carlson a delightful evening party was held Saturday at the home of Mrs. Lee Stewart, 191 North Cedar street.

Three tables of bridge were formed by the guests and prizes in the games were awarded to Mrs. V. F. Lang, high score, and Miss Monica McConnell, second high. Dainty refreshments were served at the close of the evening, and the guest of honor was presented with a pretty gift.

HARRY KIPKE TO SPEAK MONDAY

Famous Michigan Coach to Bring Movies of Wolverine Plays

Famous Michigan plays, including "old 83," a trick play which has won many a game for the Wolverines, will be shown on the screen at the Elks' temple next Monday evening when Harry G. Kipke, youngest and most successful coach in the Big Ten, will be here to hand local football fans some of the inside information which has enabled University of Michigan teams to hang up the greatest record in modern football history. Kipke's services were secured through the efforts of the Manistique University of Michigan Alumni club.

Those who desire to hear Mr. Kipke, an interesting and fluent speaker as well as a great grid mentor, are urged to communicate with Herbert K. Peterson, secretary of the local U. of M. club. As accomodations can be made for only 50 persons it is advised that tickets be obtained well in advance.

The banquet, which is being sponsored by the local U. of M. club, Chamber of Commerce, and Rotary club, will commence at 6:30 o'clock and tickets will sell for $1.00 per plate. Those in charge state that reservations will be made only on the basis of the number of advance tickets sold. The meeting will be open to the general public as well as to members of the above named organizations.

In addition to the address at the Elks' temple, Coach Kipke will also speak to local high school students either at 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, or if more convenient, on Friday morning.

New City Projects Slated Under CWA

Several new projects for the relief of local unemployed have been given approval by the county Civil Works commission and sent to the state commission for approval, it was stated yesterday. They include work on city streets, redecoration of the city hall, and repair of the former Charcoal Iron company roundhouse. Other tentative projects which are being submitted to the local commission include various repair jobs on township schools and a project at the state hatchery at Thompson which is expected to absorb quite a number of city unemployed if approval is granted.

It is planned to make a city shop out of the Charcoal Iron company structure in which to store municipal equipment. It is believed that this can be accomplished with but very little expense in materials, but would provide a fine proportionate share of work.

Street projects are in the nature of extension work on Caribou street eastward from Front street to Mackinac avenue and on Potter street south.

City projects upon which men are now being employed are at Riverside park and on the playground site at the old quarry east of the Inland Lime and Stone company office. Work will also be accomplished on the Lakeshore park project which has already been given tentative approval by the state commission.

Estimates of the cost of the various city projects are as follows:

Potter street, $5,000; Caribou street, $7,500; Riverside Park, $2,500; Lakeside Park, $500; Playground, $7,500; City Hall, $925; Charcoal Iron building, $1,600.

Gilligan Obsequies Attended By Many

Impressive and solemn rites were held Saturday afternoon for John Wesley Gilligan, prominent local resident whose sudden death occurred early last Thursday morning. Services were held from the family residence, 202 Lake street, with Rev. S. T. Bottrell, pastor of the First Methodist church, delivering the sermon. A fine eulogy was presented by Thad Leland, of Detroit, and a quartet composed of Mrs. H. H. Hargreaves, Mrs. Charles Reilley, Harold Cockram and Leonard Males, sang several appropriate selections.

The services were attended by numberous friends of the deceased and the many floral offerings which surrounded the casket paid mute tribute to the esteem in which the deceased was held.

Pallbearers were D. J. Ward, P. P. Stamness, J. C. Wood, Harry Eriksen, G. S. Johnson, and W. G. Stenhens. Interment was made in Lakeview cemetery under the direction of Sven Johnson, local mortician.

During the services, from the hours of 2:30 to 4 p. m. local stores ceased business in respect to the memory of the deceased.

Joseph N. Chenord, Former Manistique Resident Is Dead

Joseph N. Chenord, 66, former well known resident of Schoolcraft county, passed away yesterday morning at 5:45 at the Garden hospital.

Death was due to complication of diseases, Mr. Chenord having been in ill health for the past six years. He had been a resident of Manistique Heights for 38 years and during the past eight years had operated a gas station at Garden Junction. For 30 years he held the post of Schoolcraft county surveyor and about 12 years ago served as supervisor of Hiawatha township for two terms.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete pending word from a sister in California but are expected to be held either Wednesday or Thursday morning. The remains are being prepared by Gunnarson and Kefauver, and will be taken to the home of a daughter, Mrs. Frank Weber, tannery location, prior to the funeral services.

Doctors Give Creosote For Dangerous Coughs

For many years our best doctors have prescribed creosote in some form for coughs, colds and bronchitis, knowing how dangerous it is to let them hang on.

Creomulsion with creosote and six other highly important medicinal elements, quickly and effectively stops all coughs and colds that otherwise might lead to serious trouble.

Creomulsion is powerful in the treatment of all colds and coughs, yet it is absolutely harmless and is pleasant and easy to take.

Your own druggist guarantees Creomulsion by refunding your money if you are not relieved after taking Creomulsion as directed. Beware the cough or cold that hangs on. Always keep Creomulsion on hand for instant use. (adv.)
